HUIET FACES PAY ROLL CRISIS TOMORROW AS STATE AND U. S. WITHHOLD ALL FUNDS

Britain, France Will Fight To Save Rumania, Greece

COUNTRIES FORGE POWERFUL LINKS AGAINST FASCISTS

Daladier Reveals Military Measures Taken to Protect French People From 'All Surprise.'

LONDON, April 13.—(AP) Great Britain and France put the full military might of their empires behind Rumania and Greece today in an effort to forestall possible aggression by Germany and Italy.

Already pledged to fight for Poland, they extended unequivocal commitments from the Baltic in northern Europe to coast lines washed by the Black, Aegean and Ionic seas.

The anti-aggression bloc now represents the greatest European alliance since the World War.

The new pledges were announced in a declaration read to the house of commons in emergency session by Prime Minister Chamberlain and a statement issued in Paris by Premier Daladier.

Reviews Invasion.

Chamberlain, after reviewing Italy's Good Friday invasion of Albania, said:

"His Majesty's government attach the greatest importance to the avoidance of disturbance by force or threats of force of the status quo in the Mediterranean and the Balkan peninsula.

"Consequently, they have come to the conclusion that, in the event of any action being taken which clearly threatens the independence of Greece and Rumania, and which the Greek or Rumanian governments respectively consider it vital to resist with their national forces, His Majesty's government will feel themselves bound to lend at once to the Greek or Rumanian government, as the case might be, all the support in their power."

French Prepared.

Daladier's statement in Paris was similar, with the prefatory announcement that France had taken "the military measures which guarantee the frontiers of France and her empire against all surprise," as was a declaration before the house of lords by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

Chamberlain also announced

Youth Bleeds to Death To Shield Playmate

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Rather than tell his parents that he had been accidentally stabbed by a playmate throwing a knife at a billboard target, 12-year-old Jack Grant sat on the stoop of his Brooklyn home today and bled to death.

"You'd better tell your mother," said his companions who trailed him home after he walked into the path of the flying 4-inch blade. His father, who operates a garage near by, was attracted by the crowd and dashed home to find the boy doubled up with the knife still in his chest.

SUSIE

UP A TREE.

It's Monkey Business But Susie's Free

Best Coaxers Fail to Lure Escaped Animal Back to Zoo.

It began to look a little like Susie didn't want to come home.

Four days yesterday she'd been gone, and neither food nor nets nor the coaxings and grabbings of the best coaxers and grabbers on the staff of Uncle Matt Leonard, zoo keeper at Grant park, could lure her back to the old screened home with the rest of the monkey boys and girls.

Susie remained aloft, except, of course, when undisciplined visitors to the park offered her eggs or bananas or other morsels.

By a sixth sense, Susie knew friend from foe—and she was off like the hunter's hound when a would-be captor came along. Her favorite perch was the highest tree in the park, although observers said that in her four days of liberty this trip—she got out last year, too—she's hardly overlooked a tree in the whole reservation.

For a moment yesterday, L. P. Cheatham, park electrician, and Buddy Haskins, his assistant, thought they had Susie. But they were wrong. Susie had them. She bit briefly into Haskins' arm, and departed in the ensuing confusion.

"That's a smart monkey," Uncle Matt admitted last night. "And if folks don't quit feeding her, so she'll get hungry, she may stay loose for weeks."

Eerie sounds were heard in the distance. If monkeys guffaw, then Susie was guffawing.

CRACKERS MEET LOOKOUTS TODAY IN SEASON OPENER

By JACK TROY.

It has been said that anticipation often is greater than realization. But that hardly holds true where baseball is concerned, and especially on opening day.

If it had been arranged a year in advance, today's opener between Chattanooga and Atlanta could not be more of a natural.

With the Lookout lineup liberally sprinkled with former Atlanta stars and the Crackers heralded as one of the fastest nines in organized baseball, the fans are offered a brilliant opener, starting at 3:30 o'clock.

Johnny Chambers, Atlanta boy, and Luman Harris are the rival pitchers. Chambers has pitched all over the minor leagues, while Harris has been a member of the Cracker club for the last two years. Both are right-handers.

New Lookout Pilot.

The Lookouts have a new manager, Kiki Cuyler, former big leaguer, and eight new starters in the regular lineup, including such ex-Crackers as Alex Hooks, Jim Galvin and Eddie Rose.

Atlanta is starting with only three players who were not here last year. These three are Alf Anderson, second base; Jim Burge, left field, and John Rucker, center field.

The Crackers, of course, are the defending champions, and a recent poll of Southern association baseball writers gave them a total of 14 out of 16 votes to finish first again.

An opening day crowd of between 16,000 and 17,000 is expected today on the basis of advance sales. Clear weather is in prospect.

No 1939 Parade.

The usual opening day parade has been abandoned and pre-game ceremonies will begin at Ponce de Leon park at 3 o'clock. President Trammell Scott, through the medium of a telephone hookup, will converse with managers in the other three towns—New Orleans, Memphis and Nashville.

A novel stunt in baseball, the conversation will be picked up by the public address system and relayed to the fans.

The customary march to the flag pole for the pennant and flag-raising ceremony will precede the game. Players of both teams and notables will be in the line of march. Music will be supplied by a boys' band from Chattanooga and the state military girls' band of Atlanta.

GEORGE ATTACKS ROOSEVELT STAND ON FOREIGN POLICY

Declares Legislation Authorizing President to Name Aggressor Is First Step Toward War.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Directing pointed criticism at the administration's foreign policy, Senator George, of Georgia, in a brief but vigorous speech on the floor late today, served notice that he would not vote for any legislation giving the President authority to name the aggressor nation in the event of war.

"When we name the aggressor," he declared to a crowded chamber, "we have taken the first step toward war, and within six months after that we would find ourselves involved."

Mail From Home Heavy.

Joining in an advance discussion of neutrality legislation, now being considered by the senate foreign relations committee, of which he is the second ranking majority member, the Georgia senator said the country had been disturbed by President Roosevelt's utterances on the foreign situation. Since the President's now famous statement on leaving Warm Springs last Sunday, to the effect that he would be back in the fall "if we don't have a war," Senator George said his mail had been filled with letters from people expressing alarm over the war situation.

People Alarmed.

"The American people," he asserted, "have become excited and disturbed over the prospects of our becoming involved in any European conflict. They have a right to know what the attitude of this government is.

"I desire to serve notice now that I will not vote for any measure that gives the President the right to say who the aggressor is in the event of war, for to take that step is to take a step in the direction of war. When we name the aggressor we have taken the first steps toward war, and within six months the streets of American cities will again resound with the tread of marching feet of boys going to war."

Declaring there was no justification for our becoming involved

MORE TO BE FIRED IN ECONOMY DRIVE

New Governor's Order To Bring Total Dismissals in State Work to 550.

Chairman W. L. Miller, of the State Highway Board, told the economy investigating committee yesterday an executive order for 25 per cent cut in maintenance costs would result in further dismissals by the highway department bringing the total to more than 460.

A total of 260 highway workers, including many engineers and technical assistants, already have been blue-pencilled by Governor E. D. Rivers, plus about 90 in other departments of the state government. Miller said the highway board would determine dismissals under the maintenance economy order. He estimated these would run "from 200 to 250" employes.

The board's action would increase the total number of dismissals from the state service to approximately 550.

All Road Work Suspended.

Miller told the investigating committee executive orders of the Governor had suspended all future road work, including state-aid projects, post roads, and renewals of county contracts for convict labor.

He explained, however, the board planned to ask special executive approval for continuance of federal-aid work and also renewal of convict contracts.

"We will contend both of these are emergency programs, since the federal funds will be lost after

Henry F. McElroy Resigns As Manager of Kansas City

Wiry 73-Year-Old Official Had Held Position Under Democratic Boss Pendergast for 13 Years; Mayor Reaches for Greater Power.

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP)—White-haired Henry F. McElroy today quit the city manager's post he held 13 years under Boss Tom Pendergast's Democratic organization, now under the withering fire of federal-state vice, fraud and graft drives.

Mayor Bryce B. Smith announced the resignation and its immediate acceptance. Smith earlier reached for greater power in the city's management and proclaimed Kansas City "clean" after the many-sided purging activities.

McElroy's resignation, written last night, said simply:

Smith, although elected with Pendergast support, originally was aligned with a rival Democratic faction.

A new sector—illicit alcohol—was attacked by federal agents just before the small, 60-year-old mayor announced he would "step beyond the limitations placed upon me by the charter" to keep the city "clean."

Alcohol Seized.

On the heels of yesterday's major narcotic roundup, the agents, operatives of the Treasury's Alcohol Tax Unit, swooped down on "Little Italy," dingy northside sector which was Pendergast's first political stronghold, and seized 300 gallons of untaxed alcohol.

The contraband was stored in a secret cavern adjacent to the home of Charles Crapisi, charged yesterday with 12 other men as a narcotics dealer. W. G. Malsie, district supervisor of the alcohol unit, said the seizure tore a "big link in the illicit Kansas City alcohol ring."

Twenty-four men were in the gang, Malsie said, but only Crapisi was under arrest.

McElroy has stayed in the news ever since 1926 when he became Kansas City's first city manager.

As a chief lieutenant of the T. J. Pendergast organization, he has been its most fiery spokesman.

He became a national figure in 1933 when he went alone to a country road rendezvous with the kidnapers of his pretty daughter, Mary. There he paid the $30,000 ransom that brought her safely home.

Makes Front Page.

He suggested a dose of castor oil to the late Senator Royal S. Copeland when the New Yorker listed Kansas City among the nation's "crime spots."

To Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves' charge that Kansas City businessmen were in the grip of a "reign of terror," McElroy answered:

"I never engage in an endurance contest with a polecat."

Repeatedly he slashed salaries of all city employes for the last few months of each fiscal year to keep the city's budget balanced.

AIR LINE WORKERS STAGE WALKOUT

Atlanta Mechanics Join Strike Throughout System; No Disorders.

Twelve mechanics of Eastern Air Lines at Candler field joined a system-wide strike at the 11 o'clock "deadline" last night, Henry Moreau, national vice president of the Air Lines Mechanics' Association and chairman of the local unit of the organization, reported.

No disorders occurred. Moreau said helpers and ship cleaners were pressed into service to fill posts vacated by the strikers. He added there was no interruption in plane service and none was anticipated "for the present."

Other Eastern Air Lines points reported men on strike, under a call issued by A. P. Martin, president of the union, who said the walkout was brought about by a breakdown of negotiations between a mediation board and Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Air Line president. Principal issue is wages.

The strike became effective at midnight at points in the eastern standard time zone.

At Miami, union officials reported all but four of 80 mechanics on strike.

At New Orleans, two mechanics and a helper said they would remain at work.

At Chicago, union officials said 375 of the 400 mechanics on the system would walk out.

British Naval Men Ordered to Ships

MALTA, April 13.—(AP)—Officers and men of the British fleet concentrated at this naval base were unexpectedly ordered tonight to report on board their ships by midnight.

(In London the admiralty said it had no information on the subject.)

Policeman Arrests Mule For Traffic Violation

ECONOMY PROBERS TOLD DEPARTMENT IS VIOLATING LAW

Commissioner Withdraws His Statement Against Rivers as Governor Denies Using Pressure.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Turbulent affairs of the State Labor Department are headed for a new crisis tomorrow, with the development yesterday that no funds will be available to pay salaries—not even that of Commissioner Ben T. Huiet.

The financial impasse was seen nearing as the house economy committee heard charges from Representative Cicero Kendrick that the department is "not functioning according to law" and also heard Huiet, after a vehement denial by Governor Rivers, withdrew statements that George Stewart was added to the labor department budget on information or inference that Stewart "would help the department get along better."

Admits Asking Help.

Confronted by Governor Rivers in a showdown hearing before the economy investigating committee late today, the stocky labor commissioner admitted:

1. He, himself, solicited intermediary assistance of George Stewart, young Atlanta attorney, to obtain executive approval of his departmental budget.

2. He authorized, in a midnight telephone conversation with Stewart, the insertion in the budget of J. E. B. Stewart, a dismissed factory inspector.

Meanwhile, the economy committee arranged for an investigation of Kendrick's charges.

State Auditor Zack Arnold said that while Rivers had approved an outlay of approximately $4,177 for the quarter by Huiet's department, the chief executive had not approved the personnel and therefore no funds could be withdrawn from the treasury.

No Federal Approval.

Meanwhile, Director L. P. James, of the division of unemployment compensation, revealed the Social Security Board and federal Department of Labor have not approved the budget for that part of the pay roll met with federal funds. Unless approval is forthcoming by tomorrow, employes cannot be paid.

Government funds represent approximately $225,000, of 75 per cent of the $300,000 appropriation for the Department of Labor for the year.

James revealed the federal gov-

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

America's greatest danger in all this European mess, according to Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion, comes from that section of our population which sits in our comfortable grandstand seats yelling hoarse notes of encouragement to this favorite or that favorite among the perspiring contestants fumbling their plays in the world political arena.

It's fine, advises Chadwick, for America to watch Europe, but we should watch her only to keep ourselves informed. We should not, he sums up, let the tough breaks of this side or the other allow us to be inflamed with an impulse to hop in and settle it all.

"It's their mess," in his own words. "We should keep our nose out of it."

FRESH PEACH ROLL.

Sift together two cups pastry flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder and two tablespoons sugar. Rub in with finger tips four tablespoons of butter. Add gradually seven-eighths cup of sweet milk and make into a soft dough. Roll out in sheet form about half inch thick and dot with butter, cover with sliced ripe peaches, sprinkle with brown sugar and roll like a jelly roll. Cut in uniform pieces about two and a half or three inches wide, place in a buttered pan and pour over a sauce made with one cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, half teaspoon salt and one cup boiling water cooked together for three minutes; add one teaspoon butter and a few drops of vanilla and pour over the peach rolls. Bake in a moderate oven for about 35 minutes.

CUCUMBER-ENDIVE SALAD.

Trim most of the green ends of endives and cut in inch lengths, peel one medium sized cucumber and one onion, slice them and dice in small pieces; dice one stalk of celery and add to the other greens. Make a dressing of three tablespoons bacon drippings, two-thirds cup vinegar and mixed seasonings of two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon salt, half teaspoon black pepper; blend with one-third cup cold water and add to the bacon and vinegar; heat and pour over the salad; allow this to stand for at least 30 minutes before serving.

A New Way To Serve an Old Favorite

Molded potato salad with a cheese mask is a grand new way to serve your favorite potato salad recipe. Your family is bound to rave that potato salad served in this manner tastes better than ever. The recipe for this springtime menu, is easy to prepare. Use a bread pan for a mold and garnish with green pepper rings, pickles, eggs and cold sliced meats.

MOLDED POTATO SALAD.

Potato salad is a year-round favorite, good any time of year. There are all sorts of recipes and variations. Some people use mayonnaise, others a boiled dressing. You may like to pour a bit of French dressing on the warm cubed potatoes and let them stand several hours, then add the minced onion, chopped celery, or sour dill pickles, mayonnaise and hard-cooked egg.

CHEESE MASK.

¾ pound American cheese
4 tablespoonfuls cream
½ cup cream, whipped
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoonfuls diced pimento

Combine the cheese cut in small pieces, and the cream in the top of a double boiler; when smooth remove from fire. Fold in whipped cream, mayonnaise and pimento. Chill and spread on salad mold. Chill again, garnish and serve.

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST.
Shrimp Recipes.

"'Gwine t'stan' on de cawnah wid mah mouf poked out, mah honey.'

"The above sentiments of the Louisiana darkey are the same as those of my family," writes Mrs. Thomas J. McKinnon, 3482 Peachtree road, Atlanta, "so I am delighted that we are to have an exchange of shrimp recipes. Your suggestions and recipes are so thoroughly practical and usable."

Shrimp Salad.

Run a quart of boiled and picked shrimp through the meat grinder. Put in a saucepan with salt, pepper mace and two tablespoons of butter. Heat thoroughly and place into molds, pressing down very hard with a spoon pouring melted butter over top. Place in refrigerator, and when cold slice and serve. This makes a delicious hors d'oeuvre or an addition to a tomato salad.

A new twist for a familiar dish makes this recipe of C. A. Reed's, P. O. Box 187, Smyrna, Ga., a most delicious and flavorsome morsel.

"Shrimp—Men's Way."

2 pounds fresh shrimp
½ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 16-oz. can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup sherry wine
½ teaspoon salt
Toast points

Cook the shrimp for about 25 minutes in the boiling water to cover, to which the vinegar has been added. Drain; shell and remove the black vein running the length of the back of each shrimp. Melt the butter, add the flour and blend. Add the soup and cook over low heat until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add the shrimp and heat well. Just before serving add the wine and salt. Serve on toast points. Serves four. To serve two or three, make half this recipe.

Here is a delicious soup, hearty and spicy, just the way menfolks like it.

Shrimp and Tomato Soup.

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup diced old English cheese
1 cup tomato soup
⅛ teaspoon soda
2 cups canned shrimp

Make white sauce of first three ingredients; add cheese and tomato soup to which soda has been added. Add shrimp. Serve hot.

Grape and Pear Salad.
(Three Portions.)

3 halves pears
½ cup seeded grapes
2 tablespoons chopped, candied ginger
⅛ cup nuts
1-3 cup salad dressing

Veal and Noodles, Creamed.

3 tablespoons butter or gravy
2 tablespoons minced onions
3 tablespoons minced celery
1 cup diced cooked veal
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon minced parsley
2 cups cooked noodles
2 cups milk

Heat butter in a frying pan. Add onions and celery. Cover and let simmer for four minutes. Add veal and cook until veal has browned slightly. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Then add rest of ingredients. Cook three minutes.

Vegetable Medley Savory.

½ cup cooked carrots
½ cup cooked lima beans
½ cup cooked turnips
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons catsup

NOODLE AND BACON CAKES.

Cook one package of fine egg noodles until tender, drain and add three eggs beaten with quarter cup of milk. Dice quarter pound of bacon and fry until light brown; add to the noodle mixture; mince one tablespoon of onion cut as fine as possible, add with salt, pepper and crisped bacon to the noodle mixture, beat well and fry in the form of pancakes in hot butter or bacon fat.

P.-T. A Urged To Back Band Festival

A plea for members of every Parent - Teacher Association in this district to co-operate in making the Fifth District Band Festival, April 21, a big success was sounded yesterday by Mrs. J. Elmer Slider, president of the Fifth District P.-T. A.

Expressing appreciation to The Constitution for sponsoring the official band festival, Mrs. Slider urged all the members to help in every way to support the school bands which are entered in the event scheduled to be held Friday, April 21, at the city auditorium during the day and at Grant field that night.

"I am taking this method of asking every mother and father of school age children to co-operate in stirring up interest in the bands," said she.

"Music plays a very important part in every life and it is of vital importance in the lives of our children. The festival, which promises to be most interesting and colorful, will aptly illustrate what music and bands mean to school children.

"Approximately 600 students from a score of schools are going to take part in the various events of the festival and they will represent both the city and the county schools of this district.

"The children have worked hard preparing for the festival and they are not only talented but are anxious to show their parents and friends just what they can do.

"It is up to us of the P.-T. A. to go out of our way during these next few days and urge our friends and neighbors to attend the festival at the auditorium and Grant field," Mrs. Slider stated.

"There will be plenty of seats for everyone at the 'pageant of music' under the floodlights of Grant field," she added.

Mrs. Slider praised the selection of Graham T. Overgard, noted band leader, to judge the various competitive events and to direct the huge, "million-dollar band" which will play as the climax to the night performance.

MRS. J. ELMER SLIDER.

More than 500 students will play in the massed band—the largest musical assembly ever to perform in Atlanta.

DEKALB COMMENDS ASSEMBLY GROUP

Diligent Service Cited by Druid Hills Body.

A resolution commending the DeKalb county delegation in the state assembly for "diligent, conscientious and intelligent service," has been adopted by the Druid Hills Civic Association.

Copies of the resolution, signed by H. T. Dobbs, president of the association, and William J. Cordes, chairman of the legislative committee, were mailed to Representatives Murphey Candler Jr., Augustine Sams and Mell Turner, and Senator Paul L. Lindsay.

CITY NETS $50,000 IN PARK LOT DEAL

City Hall Site Traded for Auditorium Plot.

Atlanta was $50,000 richer yesterday and had deeds to the triangular plot fronting the auditorium as exchange of the old city hall site for the park area was being pressed to rapid completion.

The public works committee recommended repavement of streets surrounding the property under a 10-year baby bond plan and authorized Mayor Hartsfield to sign for the city.

The triangle must be used exclusively as a park for at least 20 years.

KITCHEN COMMENTS.

By SALLY SAVER.

Nasturtiums for Food.

In South America nasturtiums are more often grown for food than for their flowers. Small leaves, tender shoots and buds are considered delicacies in mixed salads. The pickled pods are used much as we use capers.

For Working Comfort.

Be sure that you have a work table that is of a comfortable height. If too high, table legs can be sawed off; if too low, raise the table by means of casters. See that the table has knee room, so that you can sit on a stool to work, even if this means dispensing with the center drawer of your table.

To Chop Nut Meats.

An easy way to chop nut meats is to place the nuts in a paper bag and roll the rolling pin over the bag. This breaks the nuts quickly without scattering them.

Insure Whiter Rice.

Adding a teaspoon of lemon juice to the water in which rice is boiled will insure whiter, fluffier rice.

Decorate Lettuce Leaves.

Lettuce leaves for salads can be decorated attractively by dipping the tips of the leaves in a bowl of water over which a little paprika has been sprinkled.

Keep Powdered Sugar Smooth.

Keep powdered sugar from lumping by placing it in an airtight container immediately after opening the package. A fruit jar serves very nicely for this purpose.

New Muffin Flavor.

Try dropping a teaspoonful of peanut butter into each compartment of your muffin tin before pouring in the batter. This gives the muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

Cardboard Pattern for Cakes.

To cut fancy cakes from a layer cake without using a special cutter, make a cardboard pattern of the desired shape and, placing it over the cake, cut around it with a sharp knife.

BAKED HAM IN GRAPE JUICE.

If you want one of the nicest of all meat dishes for late summer dishes, try baking a two-inch slice of ham in white grape juice. Soak the ham over night in euough grape juice to cover. Drain and place in an enameled baking pan with enough fresh grape juice to cover. Add two or three cloves and a small piece of stick cinnamon, cover and bake for 20 minutes then uncover and bake until ham is lightly browned, basting often with the juices in the pan. Sweet potatoes, previously cooked, may be placed around the ham, dotted with butter, sprinkled with a little brown sugar and browned with the meat after the lid is removed. Or serve with the ham some fluffy mashed sweet potatoes placed in au gratin dish, dotted with butter and lightly browned.

WINSHIP'S REMOVAL SUGGESTED TO F.D.R.

Congressman Charges Puerto Rico Governor With Gross Negligence.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Representative Marcantonio, New York, asserted after a White House call today he had suggested to President Roosevelt the removal of Blanton Winship, Governor of Puerto Rico.

The New Yorker, who has a large Puerto Rican colony in his district, said he told the President a pay roll scandal existed in the Puerto Rican senate, that Winship could not have helped knowing of it, and that "this is sufficient to warrant removal on grounds of gross negligence."

He said he informed Mr. Roosevelt the attorney general of Puerto Rico, Fernando Garcia, through an assistant, Campos Del Toro, had been making an investigation of the situation and a preliminary report had been sent to Ernest H. Gruening, director of the Interior Department's division of territories and insular possessions.

"I charged that Gruening suppressed it," Marcantonio said. "In that report, one of the things brought out is that there were 356 employes on the senate pay roll, only 100 of whom actually worked.

"Of the remaining 256, some drew checks without working, and in other cases senators or other persons cashed the checks. That condition could not have existed without the knowledge of the auditor, who is responsible to the Governor, or the knowledge of the Governor."

He added that while Winship had a contingent fund of $75,000, the Governor "put a lot of politicians on the pay roll but said he had no funds to help finance the investigation of the senate."

COLONEL MONCRIEF RETIRES FROM POST

Retirement of Colonel William Moncrief, of Atlanta, commander of the Army-Navy General hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., one of the nation's largest service hospitals, was announced yesterday by fourth corps area headquarters.

A member of the army medical corps since the Spanish-American War, Colonel Moncrief was reared here, and graduated from the old Southern Medical College and has been stationed at army posts both here and in territorial possessions. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

He is the brother of R. L. Moncrief, of Newnan, and of Mrs. F. S. Irby, of Kirkwood. In addition, he has several nephews and nieces in Atlanta, including David E. Moncrief, A. F. Irby, Mrs. Clifford Ragsdale and Miss Dorothy Moncrief.

4-LANE HIGHWAYS INTO CITY URGED

Council Group Would Include All Roads; Mayor Confers on Underpasses.

Four-lane traffic highways for all major state and federal roads leading into Atlanta were urged yesterday by the public works committee of city council.

At the same time, Mayor Hartsfield and Senator G. Everett Millican conferred informally on a move to expedite the projected erection of two North avenue underpasses to relieve traffic congestion.

Patrolmen Found Not Guilty

P. E. Jones and J. T. Mitchell Exonerated of Bribery Charges by Court; Both Are Freed.

Patrolmen P. E. Jones and J. T. Mitchell yesterday were exonerated of bribery charges as Judge John D. Humphries, of superior court, directed a verdict of not guilty on all four counts of an indictment alleging "protection" to underworld operators.

The dramatic end came soon after the state rested its case. William Schley Howard, defense counsel, moved for a directed verdict, contending the evidence offered was insufficient to convict.

Police Chief Hornsby last night said he would look into the cases today and, if facts warranted it," would ask the police committee to reinstate the men.

Judge Humphries excused the jury to hear extended arguments from E. E. Andrews, prosecutor, and Howard. When they finished Judge Humphries agreed with Howard the evidence in three counts of the indictment was insufficient but said he was willing to submit one of the counts in which there had been direct testimony of payments.

Andrews was asked for his view of the evidence in this count. It was cited that Byron Shaw, former bug racketeer and now a federal prisoner, had been impeached by his own testimony.

The prosecutor agreed that the only corroborative testimony in support of Shaw came from Garfield Clark, a negro, whom the prosecution also had attacked.

Judge Humphries then thanked Andrews for his "frankness and courage in discussing the matter," and directed the acquittal.

VAN NUYS ELECTION UPHELD BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) The senate dismissed today the petition of Raymond E. Willis, Indiana Republican, contesting the election of Senator Van Nuys, Democrat, Indiana.

The senate acted on a voice vote without debate shortly after its elections committee filed a report recommending that the action be taken.

Law Institute Speaker

J. WARREN MADDEN.

Churches Homes Makes No Move For County Aid

John A. Manget, president of the Churches Homes for Girls, declared yesterday that despite a financial crisis which threatens to close the institution, he had not attempted to obtain county funds under the new contractural arrangement worked out between county commissioners and charitable agencies.

Manget said under the new arrangement only the indigent may be helped, and "our business is to build morale, not to destroy it by calling our girls paupers."

The homes lost a $4,000 annual appropriation when county attorneys ruled the county's method of making lump donations was illegal.

In its place, attorneys worked out an arrangement by which the county can help the indigent by contracting with charitable institutions for definite services.

Blaming the ruling for the present crisis, Manget had written the Community Chest for an increased appropriation and permission to solicit funds. He has also written the city government, begging additions to annual contribution of $2,800.

INSTITUTE ON LABOR LAW TO OPEN HERE

Dean Landis, of Harvard, and Pay-Hour Administrator Andrews To Speak.

Two national figures in the fields of law and labor—Dean James M. Landis, of Harvard Law school, and Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator—will arrive today for a two-day institute on labor law at the Atlanta Athletic Club. A third, J. Warren Madden, chairman of the National Relations Board, will arrive early tomorrow morning.

Sessions of the institute will begin at 7:30 o'clock tonight with Dean Landis speaking on "The Evolution of Labor Law." Andrews will speak at 8:30 o'clock on "Federal Standards for Wages and Hours." Madden will address the institute at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning on the Wagner act.

Other speakers on the program will include Congressman Robert Ramspeck and Pope Brock, Atlanta attorney.

E. Smythe Gambrell, institute director, said lawyers, businessmen and labor leaders will be among those attending the institute, which will be open to the public. He urged anyone desiring to attend to register through Walter G. Cooper Jr.

The institute is sponsored by the Emory University law school and the Atlanta and Georgia Bar Associations. Co-operating are the Lawyers' Club of Atlanta, University of Georgia law school, Mercer University law school, and bar associations of several southeastern states.

ITALY WILL MARCH AHEAD, DUCE WARNS

Fascist Throng Shouts 'On to Paris!'; King To Accept Albanian Crown.

ROME, April 13.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini declared tonight Italy would "march straight ahead" and a huge Fascist throng chanted "On to Paris" after the Fascist grand council sanctioned officially Albania's union with Italy.

The grand council in a 23-minute special session "acknowledged" the Albanian offer of the country's crown to King Vittorio Emanuele III, of Italy, which the King was certain to accept.

The action gave speedy legal form to the Fascist conquest of Albania in the face of the new Anglo-French pledge to resist aggression in the Mediterranean.

Italian authorities announced latter that a delegation of Albanian notables would arrive by airplane to present the crown to King Vittorio Emanuele in a formal ceremony tomorrow morning.

At the conclusion of the grand council meeting shortly before midnight, Il Duce and Achille Starace, Fascist party secretary, appeared on the balcony of Palazzo Venezia and were greeted by a tremendous cheer from the crowd of about 50,000 Fascists gathered below.

Il Duce, interrupted frequently by chants of "France," "On to Paris," and "Tunisia," told the throng:

"The historic events of recent days are the result of our will, of our faith and of our force.

"We go toward friendly peoples in an attitude of friendship; against hostile peoples we will have a clear, decisive, resolute attitude of hostility.

"The world is asked to leave us tranquil in our great and daily task. In any case the world must know that tomorrow, as yesterday and always, we will march straight ahead."

BRITISH REINFORCE GIBRALTAR DEFENSE

Spanish Troopers Crowd Frontier With Field Guns and Tanks.

GIBRALTAR, April 13.—(UP) More than 200 engineers worked tonight, throwing up a strong barricade along the northern frontier separating British territory from Spain.

The fortification was understood to be a precautionary sequel to military activity across the frontier in the Spanish province of Cadiz.

Spanish troops have been arriving in numbers at La Linea, village just across the frontier, since Easter Monday. They came from northern Spain, relieved of duty there by the end of the civil war. With them they brought field guns, machine guns and tanks.

CLIPPER ENDS LEG OF RETURN FLIGHT

Bucks Winds on Southampton-to-Lisbon Trip.

LISBON, Portugal, April 13.—(AP)—The Yankee Clipper, bucking a strong wind, completed the first leg of her return flight to the United States from Southampton today in the official time of 8 hours 30 minutes.

The giant flying boat will take off from the Pan-American airport on the River Tagus at 7 a. m. tomorrow (12 midnight Atlanta time) for the Azores, on the second leg.

She alighted here at 4:15 p. m. after Minister of Commerce Lumbrales, on an unofficial visit, waited three hours to greet the Clipper. An average 30-mile wind delayed the Clipper, carrying 21 crewmen, technicians, and military observers.

GERMAN WARSHIPS SAILING FOR SPAIN

Fleet Units To Hold Maneuvers Off Coast, Britain Advised.

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP)—Several units of the German fleet were reported reliably to have sailed from Kiel late today for spring maneuvers in the Atlantic off the Spanish coast.

Informed quarters said the German government had informed Britain and France of its plans for the navy games.

Official circles, although refusing to reveal the place picked for the exercises, emphasized the preparations had been under way for almost a year.

They cautioned against interpreting the maneuvers as having any connection with the international situation, adding that if Germany feared the time critical, the fleet never would be permitted to go so far from home nor to travel through the English channel.

It was understood that six cruisers, including two of Germany's 10,000-ton pocket battleships, together with destroyer and submarine flotillas had left Kiel.

(In London the Press Association (British news agency) said the exercises would last about a month).

BRITAIN LEADING TO WAR, NAZIS CHARGE

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP)—Nazi Germany answered England's guarantee to Greece and Rumania tonight with assertions that British peace assurances were worthless and charges that British policy was driving Europe into a new "people's murder."

Official quarters said Prime Minister Chamberlain in his parliamentary declaration openly admitted he was trying to encircle Germany.

They interpreted his reference to continuing negotiations with Moscow as an effort to "protect British interests with Bolshevist aid, as was done for two and one-half years at the cost of the Spanish people" — a reference to the Spanish civil war just ended.

The inclusion of Rumania in the guarantee and the mention of Turkey plainly caught Nazi officials by surprise.

BRITISH BELIEVE PART OF FLEET TO REMAIN

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—Germany's decision to hold spring naval exercises off the Spanish coast was interpreted unofficially tonight as a Nazi gesture to emphasize Germany's alliance with Spain in the anti-comintern treaty.

British naval circles believed that German submarines taking part in the games would "never return to Germany." It long has been feared here that Germany would seek to use Spanish ports as an operating base for their submarines, which could then be in a position to endanger Britain's vital trade routes through the Mediterranean.

It also was pointed out by naval experts that if Germany were able to use Spanish ports in the Canary islands she would have an excellent base from which to attack Britain's imprtant route across the Atlantic.

Late to Work—Motorist Abandons His Burning Car

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 13. (AP)—An auto horn sounded yesterday insistently outside Fire Station No. 11.

Firemen emerged to see the motorist leap from the car and dash away, shouting back that the front seat was on fire—and that he was late to work.

The blaze was soon put out. eight hours later Joe Yasechko, steel worker, his day's work over, returned to claim his car.

WAR AID PLEDGED TO RUMANIA, GREECE

that negotiations were proceeding to add Soviet Russia and Turkey to the anti-aggression front and it was known that co-operation of Bulgaria and Hungary also were being sought.

The pledge to Rumania had not been expected today.

But parliament's session, breaking the Easter holiday which was to have extended from April 6 to April 18, followed a cabinet meeting during which it was stated Daladier telephoned Chamberlain and recommended strongly the pledge to Rumania.

Some members of the cabinet were said to be in favor of France alone making such a commitment, but it was feared this might indicate a breach between Paris and London.

These considerations, it was understood, led the cabinet to a last-minute decision to include Rumania in the declaration.

"Public Opinion Shocked."

Chamberlain spoke for 34 minutes and, besides announcing the Anglo-French pledge to Greece and Rumania, declared:

1. Of Italy's seizure of Albania —"Public opinion throughout the world has once again been profoundly shocked at this fresh exhibition of use of force. It must be apparent that a powerful nation has imposed its will on a small and relatively defenseless country and has done so by an imposing show of armed force."

2. Of the Anglo-Italian agreement of 1938 pledging to maintain the status quo in the Mediterranean—"No doubt some would say that we should now declare the Anglo-Italian agreement should now be considered at an end. I do not take that view myself for nobody with any sense of responsibility can in these days lightly do anything which would lead to an increase in international tension which everybody would deplore."

3. Of Italy in the future—"I believe, therefore, that there will be a widespread desire, all the greater because of uneasiness now prevailing, to see fulfillment of the remaining provisions of the agreement and naturally, in view of recent events, it is to the Italian government that we look for practical evidence that they share that desire."

Italian Assurance.

4. Of Italians in Spain—The Italian government had assured Britain that all Italian volunteers, airplanes and pilots would be withdrawn from Spain after the Madrid victory parade which is tentatively planned for May 2.

The prime minister disclosed that Britain and Italy had warned each other against occupation of Corfu, strategic Greek island off the southern tip of Albania.

He said Lord Halifax had told Guida Crolla, Italian charge d'affaires, "he could dismiss from his mind that the British government had any intention of occupying Corfu, but that the government would take a very grave view if anybody else occupied it."

Subsequently, he said, the Greek government on Easter Sunday heard that Italy was intending to occupy the island in the near future, but Crolla called with a message from Mussolini "and gave renewed assurance Italy intended to respect the continental and insular territory of Greece."

While Chamberlain made a plea for Mussolini's support in the future, diplomatic and official British circles tonight feared that the Italo-German reply to the Anglo-French declaration might be some move against Yugoslavia or a flat refusal to remove their troops from Spain.

Right to Hearing Upheld in Fight Against Ouster

"The Almighty gave Adam a chance to answer the charges that he ate the apple before he was removed from Eden and therefore the right to be heard in respect to charges against him is one of the established principles of justice, older than this court and older than this country."

Thus wrote Associate Justice Warren Grice in a decision made yesterday upholding a county commissioner's fight to remain in office.

The case originated when the Stewart county grand jury of October, 1938, charged charged Commissioner C. M. Davis had been "wasteful and inefficient." A successive grand jury concurred in the charge and recommended Superior Court Judge W. M. Harper declare the officie vacant.

This was done under authority of a 1927 legislative act which Judge Harper declared unconstitutional and was sustained by the higher court on grounds it provided for no hearing on charges.

STATE PENSION CUT TO AFFECT 16,000

Deficit Necessitates Economy Measure, Deen Says.

Braswell Deen, director of the state Department of Public Welfare, has told the DeKalb county Public Welfare Department that on May 1, 16,000 aged persons, children and blind persons would be eliminated from the state pension rolls.

He said this step was made necessary by a state deficit of $8,500,000.

On March 1, declared Deen, there were 46,614 on the pension rolls, and 59,000 applications, of which number fully 80 per cent were eligible for assistance.

2 SUSPECTS SEIZED IN NARCOTICS PLOT

Pair Held for Federal Grand Jury Under Bonds.

Terry Hunnicutt, who gave his address as "several hotels" and Cecil Garrison, who said his profession was "bootlegging," were held for the federal grand jury yesterday, charged with conspiring to violate the Harrison narcotic act.

Agents of the narcotics bureau said the men were involved with W. E. Howell, who was arrested Wednesday, and charged with selling 20 grains of pantapon, an opium derivative.

KIWANIANS TO MEET.

Georgia Kiwanians announced yesterday a determined effort is being made to bring the 1941 convention of Kiwanis International to Atlanta. They will present their bid at the coming convention in Boston.

STATE WPA ROLLS REDUCED BY 5,010 AFTER U. S. ORDER

Farm Workers in North Georgia Released and 'Intake' Closed for 3 Weeks to Obtain Cut.

Reduction ordered by Washington in Georgia WPA rolls was accomplished yesterday without serious damage to the state's work relief program, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, announced.

Miss Shepperson said the Georgia rolls had been cut 5,010 to 53,990 through the release of north Georgia agricultural workers; closing of "intake" over the state for three weeks, and the normal separation of workers from the rolls. No projects of any consequence had to be abandoned, she said.

Reductions by areas were: Atlanta, comprising Fulton and DeKalb counties, 1,156; Marietta, 19 northwest counties, 886; Gainesville, 22 northeast counties, 972; Columbus, 18 west central counties, 584; Macon, 26 central counties, 618; Albany, 25 southwest counties, 276; Savannah, 11 coastal and eastern counties, 327; and Augusta, 17 east central counties, 231.

The Waycross area, comprising 19 southeastern counties, was below its new quota and had 38 names added to its relief rolls.

Distribution of the present state quota is: Atlanta area, 17,748; Albany, 3,531; Columbus, 5,750; Macon, 7,917; Marietta, 6,340; Gainesville, 4,495; Augusta, 5,989; Savannah, 4,875; and Waycross, 3,332.

Approximately 4,000 north Georgia farm workers who were given winter employment chiefly on road projects, were released April 1, to return to farm work.

ARCHITECTURE AWARD.

Jesse Lee Morrison, of Atlanta, senior in the department of architecture at Georgia Tech, has been awarded second place in the Warren prize problem in competition with architectural schools throughout the United States, Harold Bush-Brown, head of the department, announced yesterday. Morrison will receive the degree of bachelor of architecture in June.

Auditor Computes State Income Within Two-Tenths of 1 Per Cent

The System: Cut Estimate in Half, Divide by Two.

Trying to tell how much income the state government will have in a given period—and hitting within two-tenths of one per cent of the correct amount—is the task, and performance, of Edmund Thrasher, chief clerk of the state auditing department.

He lets governors and department heads know how much they may spend.

His system, Thrasher explains, involves averaging a month-by-month list of income from many tax sources over a dozen years. These are the bases of Revenue Department estimates.

"When the sponsor of a (legislative revenue) bill makes an estimate," he says, "I just cut the figure in half, and then cut the remainder in two again for good measure. Usually it comes out pretty nearly right."

Thrasher's estimate of probable revenue for the fiscal year 1937-38 was $15,120,000. Receipts at the end of the period totaled $15,091,000, or a difference of two-tenths of one per cent.

"I couldn't predict my own salary a couple of months in advance, the way budgets are being cut," he laughs, "but when you get up in a large amount of money like that you can miss the total by a few thousand dollars and it's only a small percentage."

Georgia's present fiscal crisis is nothing new. Strangely enough, says Thrasher, Georgia's fiscal cramps appear to come in six-year cycles. The state experienced one in 1927, another in 1933, and now a third in 1939.

Thrasher was born in Atlanta in 1904, attended Georgia Military College at Milledgeville and Georgia Tech. In 1926 he married Winnie Ham, of Elberton. They have one daughter, Jean, 6.

DEKALB RELIEF GROUP DECREASED BY HALF

Mrs. A. W. Kirkland, director of the DeKalb County Public Welfare Board, yesterday announced that relief for at least half of the needy who depended upon the welfare board for assistance had been suspended.

Last year the welfare board cared for 429 old age dependents, 106 dependent children, 11 blind dependents and gave medical attention for 19 crippled children. Now only 210 persons can be cared for.

TRACKLESS BUSES' PETITION DROPPED

Plan Withdrawn Because of Opposition in Ansley Park Section.

Petition of the Georgia Power Company for trackless trolleys on the Piedmont-Stewart avenue line was withdrawn because of opposition in the Ansley Park and Morningside sections, Councilman John A. White announced yesterday.

Residents of the two areas appeared before the public works committee yesterday to oppose the change after petitions had been circulated asking support of the plan.

Company officials said they would take any steps necessary to improve service in the affected areas by increasing the number of buses now in service.

SENATE OKAYS BILL.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) The senate approved and sent to the house today a bill to authorize increased federal contributions to states for the administration of unemployment programs.

The measure authorized an increase from the present $49,000,000 to $80,000,000 annually.

SENATE APPROVES ANTI-POLITICS BILL

Measure To Outlaw Taking Advantage of Reliefers, Other Election Vices.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Legislation designed to divorce politics from relief and imposing fines and jail terms for "pernicious political activities" won speedy and unanimous approval in the senate today.

Almost without debate and with less than five minutes consideration, the chamber passed and sent to the house a bill outlawing some of the political practices that caused vigorous complaints during the last federal elections.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, one of the authors, said "He was surprised and delighted" at the quick approval. He expressed belief the house would approve it, but said that if it didn't he would try to attach the bill to the "next relief appropriation measure."

Would Apply to All Elections.

The senate bill's prohibitions would apply in elections of all federal officials, including the President, vice president, their electors, senators and representatives.

Hatch said he wanted to include primary elections and political conventions as well, but that some senators had objected on the grounds that the constitution gave the states control of these.

"If the house passes this, then we can take up the matter of primary elections and party conventions later," Hatch said.

Measure Outlined.

Many of the political practices banned were those condemned by the special senate campaign committee which policied last year's elections. Chairman Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, of this committee, was a co-author of the bill as was Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont.

The bill would forbid:

"Intimidation or coercion of voters;"

"Interference in elections" by any official paid with federal funds, in whole or part;

Soliciting funds from persons on relief;

Use of lists of relief workers for political purposes;

Promises of jobs or other federal benefits for political activity.

Violations of any of the provisions could bring a fine of $1,000, a jail term of one year, or both.

GEORGE ATTACKS ROOSEVELT STAND

in the threatened European conflict, the Georgian said he would fight against going to war or "being dragged into a state of war."

There is undoubtedly propaganda in this country," he told the chamber, "very wide propaganda and very subtle in its nature to get us into war; that is, to create the war sentiment and mould the war mind here in the United States.

"The issue of peace and war, however, lies right in this body and in the body at the other end of the capital. It ought to be made abundantly clear and plain that we do not propose to carry the country into war; and when that issue arises there are those of us here, humble though we may be, who will not go into war. We should take no part in any European war."

Referring to the President's Chicago address of some months ago in which Mr. Roosevelt said the proper process against aggressor nations was "a quarantine" of those nations, Senator George ventured to say that "if we let Europe alone there will be no war."

At the conclusion of his speech, which was delivered with more than his usual vigor, Senator George was sought out by a half dozen of his colleagues who warmly congratulated him on his words. Senator Hiram Johnson, veteran Republican isolationist of California, went across the chamber to his desk to shake his hand. Others were Senator Nye, of North Dakota, author of the present neutrality act; Senator Lundeen, of Minnesota, and Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, whom the Georgian interrupted to make his peace policy observations. Senator Bone, of Washington, took the floor to deliver a congratulatory reference to the George speech.

MORE TO BE FIRED IN ECONOMY DRIVE

June 30, and 85 per cent of the counties would be forced to turn back their felony convicts to the state for support," Miller said.

He explained that although the Highway Department budget was in excess of $4,000,000 for the April-June quarter, the estimate was in line with practice of anticipating lettings from six to nine months in advance of revenues. He said expenditures were limited to actual receipts, and asserted indicated requirements for contractural obligations were $2,450,000 for the quarter. The budget, as approved, allowed the department $2,034,000, he said.

Miller said $666,000 was withheld by the Governor and earmarked for payment of $2,660,000 in county road bonds next March, although in practice this money usually had been used for summer road work and the fund made up after November 1, when winter weather curtailed highway work. He said if this $660,000 was restored, highway contracts could be let as usual, although the department would be crippled by its depleted staff.

A check of the highway department budget returned yesterday showed 180 more had been bluepenciled, most of them to be given notices their work would terminate April 15. Some of them were given until May 15.

Records disclosed names bluepenciled in the Macon division of the state highway system were:

STATE LIBRARIAN URGES INCOME CUT

A real advocate of economy surprised the economy investigating committee yesterday.

Miss Ella Mae Thornton, state librarian, suggested that her income be reduced nearly half, by stabilizing her salary—now $1,800—at double that amount, but transferring to the secretary of state's office notarial work for which she draws about $3,900 yearly.

She also said there was $9,000 of lead plates, used in printing law books, lying in the capitol cellar and urged legislation to permit their sale.

DIPHTHERIA IS DEADLIER THAN HARSH TOILET TISSUE, yes—but it pays to avoid both.

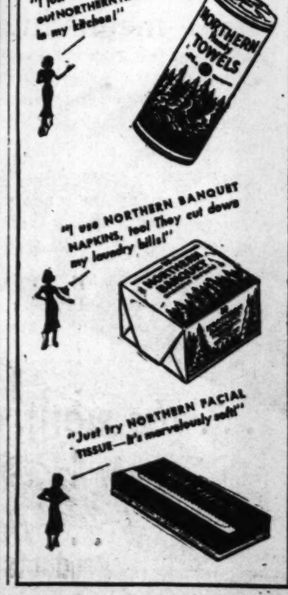

You make a real contribution to your family's health and safety when you're careful to avoid harsh, irritating tissues—when you take advantage of the greater softness that Northern Tissue gives you!

Northern Tissue is the only nationally advertised toilet tissue that is all cellulose—a substance even softer than cotton—so downy soft that fluffy rayons are made from it!

Ask your dealer today for Northern Tissue. It's softer—safer—and it costs no more than many harsh brands. Northern Paper Mills, Green Bay, Wisc.

Gauze is also a splendid tissue, soft, a little lighter weight and lower-priced.

GEORGIA TWINS OBSERVE THEIR 78TH BIRTHDAY

Two of Georgia's oldest twins observed their birthday yesterday. They are 78 and natives of Meriwether county, but have lived only 65 miles apart nearly all their lives.

They are Mrs. E. L. Patterson, of 891 Boulder Crest drive, Atlanta, and John Bowles, of Greenville, Ga. They planned to observe the anniversary together, as they have done for many years, but yesterday Mr. Bowles was in ill health and unable to leave Greenville, so Mrs. Patterson spent the day crocheting a bedspread.

Mrs. Patterson lives with her daughter, Mrs. J. F. Jones. She has nine children, 17 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Court Prohibits Theater Building In Druid Hills

Erection of a motion picture theater at University drive, in the western section of Druid Hills, was prohibited by the Georgia supreme court which yesterday reversed Judge E. E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, in refusing to grant an interlocutory injunction.

The supreme court upheld the contention that the proposed theater violated building restrictions. The suit was brought by B. W. Jones and other property owners against the Lanier Development Company and the Capital Construction Company.

Lindsay Urged as Yeomans' Successor

Several Attorneys Also Pushed for Vacancy in Hospital Authority Due to Judge's Death.

A number of prominent lawyers, including several members of the general assembly, were being urged yesterday for appointment to the post of director and attorney for the State Hospital Authority. There is a vacancy due to the death Monday of Judge M. J. Yeomans, of Dawson, former attorney general.

Senator Paul Lindsay, of Atlanta, and Representative William H. Key, of Jasper county, were among the legislators being urged upon the authority which is headed by R. H. Freeman, of Macon, and also is composed of Ivan Allen Jr., of Atlanta, and Sheriff Sid Howell, of Early county.

In addition to Representative Key and Senator Lindsay those whose names are being placed before the authority include Downing Musgrove, of Homerville, executive secretary to the Governor; Judge Eugene Cook, of Wrightsville; Carlton Mobley, of Forsyth, one-time secretary to Governor Talmadge, and John Lewis, of Louisville, the present state superviser of purchases.

Some political observers seemed to feel the appointment would go to the sixth congressional district, of which Milledgeville and the state hospital is a part. Likewise, it was indicated the new director, would be closely allied with Representative Carl Vinson, of the sixth Georgia district, a leading supporter of the hospital program.

It is understood the hospital authority will meet here Friday or Saturday to elect Judge Yeomans' successor. Members of the assembly are eligible for the appointment because the authority is set up as a private corporation and the constitutional prohibitions on legislators holding state jobs does not prevail in the instance.

Whelchel, Mahonee, Riverside drive, Gainesville, Ga.; Vivienne Duncan, 775 St. Charles avenue, N. E.

Among the many stories submitted, "Rebecca," by Daphne du Maurier, outclassed all others in popularity. Sir Walter Scott's masterpiece, "Ivanhoe," was runner-up. Among the many other titles receiving a number of votes were "Lorna Doon," "Jane Ayre" and "Silas Marner." Most popular among the players cast were Bette Davis, Merle Oberon, Gary Cooper and Basil Rathbone, with Clark Gable and Eroll Flynn in hot pursuit.

EUROPEAN WAR NEAR, HOWARD GOULD AVERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13.—(UP)—Howard Gould, retired American financier and railroad magnate, predicted here today that Europe "will be in the grip of war in 30 days."

Gould said he sought sanctuary in his native land and has no intention of returning to his home near London, where he had lived for 20 years until he recently came to the United States.

"War is inevitable," Gould said. "Mussolini and Hitler are determined to have it. When we left England last December we realized war was only a matter of time."

EAGLE TO REORGANIZE.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle today announced it had filed a petition in United States district court for permission to reorganize under the Chandler act.

Want the Day Off? Just Go to Opener

Fulton county employes may attend the opening of the Cracker baseball season today without having dead grandmothers or illness in their families.

Commission Chairman Ed L. Almand yesterday circulated a letter urging all department heads to permit any employe who wishes to have the afternoon off to attend the opener, and floods of requests already have been filed.

RFC WILL REFUND RAIL RENTAL SUM

Georgia Counties, Charity Institutions To Receive $100,000 Rebate.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has agreed to refund $100,000 to Georgia on interest charged when the federal agency discounted six years' rentals on the state-owned Western and Atlantic railroad, Governor Rivers reported today on his return from Washington.

The rentals were discounted to provide money for equal distribution between Georgia counties and the state's charitable institutions.

When the RFC discounted the rentals at 3 1-2 per cent it was agreed that one-half of one per cent would be refunded if the rentals were paid off promptly upon maturity in 1946. Private firms have bought the rental obligations from the RFC and the Governor claimed this constituted prompt payment.

Distribution of the $100,000 in the same manner as the original rentals would give the counties $314 each and $50,000 to the institutions.

WPA DISCHARGEES AIDED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13.—(AP)—The city of Memphis and Shelby county agreed today to appropriate $25,000 for the temporary relief of 800 persons discharged from WPA rolls within the past few days.

GIRL TO WOMANHOOD

GROWING girls who suffer from nervousness, backache, or headaches associated with functional irregularities will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a beneficial tonic. It stimulates the appetite and digestion and thus helps to strengthen one and aids in toning the general system and in calming the nerves. Mrs. Alcede Langley, 626 Division St., Lake Charles, La., says: "When I was developing into womanhood, periodically I was so weak and nervous and had such headaches and cramps that I had to go to bed. I had no appetite at all and was underweight. After using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I gained in weight and strength and had very little discomfort." Ask your druggist today for it in liquid or tablets.

First Lady Might Be Plane Pilot If F.D.R. Hadn't 'Put Foot Down'

President Told Her He Had Enough on His Mind Without Having To Wonder How She Was Getting Along With Her Flying Lessons.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt might be a licensed pilot today if the President hadn't told her he had enough on his mind without having to wonder about how she was getting along with her flying lessons.

The First Lady, writing in Collier's magazine, said, "Common sense pointed to the fact that at my age I would probably never be a very good pilot and I might better be content to fly with those who were."

Mrs. Roosevelt also says she thinks the next generation will take to the air as naturally as the present one has taken to the automobile, and in her opinion "it is perfectly useless for the older generation to try and stop the march of progress."

She believes it is imperative because of this to teach children more self-control, better judgment and the necessity of good physical condition.

"Young people," she said, "must learn that it is not courageous to be reckless, that to take unnecessary risks shows stupidity."

She tells how she took her daughter's two children with her on their first flight, and says "both enjoyed the trip and have since flown with their parents."

RESERVE AIR CORPS IS AIM OF CAA PLAN

U. S. Army May Use Partially Trained Fliers in Emergency.

By JOSEPH S. EDGERTON.
(Copyright, 1939, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The much discussed 20,000-pilot program of the Civil Aeronautics Authority is intended to provide a reservoir of partially trained fliers from which the military services may draw in case of national emergency after the present expansion program is completed.

The CAA program is regarded as a valuable aid to national defense and, had it been put into operation a year ago, possibly would have done away with the present air corps primary training plan for the commercial flying schools.

Training Begins.

With an initial allotment of funds, the CAA in February began the training of some 300 students in a selected group of colleges and universities. It is planned to extend this program to a large number of educational institutions during the 1939-40 school term.

The CAA program would take care of a vast amount of work which otherwise would delay any emergency air defense program. It would insure the elimination of candidates not physically qualified. It would further reduce the numbers of those not possessed of the inherent ability to fly. The plans would provide a selected list of candidates for emergency air corps training.

Purdue Is Example.

The experience of Purdue University, LaFayette, Ind., where the first student pilot actually took off under the CAA training program, is interesting. Last January 16, Purdue received an invitation from the CAA to participate in the national pilot-training program, and a call was issued for student enrollments. By 4 p. m., January 20, 179 applications had been received and the rolls were closed. Of these, 50 were recommended for final examination.

During the first month, more than 500 flying hours were logged and 27 students had soloed.

MEETING OPENS TODAY FOR LUTHERAN YOUTH

MACON, Ga., April 13.—(AP)—Two hundred young people from Georgia and Alabama Lutheran churches will assemble here tomorrow for a three-day session.

The meeting will be the annual convention of the Georgia-Alabama Lutheran League and will open with a banquet at the local church.

Vesper services will be conducted by the Rev. Herman Fisher, local pastor, and the Rev. Thomas H. Week will be in charge of the service tomorrow.

Business sessions Saturday and services Sunday led by the Rev. J. C. Peery, former missionary to India, are included in the program.

GEORGIA SCHOOL HAS OPENING FOR GOOD PIED PIPER

The Habersham Cracker, school paper, yesterday summed it up thusly:

"Clothes, quilts and so forth have been damaged. After everything is quiet at night mice can be heard squealing and older rats running around. Mice are often seen during the day.

"We hope that some day in the near future we will be rid of the rats."

ARAB REBEL CHIEF HELD AT PALMYRA

Leader of Revolt Against Great Britain Flees From Palestine.

DAMASCUS, Syria, April 13.—(AP)—Aref Abd El Razzek, chief commander of Arab Rebels against British rule in Palestine, was held by French military authorities at Palmyra in the interior of Syria tonight after he had fled from Palestine.

The Arab leader crossed the border just ahead of British troops who had been pursuing him since a battle March 27 in which his chief lieutenant Mohamed Abd Ou Rahim was killed. Ten men accompanied him.

His flight was believed to have paralyzed, at least temporarily, the Arab revolt against the British, which has kept the Holy Land in turmoil and terror.

U. S. URGED TO KEEP FREE FROM EUROPE

senate foreign relations committee, who have allowed their sympathies to be attracted by certain nations in Europe.

"Men with such serious responsibilities," he said, "should learn all they can about those nations abroad but they should not allow their emotions to control them. They should learn everything possible, but they shoud use this information for the benefit of all the American people. When they pass out statements in behalf of this nation or that, merely as individuals, they are dishing out to the public that little knowledge which has long been known as a dangerous thing."

Commander Chadwick, crisp, outspoken lawyer of Seattle, visited Atlanta yesterday, communicated with Georgia's Legion leaders throughout the day, visited Base Hospital 48 for lunch, addressed legionnaires and special guests last night at a dinner, with the public tuned in over the radio as he spoke.

Lists Legion's Problems.

At the dinner he spoke on the many problems of the Legion's Americanization program and the success with which the Legion is slowly, but surely, crushing its adversaries among those who espouse so-called academic freedom. During the day, however, he chatted extemporaneously about world affairs and the critical spot in which America sits, a bit too restless for her own good.

"The American Legion's job," he said, in his hotel room, "is to interpret to its children the lesson it learned only too well on the battlefield—armed intervention by the United States cannot alter the political philosophy of Europe's dictators.

"No military autocracy was ever destroyed from without. All, in good time, were destroyed from within.

Says Dictators Are Doomed.

"If those dictators take unto themselves a few more of the liberty-loving nations they have been grabbing recently, they are simply hastening the destruction of the house of cards they are building.

"That is the quickest way they can kill themselces off: Grabbing control of peoples they are unable to handle.

"The best piece of news I have seen in the newspapers recently was that picture of Hitler addressing a crowd of his subjects from behind a shield of bullet-proof glass. That shows that even Hitler knows just what is bound to happen.

"Why should we become involved in an impossible situation that Europe's citizens will settle for themselves in their own good time? Why should we struggle to force the theory of democratic government on other peoples? Why should we pick this nation or that nation to help us spread the benefits of our theory of government?

Urges Minding Own Business.

"It's all tommyrot to talk about Russia fighting for democracy. Russia is a dictatorship.

"George Washington taught us that we should not fall in love with any nation and nothing has ever happened to prove he was not right. He told us to set up in our country something new in the form of government and to stick to it. That's what we ought to do.

"If the Legion's advice were followed in this country Europe would be no problem for us. Our policy is the old game of minding our own business, keeping our powder dry; walking softly and carrying a big stick.

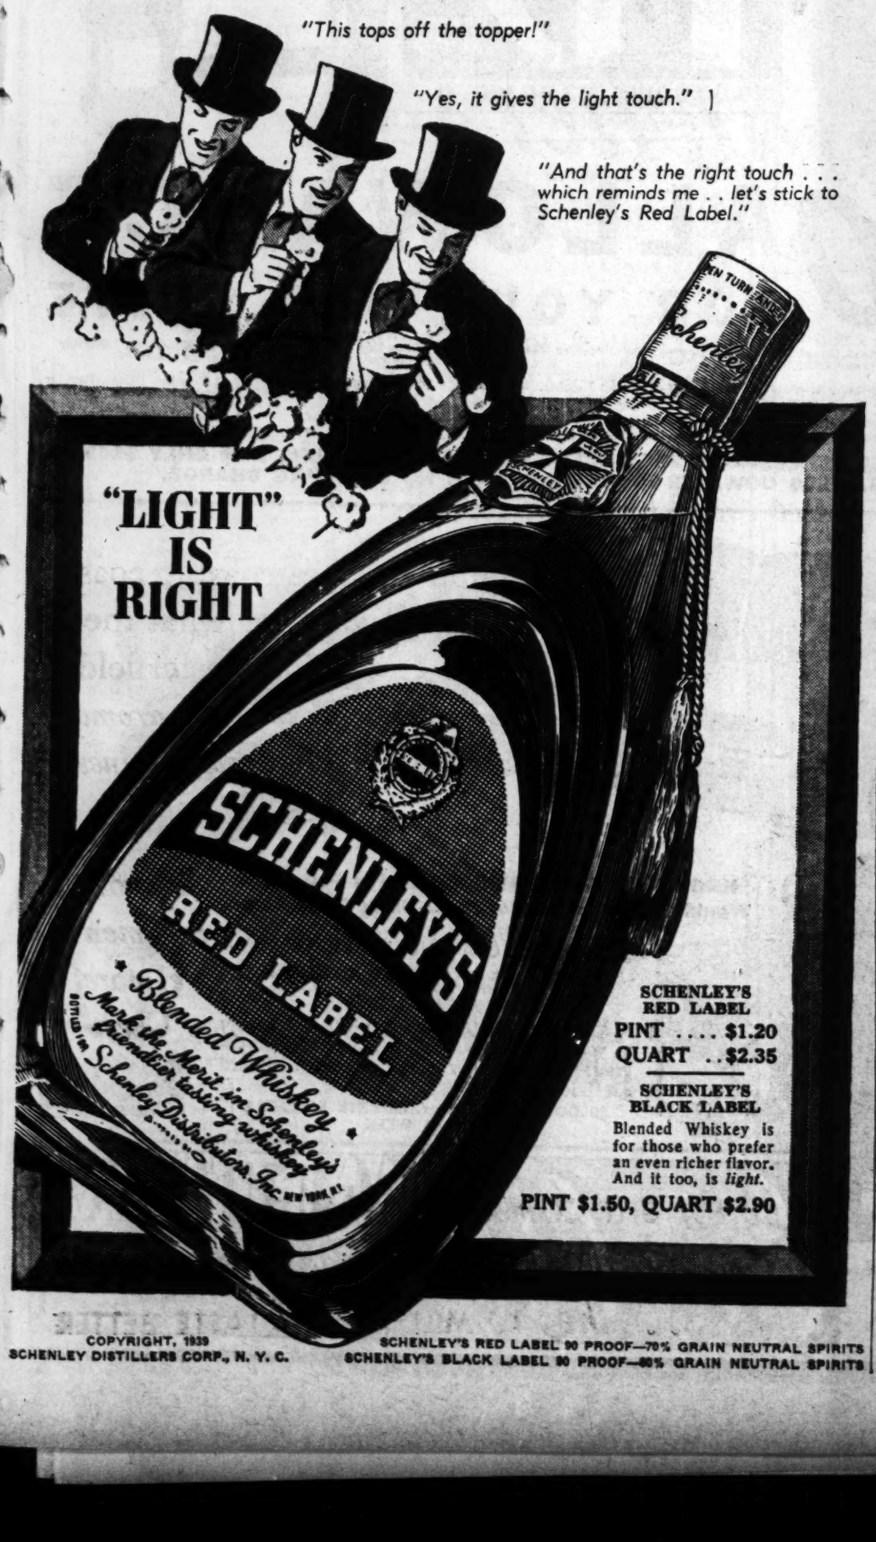

"The last war taught us we could not make the world safe for democracy but it also taught us that we should make democracy safe in the United States. When the world comes to reason we shall be ready to reason with it."

Chadwick's pause in Atlanta was in an aerial flight from New Jersey to a Legion meeting in Florida. He left late last night, via plane for Florida.

"This tops off the topper!"

"Yes, it gives the light touch."

Religion as Childhood Force Is Urged to Education Group

Church Co-operation With Schools Toward a Common Faith Emphasized.

Religion as a force for uniting school children and teaching them values of life was emphasized by J. Hutton Hynd, leader of the Ethical Society of St. Louis, in an address last night before the Association of Childhood Education at the First Baptist church.

"Religious education is dividing the children of the world," the speaker declared. "Only through unity and co-operation can men secure a satisfactory life. Eventually religious institutions will have to co-operate with schools in bringing about a common faith among children."

Mr. Hynd declared that, although children can be taught to co-operate, they were torn between erroneously conflicting interpretations of science and religion.

Teaching of science to children of preschool age was recommended by Dr. Carroll Lane Fenton, school radio broadcast director of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Science, he said, is one of the best means for teaching children to search for and recognize facts.

"If past generations had possessed our modern knowledge of science there would be no problems of reforestation and flood control today," Dr. Fenton said.

SUSPECTED BURGLAR IS RETURNED TO CITY

City Detectives H. D. Henshaw and Patrolmen A. P. Douglas and Fred Wray, of Fulton county police, returned here last night from Savannah with a youthful prisoner they described as the last of a gang recently admitting the burglary of 16 homes in Atlanta and Fulton county. The youth was listed as Esmond Davis, 18, of Atlanta. Three others involved are given by police as Harold Taylor, 17; Bennie Evans, 22, and his brother, James Evans, 19.

Detective Henshaw said that besides taking loot totaling $4,000 in the house burglaries, the suspects admitted stealing two automobiles.

"Take S.S.S. Tonic this Spring, so my Diary tells me"

"I know from experience I will be happier when I feel better and look better."

And the reason for this is quite simple. Worry, overwork, undue strain, colds, and sickness often reduce the blood's strength and vitality.

But you may rebuild this strength by restoring your blood to normal, in the absence of an organic trouble, with the famous S.S.S. Tonic.

S.S.S. helps build you up

Further, S.S.S. Tonic whets the appetite . . . foods taste better . . . natural digestive juices are stimulated, and finally, the food you eat is of more value . . . a very important step back to health.

Buy and use with complete confidence and we believe you, like others, will be enthusiastic in your praise of S.S.S. Tonic for its part in making "you feel like yourself again."

Malcom Is Tagged Again for Parking

Traffic Captain Jack Malcom yesterday received his second "ticket" for illegal parking in a month.

The captain's car was parked at Walton and Broad streets. Patrolman W. G. Dinsmore tagged it. When questioned, Malcom said:

"I'll have to see my lawyer before I can talk. I didn't see any ticket. Maybe it blew away."

Later the captain admitted receiving the tag and said: "I'll pay my fine."

CHEATHAM ASSAILS NEW COTTON BILL

Manufacturers' Group Head Cites Disadvantages of Export Plan.

NEW ORLEANS, April 13.—(AP) J. H. Cheatham, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, today opposed the cotton export subsidy bill, which he said "would give a further advantage to foreign textile manufacturers."

Cheatham, here for the 43d annual convention of the association, said American manufacturers already were working at a disadvantage because of the difference between wages paid in the United States and abroad.

"We pay 38 cents an hour," he said, "while Japan for instance pays its textile workers as little as 22 cents a day. The export subsidy plan would give foreign producers a further advantage at the expense of domestic textile makers."

He said the association already had gone on record as opposing the bill in telegrams sent to southern senators and representatives in congress.

Cheatham pointed out that under the bill foreign manufacturers would be able to purchase raw cotton cheaper than domestic mills, manufacture the goods abroad and then ship it back into the United States and undersell domestic manufacturers.

The convention proper gets under way tomorrow with reports of various officers and addresses by leading mill executives from all sections of the south.

Opposing the Bill.

Cheatham and other officers of the association were scheduled to deliver their annual report to the convention at the first open session tomorrow.

Today's activities were limited to executive sessions of the board of government and an informal executive meeting of delegates tonight at which all present were invited to express their opinions regarding the current problems of the cotton industry.

Election of officers for the coming year and an address by Dr. C. T. Murchison, of the Cotton-Textile Institute, Inc., New York, are to highlight the final session of the convention Saturday.

Record Attendance.

W. M. McLaurine, Charlotte, N. C., secretary of the association, said the 1939 meeting was the largest in attendance in 14 years.

Georgians registered for the convention were W. L. Johnson, R. H. Jackson, N. E. Huger, T. M. Forbes, Ingram Dickinson, Carl R. Cunningham, Miss Jane Cagle, Karl A. Both, H. C. Allen, C. G. Stover, George H. Small, J. W. Stribling, James Robertson, Walter Mitchell, J. Carlisle Martin, Edward S. Merritt, Harry Morrow, S. A. Miller, E. D. McKellar, Arthur Lucas, M. W. Keeler, Paul A. NEUTRALITY LAW REVISION TO HELP BRITAIN FAVORED 57 Per Cent of American Voters Urge Changes Permitting Arms Sales, Gallup Survey Shows.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Revision of the neutrality law to allow shipment of war materials to England and France in case of hostilities is favored by a majority of American voters at the present time, according to a survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

All this week the senate foreign relations committee has been taking public testimony on neutrality revision plans, one of which is the Pittman "peace act of 1939." Providing for the sale of war materials to all belligerents on a cash-and-carry basis, the Pittman proposal is indorsed in principle by voters in the Institute survey.

The survey put this issue to the public: "Our present neutrality law prevents this country from selling war materials to any countries fighting in a declared war. Do you think the law should be changed so that we could sell war materials to England and France in case of war?"

The vote was:

Yes	57%
No	43

This sentiment is significant on two counts:

1. It indicates a marked trend in public opinion on the neutrality issue. Institute studies of three and four years ago showed the public in favor of restrictive embargoes on war trade, and aloofness from European squabbles. The original neutrality legislation was an outgrowth of this widespread public sentiment. After three years' experience, however, the majority of voters have come to favor revision along the lines of the Pittman proposal.

The change coincided with events in Europe. Following Hitler's seizure of Austria, his annexation of Sudetenland, and the occupation of Prague and Memel Institute surveys found a growing sentiment in the United States for aid to England and France, short of actual participation in war.

Earlier Poll Confirmed.

2. Today's survey confirms an earlier Institute study which showed that more than six voters in every 10 now favor the principle of selling war materials to England and France in case of war. Technically this could not be accomplished under the present neutrality act. As the current survey shows, the majority of voters favor making such action possible by changes in the law.

The whole neutrality question has been the subject of heated and controversial public debate for months and many proposals have been put forward. The Institute's sole function is to find the facts about public opinion on the issue, to collect and tabulate the views of a scientifically selected cross-section of all the people, regardless of whether those views may be right or wrong, wise or unwise.

All Sections Favorable.

The survey found a majority of voters in all sections of the country favoring revision of the neutrality laws. This sentiment was less pronounced in the western and middle western areas, however, than along the Atlantic seaboard.

There is virtually no difference in sentiment by political parties on the revision issue. Both Democrats and Republicans favor revision by approximately 6 to 4.

GALLUP POLL

PLAN RADIO TALKS ON AMERICANISM

Jewish War Vets To Sponsor Weekly Series.

A series of radio addresses on Americanism will be inaugurated at 12:30 o'clock Sunday over WGST under sponsorship of Atlanta Post No. 112 of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States.

Logan Kelly, Georgia commander of the American Legion, will deliver the first address. Similar talks will be scheduled on successive Sundays at the same time.

Purpose of the radio addresses is to teach more love for the ideals of democracy, more respect for American leaders and more patriotism for the United States, officials of the organization said.

Several other Atlanta and Georgia leaders have accepted invitations to appear on the series of programs. They are, in the order of their appearance, Howard See, president of the Atlanta Rotary Club; Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College, and Chris Rauchenberg.

"Not only are the Jewish War veterans fighting Communism, Fascism and similar 'isms' but they believe that by teaching and preaching more Americanism the teachers of the other 'isms' will not get a hold on our boys and girls," Sam E. Levy, junior vice commander of the Atlanta post, said.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 14, 1939.

THE CHOICE IS PLAIN

In the smooth, measured words of diplomacy, Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday committed Great Britain to a series of pacts and agreements far beyond any heretofore shouldered by the peoples of the empire. As he spoke, he was casting the die of peace or war. He did it knowingly and sadly, but with determination, casting off the last remnant of his Munich policies.

In an analysis of his speech, one must go behind the diplomatic language in which he framed the ultimatum to the axis powers to the implications and the line of thought implicit in his words.

The door to appeasement is still open. He was careful not to slam it tightly, but at the same time the Prime Minister made it perfectly clear that appeasement is possible only after evidence is presented of a complete change of heart on the part of the totalitarian powers.

In effect, he told Premier Mussolini that Italian guarantees of the integrity of the borders and independence of Greece have not been accepted as valid; indeed, that Great Britain had received information to the contrary with particular reference to the island of Corfu.

He laid open to serious question the expressed reasons for the conquest of Albania. In the language of the man-in-the-street he said that "we do not believe you . . . your alibi is weak." But the conquest is accepted as a fait accompli, not to be repeated with other weak countries in the Balkans or in the Danubian basin.

When placed with the declaration of Premier Daladier of France, the speech means simply that Germany and Italy have expanded their territory at the expense of others to a line beyond which they cannot go without plunging the world into war; that if they attempt further conquest, Britain and France will fight without wading through the niceties of protest and diplomacy.

It is completely heartening that Mr. Chamberlain did not revert in his speech to a policy of appeasement toward Mussolini. There were indications early in the week that he had tended to accept the assurances of the Italian premier toward Greece and his promises to withdraw Italian legionnaires from Spain. But his words contained no inkling of this revision, leaving the burden of proof of good intentions upon the shoulders of Mussolini, and at the same time warning him that England would not again stand aside when vital interests were at stake.

By this stand, he makes it possible for Mussolini to carry out his pledged word, after which London and Paris probably will be ready to discuss any matters of import.

Hitler, one may deduce from Chamberlain's words, is to be treated in a different manner. He has actually, ruthlessly and wantonly violated his pledged word and will be dealt with in the future only on the basis of a condition which he himself has created. The basis for Hitler's policies have been armed force, and on the basis of armed force he will be met.

While on the surface this would appear as an incitement to war, actually the speech clarifies the hope that the world may indeed be given at least a breathing spell for the alarums of recurring crises. That is, unless the dictators have so lost their powers of reason that they would move in the face of the most formidable armed alliance the world has ever known.

The only discouraging aspect of the clouded European scene is that this is in fact an armed alliance. The entire continent is a military camp in which the slightest tinder can evoke the most terrible kind of explosion. Were it not for this, it would be possible to be more optimistic. But while this condition remains, peace rides a narrow rail above the chasm.

Always it is possible to map the new devastated areas before the great war breaks. See which of the small, hapless countries is being protected.

In Ohio, a wife tells the judge her mate is beautiful, but won't work. They are saying the same of this Bone bill, for taxing war to death.

A plan to buy Alaskan reindeer is voted down by the thrift boys in Washington. An impression spreads that Santa Claus doesn't live there any more.

Though no more is heard of the bizarre romance between business and Harry Hopkins, there are hopes. It may yet be love at second sight.

MEDICINE LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

Plans now taking shape to secure a larger endowment for the Emory University medical school may be said to be twofold. First, to bring to the teaching of medicine and surgery every opportunity for "learning by doing," thereby bringing a better understanding of public needs and more usefulness in medical practice. Second, to develop a great medical center in Atlatna better to administer to the needs of all the people.

It long has been felt by most doctors that, while medical science has made astonishing strides toward perfection, this skill has not been completely available to the public. A measure of aloofness has set medicine apart from the ordinary course of life.

This drift away from the people started early. In the beginning, naturally, there were no medical schools. Practitioners were the only teachers. They instructed their understudies in anatomy, physiology and other fundamental sciences as they saw them. Gradually, however, this work was taken over by medical schools. Most doctors became too busy with their practice to continue as full time instructors. Teachers were employed. But very few of these had had experience in actual practice. Their work eventually became "pure academic discipline" to use the words of a well-known educator. This lack of practical approach to medical problems as a public service was reflected in the student and later in the practitioner.

It is the hope of the profession to set the trend back to "doctors as teachers." Medical education in the future must not cease with the granting of the degree and an internship. More important even than undergraduate training is the work of assisting doctors in actual practice and learning how to put acquired knoweldge, as well as the latest advances, to practical purposes.

In the development of a medical center, a well organized and supported medical school, a medical library, adequate hospital clinical facilities and buildings for classes and research work are essential. It will take time to get them. It will take money. But with full cooperation between the doctors and the people the whole program can be brought into realization.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

A long-needed study of the pulpwood marketing system has been advocated by the Alabama commissioner of agriculture, Haygood Patterson, to the end that the tragic destruction of other timbers will not be repeated and a valuable cash crop lost to the southland.

But this study will encompass only one phase of the pulpwood industry, and, while the new plants throughout the south may be dealing in all fairness with natural resources and with landowners, there is a definite need of state surveys of the manner in which the forests are to be handled. Other pulpwood users might not look to the future as do the present manufacturers, and it is for them that the south must be prepared.

In the heyday of the lumbering industry, a sawmill would be established in a virgin section and the land ruthlessly denuded for miles around. This accomplished, the mills would be shifted to another section and the criminal stripping of natural resources repeated. The result was that the hardwood stands of the south were virtually wiped out, the land was left bare to the elements and erosion took its terrible toll.

Out of this lesson surely the south has learned. Pulpwood stands are potentially as rich as the cotton crop in a section where cotton industry leaders predict that cotton is dead and that the land must be turned to other uses. Yet the care and control of pulpwood cutting has been left to the individual judgment and conscience of landowners and timber buyers and cutters. The rich heritage is being plundered for the material benefit of its temporary guardians, and will continue to be so unless effective action is quickly taken.

Through intelligent control and forestry management the pulpwood crop of the southeast can be made more and more valuable in the passage of each year. If this is not done, then within a very few years the rich forest resources will have been pillaged and the south left even more poor.

The forests are one of the greatest of the capital holdings of the south. They should be treated as such, and not as individual property to be tossed to the four winds

A new note creeps into the oratory of the invincible Caesars. Sandwiched between cries of "Let me at 'im!" is the aside, "Hold me back, boys, hold me back."

"Stand back, amateurs," said the Duce to the goldfish-swallowing college lads. "I will now make Albania disappear."

Einstein believes he knows now what gravity is. Isn't it when the levity subsides?

It would seem unnecessary for the Duce to mount an upper balcony in this new crisis, as a small country like Albania is a mezzanine job.

On the strength of that congressional probe, a nice increase in horsepower rating is due the TVA. It has the strength of ten, because its heart is pure.

Editorial of the Day

NOTHING BUT WASTE

(From The Montgomery Advertiser.)

It is impossible to calculate the total amount of money the men and women of this unhappy earth are spending on wars past, present and to come. We must be burning millions of dollars every sixty seconds.

Every nation on the face of the earth, in face of dire want and terrible hardships, takes a huge chunk of its wealth and burns it up.

Yet our hospitals have not the money to buy new beds. Schools are closing for lack of funds. Scientists spend their time on instruments of destruction and leave the work for human betterment to another day. The hungry are denied a pittance because the great insatiable machine of war demands more and more every day.

God's in His Heaven, said Browning. But the Devil's here on earth.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

VOCAL ISOLATIONISTS WASHINGTON, April 13.—Because the situation is confused and the isolationists are tirelessly vocal, it's widely assumed that nothing will be done to the neutrality act at this session. Those who make the assumption reckon, however, without an extremely interesting possibility. On this great issue, the only fundamentally important one now before congress, a brief reunion may be effected between the White House and conservative wings of the Democratic party.

GLIMPSE OF THE FUTURE Certainly this is no time to let the problem of neutrality go by default. Events abroad have taken a desperate turn. As disclosed here yesterday, British and French rearmament has not removed the dreaded danger from the air. If war comes, German planes may devastate London and Paris and wipe out tens of thousands of their civilian inhabitants. American sympathies are wholly with the democracies. And the reduction to bloody ruins of the two great democratic capitals would surely be more stirring than half a hundred Lusitanias.

Meanwhile, under the neutrality act, the President must declare a state of war on the outbreak of hostilities, and thereafter embargo all arms exports. Military authorities may exaggerate the danger from the air. But if they do not, while the bombs rained on London and Paris, America would be withholding the weapons needed for their protection. The emotional strain of such a situation can easily be imagined, particularly as the Gallup poll shows the people already strongly favor supplying the democracies with arms.

There would probably, in fact, be hasty action in mid-conflict. As the action would be taken to help the British and French, the other side could complain of our unneutrality. Perhaps the Gallup poll does not represent popular feeling. If so, a test of congressional sentiment will show. At any rate, as one sardonic senator put it, "If we're going to be unneutral, we'd damn well better do it before the fighting starts."

AT PRESENT IN CONGRESS The foregoing are the highly realistic considerations influencing advocates of neutrality act revision. One reason why the situation is confused is that four types of revision have been proposed. The proposals to strengthen the act, to repeal it outright, and to give the President the power to name an aggressor in foreign conflicts may, however, be dismissed. The only bill with a practical chance of passing is that offered by the chairman of the foreign relations committee, Senator Key Pittman, which would permit exports of war materials so long as the belligerent nations pay cash on the barrel-head and carry their purchases away in their own ships.

Hearings are now in progress on the Pittman bill. Most members of the foreign relations committee, along with most other senators, profess to have open minds. Yet there's likely to be a powerful opposition, led by the originators of the neutrality act, Senators Nye, Clark and Bone, and probably importantly abetted by Senators Borah and Hiram Johnson, who don't love the neutrality act, but positively hate the idea of cash and carry.

The already-mentioned reunion of conservative and White House Democrats will be required to pass the Pittman bill. The sign that it may be effected was observable last week when Bernard M. Baruch appeared to testify for the bill, with Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, and Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, acting as his shield bearers.

Pat Harrison and Jimmy Byrnes are the actual leaders of the conservative Democrats, and the most influential men in the senate today. Like so many other southern Democrats, they are close to Baruch. His testimony deeply impressed them. They can swing their followers into line behind the Pittman bill. And their followers, with such White House adherents as Guffey, Schwellenbach and Green, of Rhode Island, plus scattering Republican supporters, would give the Pittman bill a handsome majority both in committee and on the senate floor.

IT CAN BE DONE The thing can be done. If there's danger of defeat of the Pittman bill, which the dictatorships would interpret as a repudiation of the democracies, it will be better to run the fearful risks of inaction. Senator Pittman has said privately that he woul not try to report his bill without assurance of success. But, if the senators and the President are reasonably patient, the thing can be done.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

I'd like to make the world anew,
The little fellow said:
And do you know just what I'd do?
I'd shoot some people dead!

I'd make all trees a golden brown
At all times of the year;
I'd make the grass a crimson hue,
I think those tints bring cheer.

And I would make all men behave
Just as I think they should—
I sighed, I'm glad that you're not God
To mess things, as you would.

Dictated, Not Written.

Never have understood these fellows who do their writing by proxy, through a stenographer, secretary, amenuensis, or something. Having made a living, such as it was, for lo, these many years, by writing about this, that and the other for newspapers, my own procedure is as follows:

I have typewriter on a low table, draw up my chair as closely as possible and with machine as nearly in my lap as can be, proceed to rattle the keys with anywhere from two to four fingers. Regardless of literary result, speed is not to be sneered at with this method.

However, an insistent physician having given mandatory orders that the old body must not leave the mattress for several days, that method is out. So this column is dictated, not written, by yours truly. (Nice to have a daughter at home who can in a pinch do the secretarial work.)

The World In a Window.

The world for these few days, consists of a very lovely picture in a frame. The frame is my bedroom window. Background of the scene is the blue of Georgia sky. In the foreground are branches of dogwood trees laden with their snow-like blossoms, gently swaying in the breeze. Around and behind them are the new, little, green leaves, their greenness bright and eager looking in the sunshine.

Through the half-open window comes the sound of an ax as young son transforms old wood fence posts into kindling. Visioned life, through this window of mine, consists of birds and an occasional squirrel scrambling up the brown bole of a tree.

It is an exceedingly beautiful world by this sample. It seems a shame that man should have besmirched so much of it with his own comparatively crude creations of brick and stone, with the sooty effluvia of his chimneys.

The Radio, Blessing and Curse.

Of course, even a temporary shut-in keeps in touch with news events of the day through bedside radio, and the reports which come through that radio keep one well aware that man has tainted the natural world in other than material ways. News of rivalries, greed, threats and fears of conflict make one rather disgusted with the human breed as it is revealed in this supposedly civilized age.

But there are other things than news reports over the radio. All sorts of things. There are, for instance, those musical programs meticulously labeled "transcribed." There was a time, not long ago, when I sneered at these broadcasts of phonograph records. You can hear the faint grind of the needle on the wax disc, over the air. And such programs were object of mild scorn and were generally the signal to change stations or turn off the blamed thing.

Now, however, I have learned their value. During the forenoon and many of the afternoon hours there is such a plethora of allegedly dramatic, allegedly romantic, or allegedly humorous atrocities—most of 'em continued from yesterday and to tomorrow—that the "transcribed" musical program is a blessed oasis in a desert of boredom.

When the bigger stations are all engaged in the Antics of Annabel, the Mouthings of Mehitabel, or the Fulminations of Fanny, you're durn thankful for another broadcaster who comes to the rescue with a couple, or a dozen, phonograph records—even if it is swing instead of music.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, April 14, 1914:

"The batteries for today's opening game will be: for Atlanta, Dent and Dunn; for Nashville, More and Smith."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, April 14, 1889:

"Mrs. Cordelia Williams, who lives near Temple, Ga., at the age of 85 years, is cutting a new set of teeth. She has five just out."

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

ETC.

Camphor—the exhilarating odor of camphor when you are feeling fluey—that, it seems to me, is one of the pleasantest sensations I know. I always feel better when I can get a whiff of camphor now and then. I remember, as if it happened yesterday, when a very small boy I had quite a misunderstanding with a billy goat I was trying to hitch to a wagon in which I planned to haul some stovewood a few steps. The goat finally decided to end the argument by punching me one in the pit of my stomach, which left me flat on my back in the yard, trying to get my breath, when suddenly my mother appeared with a bottle of camphor, massaging my temples and neck, resulting in full and immediate recovery. Could I ever forget the soothing effect of that pungent balm?

Sassafras—the refreshing taste of sassafras tea and the aroma of the steaming kettle as you enter the kitchen at nightfall on a windy day during the spring equinox—that, it seems to me, is another of the most cherished delights of a lifetime. From my earliest youth, when we would be cleaning fence jams and hedge rows and dig up sassafras roots and take them to the house for tea in the evening, I have loved the odor and taste of this delicious drink. I was interested to discover the other day that a man over in Alabama has perfected a plan of offering sassafras to those who like to sip the tea, wrapping the shavings in cellophane.

Biddies—the friendly chatter of little chickens as they eat—that, it seems to me, is one of the greatest experiences one can have. All my life I have loved to look at biddies and listen to their chatter. I bravely announced that I was not going to set a hen this spring, but I broke completely down, and when she hatched all 15 of the eggs the other day, I was as proud and happy as, when a tiny child, my mother would hold me up in her arms to see the first one to break through the shell and poke his soft little head through the downy comfort of the mother hen.

Spring cleaning—here is one of the fascinating traditions—one that I always enjoy. Painting up and cleaning up, as far as purse and strength permit, is a blessing to everybody. I have been painting on the backyard things whenever I could find an hour or two for the past several days—chairs, swings, bird houses, horse-shoe court, etc., etc. It is the life. Did you ever notice how proud an old weatherbeaten chair appears when it gets a new coat of paint and seems to form a part of the landscape of green grass and leaves? And how a vine trellis seems to stand on tip-toe when you give it a new dress?

War Gamble

By HUGH S. JOHNSON.

Plans Made By President RICHMOND, Va., April 13.—Months ago the President was going to "quarantine" the aggressor nations. That didn't go over so well and for a time seemed to be forgotten. Then he began to talk about measures more than mere words but less than war. That seemed to mean economic but not military war. That didn't click. The next glimpse at possible policy was more obscure. Did "some boob" mistakenly think he heard in a confidential White House conference that "our frontier is on the Rhine?" or did Mr. Roosevelt never say it?

It doesn't make much difference. It is clear now what the President has been planning. The Warm Springs farewell—"if we don't have a war (before Thanksgiving)"—has been interpreted by Mr. Eugene Meyers' Washington Post to be a warning to this country and the world that the President's policy is forceful intervention, if necessary on the side of England and France and against the gangster nations. This interpretation the President has specifically indorsed as "very good, very clear and very honest." He ordered it embalmed in amber "for posterity."

An End to Guessing You may or may not agree with Mr. Roosevelt in this cavalier pronouncement for posterity which, while so gaily uttered, is as resonant as the bells of hell with doom and tragedy. You may not agree, but you must admit that at least it put an end to the long guessing contest or the game of missing words. It is frank and fearless—"very clear, very honest," if not "very good." It says right off the reel that, if war starts in Europe, the President proposes to put us in it—not merely on the business front but on the bloody front.

There are many who believe that this is a bluff. You can't bluff in international relations in these days unless you are ready, able and willing to make good your bluff. If this bluff works and Hit and Muss back down, Mr. Roosevelt will gain great kudos. If it doesn't work, we have bought a war. That is some gamble. But Mr. Roosevelt is a great gambler. He has shot craps with destiny ever since 1933—$20,000,000,000 worth of debt and experimentation for the stake of recovery and prosperity—and lost every time!

Let Whole Pot Ride This is the greatest gamble of all—20, 40, 60, God knows how many more billions—the very heart of all that has been won here in wealth and welfare by 150 years of toil and sacrifice—a possible mountain range of human wreckage so great that no one can measure it. Roll the bones and let the whole pot ride!

It puts a Columnist kibitzer on a tougher spot than Mr. Ickes could fancy in his most vengeful dreams. When the responsible head of the nation begins a gambling game with a bunch of gangsters with guns on both sides of the table, what does a man who doesn't believe it is time either to gamble or to bluff going to do? Should he support the gesture on the long chance of its working? Or should he tip off the hand by pointing out there is nothing in it?

Forcible intervention is war—and it is nothing less. Mr. Roosevelt can't take this country into war unless it wants to go. No man can take a democracy into war unless it is excited almost to the point of a frenzy to attack. We are very far from that.

Once the die is cast—once this country is engaged in modern war, no citizen, whether soldier or scribbler, has any choice—he must support the President's words and actions as though they were his own. But, until that time of dictatorship to the uttermost, there is no such duy on any man.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

KING COTTON IS SICK NEW ORLEANS, La., April 13.—Along with King Zog and other kings, our own King Cotton is sick. If you did not know that before, you would know it soon after mixing and mingling with the delegates here for the forty-third annual convention of the American cotton manufacturers here in the town that cotton built.

King Cotton is sick and no one knows the remedy. The delegates, cotton mill owners and textile men generally, admit they do not know the answer. They are owners of huge mills; they have thousands of men and women dependent on them for employment; they have stockholders and investors to consider, and their business is sick. The cotton business, for farmer or manufacturer, hasn't been good for years.

These men are all the type you'd expect to meet at such a convention. They are individualists, perhaps the most fiercely individual people in business. Few of them inherited their mills. Most of them had the typical American start and worked their way into the position of manufacturers.

And now their business is sick. They blame the government for much of it. They are not fond of Franklin D. Roosevelt. They are even less fond of the men he has chosen to assist direct business. They believe the methods employed severely have handicapped business.

They believe, too, the administration has taken away the American cotton market and given it to foreign growers.

PRICE PEGGING They object to price pegging as a false support of real values. They would prefer that cotton seek its own level because they believe cotton would flow normally on the world market.

Most important reason for wanting it to flow normally on the market is the fact that, if cotton is plentiful and not too costly, there will be a demand for American cotton in commercial quantities.

Not until cotton ceases to be pegged at an artificial price will there be developed new uses for cotton. This they believe emphatically.

And, indeed, there is none to deny that the United States in pegging cotton prices has upheld prices for the whole world and has encouraged, by acreage decreases, cotton production in foreign countries.

They point out that while King Cotton has been sick, rayon has come along so fast that few people realize how far it has come. A majority of the mills in the south now have turned wholly or in part to rayon and cut rayon.

They do not believe King Cotton will ever make a comeback in clothing. The rayon gives a sheen and a texture which cotton didn't, and the women shoppers of the nation want rayon. Cotton, they say, must be employed commercially if it is to come back.

They do not like the new plan of export subsidy because it gives foreign competitors an edge. They do not want any fancy plan, but they do say for heaven's sake to let them alone and let cotton flow normally in trade channels, and let's see what happens.

AS TO BARTER There are about eleven and a half million bales of cotton in warehouses which the government owns. The government means you. It is costing the American taxpayers a good many thousands of dollars each day to keep that cotton there. It is being held as security for loans, but the cotton men will tell you the government itself knows it has bought that cotton.

They do not like the proposal of bartering cotton for tin and rubber, war supplies. They do not care for the plan because they believe it would mean that another government bureau would be set up to handle it. And they will ask you, have you ever seen a bureau taken down once it is set up? They sincerely believe that within a few years all cotton going on the foreign market would be handled by this new government bureau. If it were not for that they would not object.

They are angered at the proposal, sponsored by New England mills, that the minimum wage level for all those employed by textile mills, in any capacity, be paid 32 1-2 cents an hour. This, they say, would mean sweepers and cleaners and all unskilled labor and would work an economic hardship on many. Most mills are losing money and have been losing it. Many would close. The new proposal is aimed at southern mills.

King Cotton is sick, the manufacturers are sick, business is sick and the entire industry, farmers and all, is sick of the administration. A good guess would be that Secretary Wallace is himself sick of cotton.

GEORGIANS FEATURE Georgians feature the convention. This morning while calling on Seymour Weiss and Governor Dick Leche at their hotel headquarters, I met many Georgians about the hotel lobby. Cason Callaway, of LaGrange, has precipitated a controversy by his statement the southern section east of the Mississippi is through as a cotton country. Fuller Callaway Jr. is on the program Friday. So is W. N. Banks, of Grantville, and J. H. Cheatham, president of the association, from Griffin, Ga.

Mr. Jim Robinson, the banking man, is here, as is Charley Yates, banker and British amateur golf champion. He was a bit concerned by the program. He was listed as amateur British champion. Mr. and Mrs. L. W. (Chip) Robert are present. I met also Bill Kirby, father of Atlanta's golfing Dorothy Kirby; Luther Jones, from Canton, and others from Georgia.

Nature Provides Spare Tires That Enable Us to Prolong the Journey

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The man who named it "high blood pressure" deserves no thanks from the old people who have it. That description of their malady makes them feel like an inner tube.

But the pressure of their blood hasn't increased. Their arteries have hardened and lost elasticity. And the figure called their blood pressure merely tells the pressure of air required to stop the blood's circulation.

It is arrived at by wrapping a rubber tube around the arm, pumping air in the tube to increase its pressure, and noting the point at which the circulation stops. If it takes heavy pressure to choke the arteries, they are getting pretty stiff and a little strain will break them.

That isn't scientific, but it gives the general idea and will serve to illustrate a suggestion to prolong the lives of the old folks.

An Ohio doctor, studying in Europe, discovered that a diabetic patient, whose feet were almost lifeless and ready for amputation, could ski with the best of them when taken to the mountaintops. In the higher altitude his feet came back to life.

Luck had shown the doctor a fact long overlooked. The pressure of air at sea level is 15 pounds to the square inch—150 pounds in the palm of your hand. It is enough to keep the blood from circulating in little vessels near the skin.

But in the thin air of the mountains, the pressure is so light that surface vessels carry a larger share of the circulation and give the others a rest. Now the doctor is saving doomed feet by means of a vacuum box that artificially reduces air pressure.

In his description of Virginia City in the old boom days, Mark Twain mentions the altitude—some 7,000 feet—and tells how it affected the circulation, bringing so much blood to the surface that any scratch of the skin was a long time in healing.

It has been known for ages that mountain air prolongs life. In fact, it is only in mountain regions that centenarians are not uncommon.

The old-timers accepted a fact without waiting for its scientific explanation. It was enough to know that mountain air was good for them. Now we may learn that its chief service was that of lightening the pressure on spare blood vessels.

Barter Proposal Supported By Foreign Trade Council

System Would Counterbalance German Methods, National Body Declares.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—The proposal that the United States engage in a system of barter today won official support of the National Foreign Trade Council, an organization supported chiefly by large United States corporations doing an international business.

Such a system, said the council, "which implements our trade agreement policy, violates none of its principles, tends to increase the total of international trade during a period of economic crisis, and meets the challenge of German compensation methods" is the answer to the need of finding a means of strengthening "America's defensive plans against the inroads made in our foreign markets by the German type of compensation trade or barter."

The proposal, the council continued, in its statement, provides a "constructive plan" which "should go far to meet and overcome the obstacles to freer international trading created by the compensation operations of the totalitarian nations."

The proposed barter system, the statement added, if kept in conformity with the existing trade agreement policy, "would create credits for the movement of our surplus products and permit the building up in the United States of necessary stocks of raw materials.

However, said the council, "it should be clearly established that operations of this nature should in no way compete with or affect the normal commercial movement of goods."

The barter proposal, recently made by a White House spokesman, was that the United States actively engage in a system of barter as a national policy whereby its surplus cotton and other farm products could be exchanged for essential raw materials such as rubber, tin, manganese and chromes ores, mercury, etc., not produced in sufficient quantities domestically.

PARKS IN GEORGIA LAUDED BY LIEBER

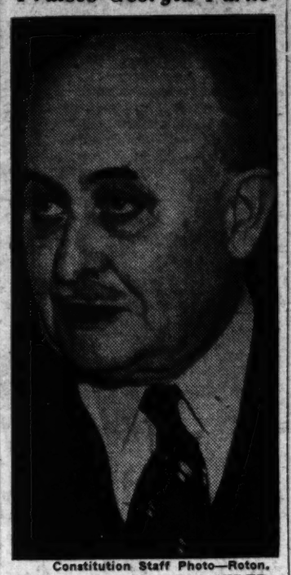

Head of National Body Says State Leads U. S. in Natural Resources.

Georgia has more natural park resources than any state in the Union, Colonel Richard Lieber, of Indianapolis, Ind., president of the National Conference on State Parks and vice president of the American Planning and Civic Association, said yesterday.

He ended a week's tour of the state with Charles N. Elliott, director of the state park system.

"I believe that parks, first of all, should be inspirational and spiritual, but at the same time should have a definite material value," Colonel Lieber asserted. "By parks, I mean places where natural beauty and points of historic interest are preserved intact for future generations."

GARNER IS THE MAN, SAYS L. W. ROBERT JR.

NEW ORLEANS, April 13.—(UP)—L. W. Robert Jr., secretary of the Democratic national executive committee, today said there was a "great feeling" that Vice President John N. Garner "is the man for 1940."

Here attending the convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, Robert said the possibility that Garner would be nominated for President by the Democratic party resulted from "this natural swing to conservatism."

MARKET LICENSE BATTLE SETTLED

City Collects $1,000 First Quarter Fees.

A four-year battle between the city and operators at the State Farmers' Market on Courtland avenue was believed settled yesterday as Joe Richardson, city clerk, announced collecting about $1,000 of licenses.

Operators had contended they were not subject to license.

After several court brushes, opposition has ceased. The fees already collected represent the first quarter of 1939.

FUNDS WITHHELD FOR HUIET PAY ROLL

ernment also has withheld approval of expenditure of about $50,000 left from the last quarter.

Three-Hour Probe.

"Mr. Huiet has not yet submitted to me a list of the personnel of his department in accordance with the law as I construe it," the Governor said. "I have given approval to certain salaries for certain functions of the department, but I have not approved any personnel because it has not been submitted in proper form."

The economy committee spent nearly three hours yesterday hearing from three Stewarts, Charles E., his two sons, J. E. B. and George, Governor Rivers, Commissioner Huiet and Zack D. Cravey, factory division chief.

Wednesday Huiet and Cravey testified that George Stewart was placed on the Huiet pay roll from inferential pressure of the Governor's office and that J. E. B. Stewart had been added after Huiet's budget reached the Governor's office.

Rivers said he had never requested Huiet to place either Stewart or "anyone else" on the Labor Department pay roll. Huiet confirmed this statement. Huiet then read a letter to the committee in which he recited that he had asked George Stewart to help him get the budget approved and that during the process Stewart's name had been added to the pay roll.

Rivers interposed neither Huiet nor any other department head needed a "go-between" to get the budget approved.

"As proof of the fact that Commissioner Huiet did not need a go-between, I want to cite in his presence an instance concerning a previous budget where I transferred to Commissioner Huiet the sum of $1,000 which he said he needed to meet his pay roll," the Governor said, as Huiet nodded assent. "Mr. Huiet told me that he did not even have enough money to pay his own salary and I transferred what he needed from the stabilization fund. I told Mr. Huiet then that I wanted to help him and his department."

Stewart Testifies.

During the hearing J. E. B. Stewart sat at Huiet's elbow while George Stewart, flanked by his father, sat across the table. George Stewart testified briefly.

"I tried to help Mr. Huiet only after he had called numerous times at my law office and my home," the younger Stewart said. "When I discussed the budget with the Governor, Mr. Rivers informed me the delay in acting on it was because he had to spend so much time pruning the budgets of the larger departments. At that time I had no idea of trying to get a job with the department."

Young Stewart then asked Huiet if he ever had asked him for a job and Huiet said no. He then asked Cravey the same question and Cravey answered in the negative. Charlie Stewart, father of the Stewart boys, said he had urged George not to have a permanent job in the labor department because no legal work was involved.

Newspapers Cited.

Chairman Wilmer D. Lanier and Vice Chairman James V. Carmichael said as the hearing concluded that the "newspapers apparently were correct when they quoted Huiet as saying that the Governor's office had influenced the hiring of George Stewart."

"Now the commissioner apparently takes back those statements," Carmichael said, as Lanier chimed in his approval.

Chairman Lanier handed Huiet a copy of Representative Kendrick's testimony, telling the commissioner he must answer the charges later before the committee.

Kendrick Attacks Huiet Unit.

Representative Kendrick charged "there is more waste and extravagance in this department than in all other departments of the state combined, according to the number of people employed."

He charged the Department of Labor "does not function according to law; it does not perform the duties that it was created for," and contended it "is operated absolutely and totally with the idea of keeping jobs."

Chairman of the industrial relations committee of the Georgia house, Kendrick was co-author of the measure creating the present Department of Labor.

"Are you disappointed in the department?" asked Chairman Lanier.

"I think it would be better not to have any department at all than the way it is being operated," replied Kendrick.

Lists Duties of Unit.

Kendrick said the chief duties of the department of labor are conciliation and factory inspection.

"I would like to know, as a member of the legislature, why all these political lawyers are employed in the department," he said.

He added he had no criticism of the re-employment service, the Industrial Board or the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Meanwhile Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruled the State Budget Bureau—composed of the Governor and state auditor—may increase quarterly allotments to departments, but cannot add extra employes to departmental pay rolls.

The ruling was submitted to the house economy investigating committee in reply to question arising out of charges by Huiet.

SPEED RECORD SET BY ATLANTIC CLIPPER

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—The flying boat Atlantic Clipper flew from New York to Bermuda today with 25 passengers in 3 hours and 53 minutes—a new record for the 779-mile course, Pan-American Airways announced.

On its regular return flight tomorrow, the 74-passenger plane will carry 61 persons, a world record for commercial passengers in heavier-than-air craft, the line said.

DON'T LAUGH YET!

This is One-Pants Egbert.

Coat and vest rarin' to go places. Pants at the presser's.

But don't laugh. Not yet, anyhow. Even if you know the answer, there's still a little bit of Egbert in some of the neighbors.

Some day the presser is going to decide to go back to Greece, or come down with appendicitis, or suddenly become the father of twins.

Then what's going to happen to the One-Pants Egberts?

If they're smart, they'll become fathers of "twins", too. At Bond's—where 2 trousers go with every suit*. And "pressing headaches" go out the window.

Maybe a personal valet and a closet full of clothes would also solve the problem. But for most of us, extra trousers are the best bet. For that extra margin of safety. For extra wear.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS

By EMILY BRONTE

INSTALLMENT XXII.

"Zillah left and Mr. Heathcliff wished me to come, soon after you went to London, and stay till you returned. But, step in, pray! Have you walked from Gimmerton this evening?"

"From the Grange," I replied; "and while they make me lodging room there, I want to finish my business with your master; because I don't think of having another opportunity in a hurry."

"What business, sir?" said Nelly, conducting me into the house. "He's gone out at present, and won't return soon."

"About the rent," I answered.

"Oh! then it is with Mrs. Heathcliffe you must settle," she observed; "or rather with me. She has not learnt to manage her affairs yet, and I act for her; there's nobody else."

I looked surprised.

"Ah! you have not heard of Heathcliff's death, I see," she continued.

"Heathcliff dead!" I exclaimed, astonished. "How long ago?"

"Three months since: but sit down and let me take your hat, and I'll tell you all about it."

I was summoned to Wuthering Heights, within a fortnight of your leaving us, she said; and I obeyed joyfully, for Catherine's sake. My first interview with her grieved and shocked me: she had altered so much since our separation. Mr. Heathcliff did not explain his reasons for taking a new mind about my coming here; he only told me he wanted me, and he was tired of seeing Catherine: I must make the little parlour my sitting-room, and keep her with me. Catherine, contented at first, in a brief space grew irritable and restless, but after a while she changed her behaviour and became incapable of letting Hareton alone: talking to him: commenting on his stupidity and idleness.

"He's just like a dog, isn't he, Ellen?" she once observed. "I know why he never speaks when I am in the kitchen. He's afraid I'll laugh at him. Ellen, what do you think? He began to teach himself to read once, and because I laughed, he burned his books and dropped it. Hareton, if I gave you a book, would you take it now?"

She placed one she had been perusing on his hand; he flung it off and muttered if she did not give over, he would break her neck.

"Well, I'll put it here," she said, "in the table drawer, and I'm going to bed."

Then she whispered to me to watch whether he touched it and departed. But he would not come near it, and so I informed her in the morning, to her great disappointment.

Mr. Heathcliff, who grew more and more disinclined to society, had almost banished Earnshaw from his apartment. Owing to an accident at the commencement of March, he became for some days a fixture in the kitchen. His gun burst while out on the hills by himself; a splinter cut his arm, and he lost a good deal of blood before he could reach home. The consequence was that, perforce, he was condemned to the fireside and tranquility, till he made it up again. It suited Catherine to have him there.

On Easter Monday I was busy getting up linen in the kitchen when I heard Catherine say:

"I've found out, Hareton, that I want—that I'm glad—tha tI should like you to be my cousin now, if you had not grown so cross to me and so rough."

Earnshaw sat, morose as usual, at the chimney corner, and my little mistress was drawing pictures on the window panes. By instinct she had divined it was obdurate peversity, and not dislike, that prompted his dogged conduct; for, after remaining an instant undecided, she stooped and impressed on his cheek a gentle kiss.

"So you won't be my friend," she said, smiling as sweet as honey and creeping close up.

I overheard no further distinguishable talk, but on looking round again, I perceived two such radiant countenances bent over the pages of an accepted book, that I did not doubt the treaty had been ratified on both sides; and the enemies were, thenceforth, sworn allies.

The intimacy thus commenced grew rapidly; though it encountered temporary interruptions. Earnshaw was not to be civilized with a wish, and my young lady was no philosopher, and no paragon of patience; but both their minds tending to the same point—one loving and desiring to esteem, and the other loving and desiring to be esteemed—they contrived in the end to reach it.

You see, Mr. Lockwood, it was easy enough to win Mrs. Heathcliff's heart. But now, I'm glad you did not try. The crown of all my wishes will be the union of those two. I shall envy no one on their wedding-day: there won't be a happier woman than myself in England!

On the morrow of that Monday Catherine got downstairs before me and out into the garden where she had seen her cousin performing some easy work; and when I went to bid them come to breakfast, I saw she had persuaded him to clear a large space of ground from currant and gooseberry bushes, and they were busy planning together an importation of plants from the Grange.

We always ate our meals with Mr. Heathcliff. Catherine usually sat by me, but today she stole nearer to Hareton; and I presently saw she would have no more discretion in her friendship than she had in her hostility. I frowned, and then glanced toward the master whose mind was occupied on other subjects than his company, as his countenance evinced; and she grew serious for an instant, scrutinizing him with deep gravity. Afterwards she turned, and Hareton uttered a smothered laugh. Mr. Heathcliff started; his eye rapidly surveyed our faces. Catherine met it with her accustomed look of nervousness and yet defiance which he abhorred.

Then Joseph came bursting into the room, muttering and cursing because the bushes in his garden had been removed.

"Is the fool drunk?" asked Mr. Heathcliff. "Hareton, is it you he's finding fault with?"

"I've pulled up two or three," replied the young man. "But I'm going to set 'em again."

"And why have you pulled them up?" said the master.

Catherine wisely put in her tongue.

"We wanted to plant some flowers there," she cried. "I'm the only person to blame, for I wished him to do it."

"And who the devil gave you leave to touch a stick about the place?" demanded her father-in-law, much surprised. "And who ordered you to obey her?" he added, turning to Hareton.

The latter was speechless; his cousin replied:

"You shouldn't grudge a few yards of earth for me to ornament, when you have taken all my land!"

"Your land, insolent slut! You never had any," said Heathcliff.

"And my money," she continued; returning his angry glare, and meantime biting a piece of crust, the remnant of her breakfast.

"Silence!" he exclaimed. "Get done, and begone!"

"And Hareton's land, and his money," pursued the reckless thing. "Hareton and I are friends now; and I shall tell him all about you!"

The master seemed confounded a moment: he grew pale, and rose up, eyeing her all the while, with an expression of mortal hate.

"If you strike me, Hareton will strike you," she said; "so you may as well sit down."

He had his hand in her hair; Hareton attempted to release her locks, entreating him not to hurt her that once. Heathcliff's black eyes flashed; he seemed ready to tear Catherine in pieces. Then he drew his hand over her eyes, stood a moment to collect himself apparently, and turning anew to Catherine, said with assumed calmness: "You must learn to avoid putting me in a passion, or I shall really murder you some time! As to Hareton Earnshaw, if I see him listen to you, I'll send him seeking his bread where he can get it! Your love will make him an outcast and a beggar!"

After that he spoke to none of us, ate very little, and went out directly afterwards, intimating that he would not return before evening.

The two new friends established themselves in the house during his absence. I came in to sit with them, after I had done my work; and I felt so soothed and comforted to watch them, that I did not notice how time got on. You know, they both appeared in a measure my children: I had long been proud of one; and now, I was sure, the other would be a source of equal satisfaction. While I admired and they labored with their studies, dusk grew on, and with it returned the master. He came upon us quite unexpectedly, entering by the front way, and had a full view of the whole three, before we could raise our heads to glance at him. Though Hareton was 23 and Catherine 18, each had so much novelty to feel and learn, that neither experienced nor evinced the sentiments of sober disenchanted maturity.

They lifted their eyes together to encounter Mr. Heathcliff: perhaps you have never remarked that their eyes are precisely similar, and they are those of Catherine Earnshaw. With Hareton the resemblance is carried farther; it is singular at all times, then it was particularly striking; because his senses were alert, and his mental faculties wakened to unwonted activity. I suppose this resemblance disarmed Mr. Heathcliff; he walked to the hearth in evident agitation, but it quickly subsided as he looked at the young man. He took the book from Hareton's hand and glanced at the open page; then returned it without any observation; merely signing Catherine away: her companion lingered very little behind her, and I was about to depart also, but he bid me sit still.

"It is a poor conclusion, isn't it?" he observed. "An absurd termination to my violent exertions? I have lost the faculty of enjoying their destruction, and I am too idle to destroy for nothing.

"Nelly, there is a strange change approaching: I'm in its shadow at present. I take so little interest in my daily life that I hardly remember to eat and drink. A minuate ago, Hareton seemed a personification of my youth, not a human being. His startling likeness to Catherine connected him fearfully with her. The entire world is a dreadful collection of memoranda that she did exist, and that I have lost her! Well, Hareton's aspect was the ghost of my immortal love; of my wild endeavors to hold my rights; my degradation, my pride, my happiness, and my anguish!"

"But what do you mean by a change, Mr. Heathcliff?" I said, alarmed at his manner.

"I shall not know what till it comes," he said. "I'm only half conscious of it now. My whole being has yearned towards it so long and so unwaveringly that I'm convinced it will be reached—and soon—because it has devoured my existence: I am swallowed up in the anticipation of its fulfillment. O God! it is a long fight, and I wish it were over!"

BUCKHEAD CLERK'S KIDNAPING STORY PROBED BY POLICE

Youth, 23, Says Two Men Abducted and Slugged Him Near Chattanooga; G-Men Join in Inquiry.

A story related by a 23-year-old Buckhead clerk last night put G-men in Atlanta and Chattanooga, the sheriff's office at Hamilton county, Tennessee, and Fulton county police investigating the tale.

Robert Campbell, of Doraville, told of having been kidnaped and robbed of a small sum of money while being forced to drive to Chattanooga and being beaten and put out on the highway near that city.

Lieutenant Cal Cates, of Fulton county police, said Campbell, employed in a feed store at 2969 Peachtree road, told him two young men, both about 25 years old, came into the store at about 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Locked Cash Register.

Campbell said he was alone, and the men asked the price of hay. Campbell told them. One of the men said, "It's too high." Then both walked to the front of the store to confer briefly.

Campbell told Lieutenant Cates he noticed a bulge that "looked like a pistol" in the overcoat pocket of one of the men.

Lieutenant Cates quoted Campbell as saying:

"I became suspicious and locked the cash register, putting the key under the telephone near by. One of the men meanwhile had left the store. The other said, 'Say, boy, is that your car parked out there?' He referred to my vehicle, but I told him it was not my car.

Man Draws Pistol.

"Then the man with the overcoat drew a pistol. I dialed the operator on the phone. He saw me, and grabbed the phone out of my hands. He tried to get at the register, but I told him it was locked and I had no key.

"He forced me into my car, and we picked up the other man, who was wearing overalls and a blue woolen jacket, about a block away. They made me drive to Chattanooga, and then 20 miles beyond on Route 41.

"They they made me turn back toward Chattanooga. About five miles from the city, they stole $3 from me, but overlooked $5 in my watch pocket. They began to beat me. One hit me with the butt of the pistol, and I passed out."

Campbell was found near his car by Captain Fryer, of the Hamilton county (Tennessee) sheriff's office. He was further questioned by FBI men at Chattanooga and returned here yesterday.

FBI officials here said they had not yet received a complete report from Chattanooga.

ICC MEMBER BACKS RAILROAD AID BILL

Codification of Present Law Opposed, However, by Joseph Eastman.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, indorsed most major provisions of the Wheeler-Truman railroad bill today, although he objected to the measure's proposed codification of the present law.

Contending that the objective of the legislation could be accomplished "more simply and readily" by adding new sections to the present law, Eastman told the senate interstate commerce committee the codification went too far toward uniformity in regulating widely diverse forms of transportation.

He expressed the opinion that the provisions of the bill were likely to have little effect on the financial condition of the railroads.

The measure was based on the recommendations of President Roosevelt's railroad management-labor committee and introduced by Chairman Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, of the senate committee.

It would subject all forms of transportation to uniform regulation under the Interstate Commerce Commission.

GUARD'S COST LOW, PROBE GROUP TOLD

Stoddard Says State Militia's Operation Is Cheap.

Adjutant General John Stoddard told the economy investigating committee yesterday Georgia's national guard, totaling 3,700 officers and men, is operated "at about half the cost of that of any other southern state."

The adjutant general said his department last year spent $35,588.19 for maintenance, compared with $104,000 in 1936. He estimated, however, the national guard could not be maintained to advantage for less than $100,000 a year, which would permit of an aviation squadron, including 169 enlisted men, 32 officers and 14 airplanes.

Wife, Too Old, So Man, 87, Attends Cooking School

BATON ROUGE, La., April 13. (AP)—A bewhiskered old man, Theo Drew, 87, says he's attending a cooking school here to pick up some new ideas for his wife.

"My wife is getting along in years," said Drew. "She's 78 and isn't spry enough to come out here so I thought I'd come and then tell her about it."

VERSAILLES TREATY BLAMED FOR ROWS

Borah Says Both Totalitarians and Democracies Were Violators of Pacts.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, veteran member of the senate foreign relations committee, blamed both totalitarian states and democracies today for Europe's troubles.

The democracies, Borah said, were guilty of intolerance when they drafted the "spoils" treaty of Versailles. Both groups of nations, he asserted, were "violators of treaties."

Contending the principles of democracy or dictatorship would not be at issue if a new European conflict comes, he said it would be a "sordid, imperialistic war."

Borah expressed his views in a letter to Marvin Claussen, a college student at Northfield, Minn., who had asked the senator's opinion on where America should stand in the crisis.

Borah said that whatever the views of the European powers on ideologies, those powers "pursue one and the same course when they come to deal with international affairs."

"They all alike violate treaties, disregard the most fundamental principles of right, pursue methods which inevitably lead to war, and then call upon the United States, Canada and other nations to save them from their own intolerable, ambitious methods."

Borah added:

"When the time comes for the rising generation to deal with Naziism, Fascism, Communism, the devil's brew, which has been entered to the clean-minded, patriotic American boys, they will deal with it upon American soil, and not in foreign lands where they would be sold out within a fortnight after they might have finished their job, as they were at Versailles."

FOREIGN WEEKLIES LAUNCHED BY NAZIS

National Socialism Exported on Large Scale.

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP)—With the press at home denouncing Britain and Nazi spokesmen blaming democracies for war talk, it appeared tonight that Germany had begun to export National Socialism on a large scale by publications abroad.

Zeitungs-Verlag, important weekly publication of German publishers, disclosed that four Nazi weeklies had been launched in as many countries—Britain, France, Switzerland and the Netherlands—to:

"Reveal the real nature and development of National Socialist Germany by word and picture beyond the confines of the Reich, and to create relationships of mutual confidence between Germans and the countries where they are guests."

BOY, FATHER SWEEP STOCK SHOW PRIZES

Young Farmer-Student Takes Grand Championship in Troup Event.

LAGRANGE, Ga., April 13.—Curtis Avery Jr., 16-year-old 4-H Club boy of the Union Community and freshman at the University of Georgia, captured the grand championship award and most of the other blue ribbons at the Troup County Livestock Association's first fat cattle show here today.

J. Forest Johnson, of LaGrange, won the reserve championship award.

Avery's blue ribbon winners were entered in the 4-H Club medium and heavyweight classifications, and in the pen classification of three steers, while his father, Curtis Avery Sr., won first prize in the carlot classification, showing 15 Herefords.

Complete list of ribbon winners follow:

4-H Club Individual Classes—Lightweight: Jake Swett, first; Curtis Avery Jr., second; Ridley Ayers, third. Medium: Curtis Avery Jr., first; Tamlin Hall, second; Laval Langford, third. Heavy: Curtis Avery Jr., first and second; Earl Thompson, third.

Judges were Tap Bennett, of Pine Mountain Valley; W. L. Coney, Randolph county (Alabama) agricultural agent, and L. I. Skinner, of the state extension service.

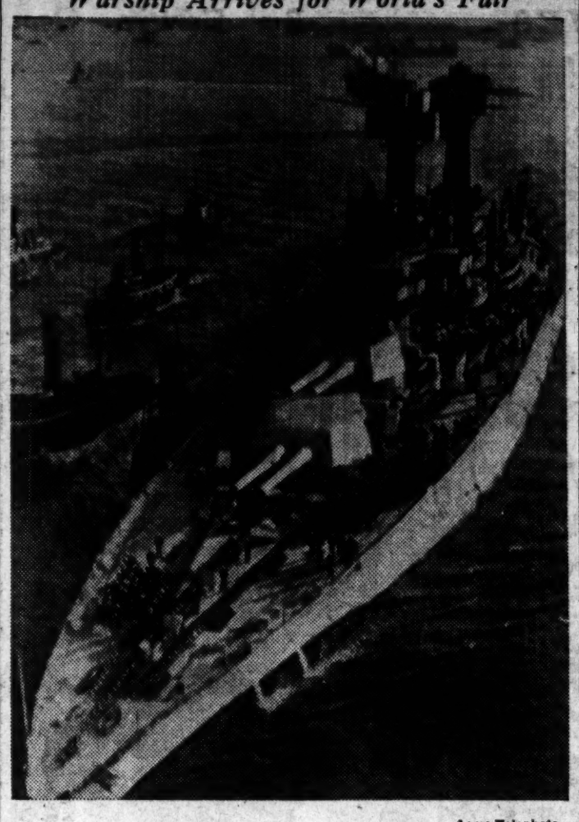

R. J. Baker, of Washington, head of the National Market News Service, and James Hartnell, of Thomaston, Georgia representative, were in attendance, as were county agents from adjoining counties.

Ralph E. Davis, of the state extension service, in Athens, assisted Curtis Glass, president of the Troup Livestock Association, in supervision of the show, which he described as "as creditable a first show as I've seen in any section of the state."

WOMAN DIES BY GUN IN HANDS OF MATE

Revolver Accidentally Discharged as Thomasville Man Cleans It.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 13. Mrs. W. H. Hatcher was instantly killed at her home here Tuesday when a revolver was accidentally discharged in the hands of her husband as he was cleaning the gun.

The bullet from the old .38-caliber revolver struck Mrs. Hatcher in the head. Her husband immediately notified authorities, and the shooting was investigated by sheriff's deputies.

Several children were playing on the front porch of the suburban home when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Hatcher, who moved here with her family in February, having previously lived near here on the Boston road, is survived by her husband and three young sons.

FARLEY DESCRIBES NEXT PRESIDENT

Will Be 'Forward-Looking Individual' of the Democratic Party.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 13.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, in a Jefferson Day address here tonight, predicted the next president would be "a forward-looking individual who belongs to the political party that gave the nation Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The chairman of the Democratic national committee praised the "New Deal" and asserted "history will record that no administration since that of Washington is more conspicuous for constructive achievement for the good of man." His speech before the Lynchburg Young Democratic club was broadcast from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m. over a nation-wide hookup by the National Broadcasting Company.

Opponents of the Roosevelt administration, the speaker said, do not dare to tell what policies they will sponsor, and are "trying to sell the people a pig in a poke."

Farley described former President Hoover as the "most articulate and the most courageous" among the leaders of the opposition, and as "the only leader among the enemies of Roosevelt who has the temerity, if not the capacity, to submit some kind of program.

"It may be a shop-worn program," he continued, and "maybe its tell-tale fingerprints are well known and registered in the homes of millions. . . . But at least it is a program.

"Many of his party may mistrust him, some may even doubt his popular appeal; a few may question the wisdom of his frankness, but none of his associates can match his presumption in urging a return to his reactionary measures," Farley said.

FDR DECLINES TO AID HALLIBURTON SEARCH

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Representative Havenner, Democrat, California, said today President Roosevelt had declined to give a naval ship or plane the special assignment of searching for Writer Richard Halliburton, because there were no craft available in the Pacific ocean area where Halliburton disappeared.

The author-adventurer set sail several weeks ago in a Chinese jung from China, bound for San Francisco.

Havenner, who had asked the President to authorize the Navy Department to start a search, said he was advised by the White House that naval craft in the Pacific had been instructed to keep a general lookout for the missing boat.

DEKALB CAN'T CARE FOR INSANE, IS CLAIMED

Georgia's insane, with the proper treatment, are harmless and eventually may be cured, but will become violent cases if the counties are forced because of lack of state funds to accept their return, Scott Candler, DeKalb county commissioner, declared yesterday, when informed that 25 Milledgeville inmates would be returned to the county prison in Decatur.

"The DeKalb jail can only accommodate a limited number of prisoners and is not equipped to become a temporary institution for the insane," Candler said.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS TO BE TECH GUESTS

Fifty Atlanta high school seniors will be guests of Skull and Key, honorary sophomore organization, at an all-day visit to Georgia Tech tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Frank Allcorn, Skull and Key president.

The program will include a tour of the campus, a luncheon at which Dr. M. L. Brittain, president, and Dr. N. S. Herod, of the physics department, will be the principal speakers, attendance at the Tech-Florida track meet and the annual Skull and Key tea-dance.

MAY EXEMPT GROUP.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, said today the house labor committee had "substantially agreed" on a proposal to exempt white collar workers earning $200 monthly from the wage-hour act.

TAFT TO SPEAK.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(UP)—Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, will speak at a special luncheon meeting of the Philadelphia Association of Life Underwriters April 28, it was announced tonight.

Singer Too Busy for Temperament Turns Over That Job to His Wife

'But Why Not?' Inquires Vivacious Madame Melchoir Citing 'Her Day.'

By YOLANDE GWIN.

"Me?" asked Melchoir, as he paused at Candler field yesterday. "I never change. I never get excited. There is no temperament about me. I'm too busy and too happy. But my wife. Ah! She is the one. She doesn't mean it. She loves me."

"What can I do?" chimed in Madame Melchoir, a vivacious blond. "I have to run the business of this singing career, I look after all the mail, I make all the arrangements for everything. I keep the schedules running. I do everything. Why not be temperamental? But we don't care, do we, Schtsi?"

(She calls him Schtsi, meaning "treasure," and he calls her Kleinchen, meaning "teenie weeny.")

The Melchoirs arrived here yesterday from Dallas, after an exciting trip in a special plane from the Texas city to Meridian, boarding the regular plans in the latter city.

"Next to her, I like hunting," he said.

The Melchoirs have been married 14 years, the singer saying that his wife "fell out of heaven right into my arms."

She was Maria Hacker, a European movie actress. While making a picture she made a parachute jump and Melchoir was near where she came down. She married him, left the movies and stopped jumping. "It was the best jump I ever made!" she commented.

As soon as she arrived in Atlanta Madame Melchoir telephoned her friend, Mrs. Robert Hecht.

LAURITZ MELCHOIR.

familiar negro spirituals was enthusiastically received. "Old King Cole' 'brought into union all sections of the club, featuring Wilson Morgan as soloist.

Handel's "Hallelujah, Amen," from "Judas Maccabaeus," was presented effectively.

There were solos by John Bumstead, Barnes Sale, President Fritz McDuffie, George Jordan and Douglas Moore.

$3,400 IN JEWELRY REPORTED STOLEN

Woman Sign Painter Says Home Was Looted.

Theft of $3,400 worth of jewelry was reported to police last night by Mrs. Irene M. Thompson, of 129 North avenue, the city's only woman sign painter.

Mrs. Thompson said she discovered the loss following a visit of a woman friend, whom she had not seen in two years.

Detectives J. H. Langley and W. E. Hickey, assigned to investigate, said a suspected woman rode three taxicabs to different points the afternoon of her visit to Mrs. Thompson's home.

Weather Experts Hold Convention Here Next Week

The men who tell the public what tricks the weather will play "tomorrow" will hold their annual convention in Atlanta next week.

Approximately 100 members of the American Meteorological Society are expected here for meetings in the physics building at Tech Thursday and Friday, and Saturday morning. Host to the convention will be George W. Mindling, in charge of the Atlanta weather office.

Thirty-two talks are scheduled for the three days. Among speakers will be F. W. Reichelderfer, Washington, chief of the Weather Bureau; E. E. Sell, of the University of Georgia, and bureau officials of Georgia, Tennessee, Florida and Alabama.

PATENT IS GRANTED ON PULP MACHINE

John B. Dove, Atlanta inventor, was advised yesterday that he had been granted a patent on a pine pulp rayon spinning machine. The patent number is 2,154,304.

Much of the work on the machine was done at the Tech experiment station with the help of Tech engineers.

13th Twice Unlucky For Officer's Pants

The 13th proved unlucky twice within 30 days for the pants of Radio Patrolman T. J. Sykes.

March 13, the officer ripped his trousers on a barbed wire fence while capturing a suspected bootlegger. He purchased "replacements."

Last night, while capturing another suspected bootlegger, the officer tore the "replacements" on another barbed wire fence.

SESQUICENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE TO END

Close of celebrations of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the United States Constitution will be marked with special ceremonies this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Atlanta Hospice, 320 Crew street, S. W., with Mrs. Wellington Stevenson in charge of arrangements.

The event is being sponsored by the American citizenship committee for Georgia Woman's Democratic Club.

Girl Seeks Post In Army Medical Reserve Corps

Recalling the days when the legendary Amazons were the finest fighting force in the world, Miss Audrie Leah Bobb, of Starkville, Miss., applied yesterday for a commission in the United States army medical reserve corps.

Major M. D. Cannon said the action was "unprecedented," and forwarded the application to corps area headquarters in Atlanta.

"She evidently didn't know that army regulations bar women," the major said.

The usual supply of applications were sent, Major Cannon said, to the graduating class of the University of Tennessee School of Medicine, of which Miss Bobb is a member. She returned it, and took her physical examination.

"Women are just as capable as men in all phases of medicine," she said.

Army regulations say the service will take only males over 21.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 13.—Daylight saving time will go into effect here April 30, instead of April 23, city officials announced, after discovering a typographical error in a city council resolution to the effect that Marietta will observe "fast" time. The "fast" time ends September 30.

EMORY GLEE CLUB ACCLAIMED BY 2,000

University Singers Climax Successful Season With Annual Concert Here.

The Emory University Glee Club climaxed a successful season last night with its annual Atlanta concert in Glenn Memorial auditorium, attracting more than 2,000 music lovers.

Under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, the "South's Sweetest Singers," performed again in brilliant style. The program ranged from Franz Liszt's arrangement of Schubert's "Omnipotence," featured by Miss Myrtis Trimble, soprano soloist, to Lachner's ancient canon, "When I Know What You Know."

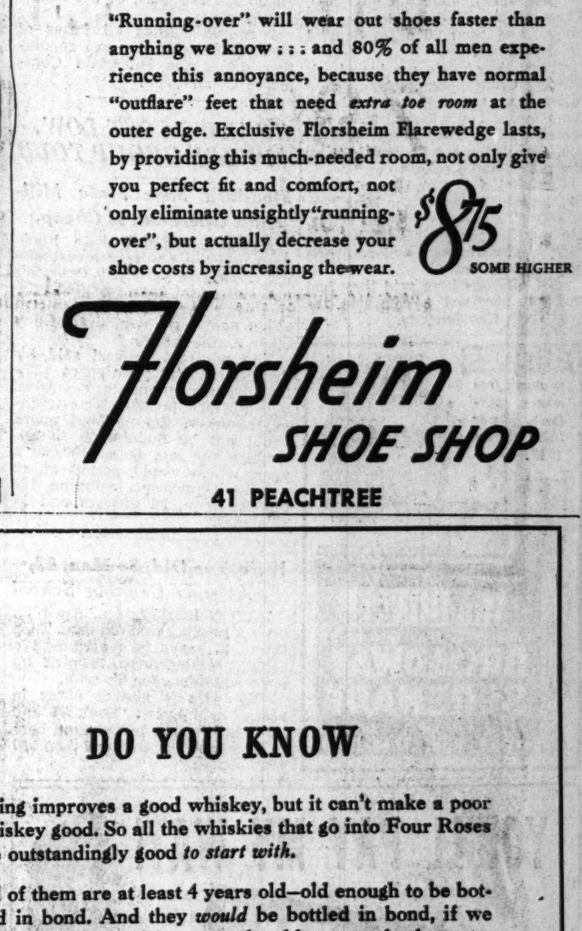

A feature was the group's repetition of Mark Andrews' "Remembrance," the musical setting to the poem by Robert Burns arranged for a club celebration last December.

Andrews' score to "The Highwayman," the ballad by Alfred Noyes, was treated with contrasting intensity, producing a genuine interpretation of the theme. Miss Trimble sang the soprano solo.

I KNOW FOUR ROSES IS ALL WHISKEY AT LEAST 4 YEARS OLD — IS THAT WHY YOU SAY IT'S AMERICA'S FINEST WHISKEY?

DO YOU KNOW

1 Aging improves a good whiskey, but it can't make a poor whiskey good. So all the whiskies that go into Four Roses are outstandingly good to start with.

2 All of them are at least 4 years old—old enough to be bottled in bond. And they would be bottled in bond, if we thought they would be as good, sold separately that way.

3 But our 74 years' experience has taught us that the finest whiskey is made by combining several of our whiskies into one whiskey that's finer still.

4 Then we purposely make Four Roses lighter and milder, by reducing it to 90 proof (instead of the stronger 100 proof which bottled-in-bond whiskies must be).

5 Four Roses is ALL whiskey—with the mellowness of age, and the greatness that only generations of distilling skill can give. Compare it with any other whiskey made.

A TRULY GREAT WHISKEY — FOUR ROSES

IT'S ALL WHISKEY 4 YEARS OR MORE OLD

$1.70 FULL PINT | $3.35 FULL QUART

Mrs. Hess Named Honorary Head Of Fifth District Clubwomen

By St. John Barnwell, Publicity Chairman for Fifth District Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Kate Green Hess was unanimously elected honorary life president of the Fifth District of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs at the meeting held yesterday at the College Park Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Albert Akers is president. Mrs. John D. Evans, president of the fifth district, presided.

The proposal was made by Mrs. A. I. Branham. Mrs. Hess has held several prominent offices in the federation and in the state organization. From president of the district 11 years ago and parliamentarian at present, Mrs. Hess has been a valuable club leader.

Mrs. Evans presented Mrs. Chester Martin, first vice president and club extension chairman, with a gavel honoring her nine new clubs, and Mrs. H. I. Shingler, state music chairman, sang an original song for the occasion.

Mrs. John K. Ottley, chairman of the board of trustees, presented a gavel to Mrs. W. B. Johnson, president of the Rhododendron Club, for the final presentation of the perpetual scholarship for Tallulah Falls school given in honor of the past president, Miss Annie May Broach.

Mrs. John MacDougald gave a splendid report of the progress made by the Ella F. White Foundation. The clubs of the fifth district were announced as 100 per cent in the Dollar-for-Tallulah plan.

Mrs. Roy Bean's excellent efforts in selling Dogwood Seals was rewarded by a scholarship given in her name, Grady Ingram Bean. Having rrised $285.89 by selling Dogwood Seals, the 40 per cent for Tallulah was presented and added to by Mrs. Evans, who gave another 40 per cent of the total.

Mrs. W. L. Ballenger conducted an impressive memorial service with the aid of Mrs. Guy Wood and Mrs. Arthur Styron. A motion was passed confirming the congressional bill supporting libraries for rural schools.

The luncheon meeting held at the College Park Club had for the principal speaker Dr. Beryl Parker, secretary-treasurer of the Childhood Education National organization, and associate professor of education at the New York University. The introduction of the speaker was made by Mrs. Guy Coker, president of the Atlanta Kindergarten Alumnae. Mrs. Alton B. Roberts, president of the Lithonia Women's Club, expressed welcome.

A resolution was passed by the fifth district pledging support of the sale of cotton products throughout every available means to stimulate the use of cotton. For prosperity in the south the southern club women united for purchasing cotton products.

The fifth district, a 100 clubs strong, held a successful meeting from 9:30 in the morning through the luncheon served in the redecorated Woman's Club at College Park.

Just Because You're Thin, You Can't Disregard Balanced Diet

Soap, Water Cleanliness Important Sanitation

By Dr. William Brady.

Some time ago, writes E. A. G., you replied to a query about disinfecting handkerchiefs, towels and other articles of clothing in a house where cri was prevalent, to the effect that boiling the clothes was not necessary as they are sterilized in the process of ironing. Please confirm or enlarge on this for the benefit or other readers.

A good many laymen, and by no means the class of low intelligence only, still regard disease germs as "lurking" about the premises with malicious intent. People who harbor this quaint notion of disease germs make good customers for "powerful" germicides, disinfectants or anticeptics and are the most difficult class to teach safe and sound sanitation or asepsis.

The wickedest germs in the entire bacterial family are not a menace so long as they merely lurk in nooks or crevices. They can't crawl out after you. They can't fly at you. Don't get hot and bothered about germs that, in your morbid imagination, "breed" about the premises. Use any amount of the most "powerful" germ killers available and you will be not a mite nor a micrococcus safer than you were before.

The germ of lockjaw (tetanus) is a natural or normal inhabitant of the intestinal tract of domestic animals. Of 500 human fecal specimens examined in California one-fourth were found to contain tetanus spores. In the spore stage or state the tetanus germ may survive under conditions which would certainly destroy most disease germs. Hence the danger of infection of trifling wounds, punctures, scratches or fireworks or gun powder burns when the skin is even slightly soiled with street dust or grime, garden soil, etc. No known antiseptic or distinfectant or germicide can prevail against tetanus or the risk of tetanus following such wounds. Only an immediate injection of a dose of tetanus antitoxin can be relied upon to prevent this dread complication.

Fomites (plural of fomes, pronounced fom-i-tez) are substances or things which may absorb or retain the virus or germs of disease and possibly be the means of spreading the disease. In the theory and practice of sanitation 50 years ago fomites were pretty important. I remember some tall stories the professors were fond of repeating, stories that were almost hallowed traditions, in which taking an old letter from a trunk in the attic or donning for a costume party an article of clothing left by grandma caused an outbreak of, er, scarlet fever. Scarlet fever was the favorite disease in these yarns—you know, the virus or germ of scarlet fever was as yet unidentified—so how could any one give the yarn a horse haw-haw?

Only place where modern doctors are particularly concerned about fomites today is in the operating room, but that's another story.

The moral I hope to impress on the reader's mind is that plain soap and water cleanliness is the important part of sanitation. Nothing else matters much.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS.

Exercise for Hernia.

I was advised by a party that you have a set of exercises for hernia cases. (S. S.)

Answer — Exercises done regularly with one hand carefully supporting the hernial area, will prevent development of hernia and effect permanent cure in some cases. For instructions send stamped envelope bearing your address ("City" or "Local" is not an address) and ask for monograph on Hernia.

Dandelion Greens.

Unable to find dandelion greens in local markets. They say "We don't have them and don't know what they are." You mentioned dandelion greens as one of the richest sources of vitamin A. Please tell me where I can get dandelion greens. (W. F. F.)

Answer — Sharpen up your knichen knife, and put on a large apron with no holes in it. With the first persistent rumor of spring sally forth and find a nice vacant lot. When you see a green weed overpowering the grass around it, provided rosettes of coarsely pinnatified leaves arise, runcinate with lobes toothed, like a lion, dig it out clearly with your knife, drop in your apron, and continue till you have an apronful. Then trudge home with your haul, singing Funiculi. Dandelion greens are a good source of vitamin G and vitamin B (B complex), vitamin C, calcium, iron, as well as vitamin A. Wash the greens in running water, and serve as you would lettuce or chicory green (escarole) or beet greens. Dandelion greens yield twice as many calories as spinach does.

Scarlet Fever Prophylactic.

Kindly give your opinion of shots to prevent scarlet fever. (Mrs. A. M.)

Answer — It is questionable whether toxin or toxoid injections immunize against scarlet fever. Further study and investigation is needed to determine the value of the practice.

Her Son's Wife Thwarts Love Of Mother

By Caroline Chatfield

Dear Miss Chatfield: My only son married a woman considerably older than himself and I had every intention of loving her but she wouldn't let me. I make my living and am not dependent upon son for anything but love. I don't intrude on them, go to visit only when I am invited which is too often for my daughter-in-law since she always makes me feel I'm in the way. If son even suggests a ride in the car to see old friends, she vetoes it.

I haven't had words with her and won't but I wonder if I should continue to take what she puts on me. For example I knitted her a robe and she thanked me for it saying she would have preferred another pattern, straightway consigned it to the attic where it has been since. My son is kind to her kin and her kin is kind to me but she is hardly polite. In spite of her years she behaves like a spoiled child. MRS. A. B.

Answer: Dear lady, it's likely that the old gal's advanced years are partially responsible for her outrageous inconsideration of your feelings. She wants to play mama to her husband (thwarted maternal instinct) and your presence is a reminder that you got there first. This isn't excuse for her conduct, but it may in part account for it.

Your patience has been commendable but as for laying yourself liable to her rude rebuffs for her here out. I'm inclined to think it would be better for you to stay away from her home and let your son do the visiting. Her invitations extended from a sense of duty (your son probably demands this much of her) are insults if they aren't followed by courteous treatment when you are in her home.

Making a liberal allowance for Christian charity, which says turn the other cheek, not even a mother should have to subject herself to regular earboxings from a jealous, ill-mannered daughter-in-law. The peace which we all want to keep with our families can sometimes be best preserved by separation, for there are some people with whom we can maintain smooth surface relations only by staying away from them.

How fortunate are those who don't have to live with disagreeable in-laws nor depend upon them for the bread one eats and the bed one sleeps in.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Affinities: Cruelty and cowardice are close affinities; never closer than when they meet in the person of a wife who would wean her husband from his widowed mother.

My Day: Amputations of Freedom Must Sometime Cease

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—I had a letter yesterday from a woman who takes me solemnly and somewhat bitterly to task, because she finds that I am "just as silly as other women." She remarks sadly that those who really suffer in the world today, day in and day out, rarely get any sympathy, but I will write a column on the subject of a passing anxiety when my daughter had a baby. That certainly is sufficient transient to go by unnoticed, says she, and I have proved myself a foolish sentimentalist.

Perhaps she is right, and I accept her reproof. The pain which results in joy is not to be thought of in the same breath as the kind of pain which simply means a weakening of the power to live with joy. Poor woman! I imagine she is suffering constantly, and it may not be just physical suffering, but mental suffering, which can mean even greater torment. A letter such as this makes me wonder how many people in the world have so much to bear themselves, that sympathy for anyone else is out of the question.

I have just come from a luncheon given by the wives of the members of the 75th congress. This group eats a comparatively simple meal, though it seemed to me sufficient for anyone's lunch, and makes its members pay for a banquet, with the result that what is left over from the actual lunch cost, may be used to help some young person. Last year, in this particular case, they gave a wheel-chair to a crippled boy. He now has an opportunity to study bookkeeping, but his stumbling block is the expense of transportation, so this year they will help him out on that.

It must give them a tremendous sense of satisfaction. For him, it will mean the difference between being dependent all his life and having some way by which he can earn a living.

It seems to me that the newspapers these days are full of wars and rumors of wars, but I do not think that the contention that this country is in need of a society to keep us out of war is very well founded. Neither do I think that the country is being pushed into a state of war hysteria.

This country knows very well that we do not want to go to war. We have nothing to gain by taking other people's territory. There is very little we need from any other nation, and we can obtain what we need without the use of force. We know, however, that there are things which we can lose. Every time a nation which has known freedom loses it, other free nations lose something, too. They find themselves undergoing a gradual process of amputation.

This country knows that at some time amputations of freedom must cease, and the world knows that the weight of our resources must be thrown on the side that will permit us to open a newspaper without wondering what new nation has been enslaved. We are not in danger of war hysteria, but calmly as we may survey the world, we realize that when this type of hysteria is abroad, one never knows at what point it will engulf even those most anxious to remain quietly on the outskirts.

Father of Eight Watsons Plays in "On Borrowed Time"

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLWOOD, April 13.—"On Borrowed Time," . . . The most interesting person on the set is not star Lionel Barrymore. Nor yet little Bobs Watson ("Pud"). But a gentleman by the name of Coy Watson, the father of Bobs and of eight other Watsons, each of whom has played anything from 20 to 120 movie roles.

Papa Watson is more than willing to talk about his dramatic brood. The oldest, Coy Jr., played with Jackie Coogan in "Buttons" 11 years ago. He is now aged 27, and divides his time between movie acting and news photography. "He's the idol of the family," says the senior Watson.

Next comes Vivien, aged 24. Vivien first appeared on the screen at the age of three weeks for Selig. "She was the first twilight baby in the movies," says her father proudly. Gloria is the next of the acting Watsons. She is now 22 and was named after Gloria Swanson, when, as Mr. Watson puts it, "Gloria and Wallace Beery were supporting the dog Teddy in the Mack Sennett comedies."

Louise Watson, aged 19, is named for Louise Fazenda, for whom Father Watson was working as property man at the time. Then comes Harry, aged 17. You recently saw Harry as the cockney boy in "Damsels in Distress," and as Sam in "Penrod and Sam." Billy, aged 15, was the Don MacDonald in "Kidnaped," and an O'Leary youngster in "In Old Chicago." Bobs was another.

Delmar Watson, who will be 13 in July, has appeared in 120 movies since his career began in "Taxi 13," with Chester Conklin. The entire brood of Watsons supported Delmar in "Taxi 13." In "To the Last Man," Delmar was supported by a then unknown golden-curled miss whose name was Shirley Temple.

Gary Watson, aged 10, was one of the seven Watsons in "Life Begins at 40," starring Will Rogers. And now we get to Bobs, aged 8, and currently the most in demand. In the last year, Bobs has played big roles in seven major productions—do you remember his cute performance as Pee-Wee in "Boys' Town" and his heart-breaking screaming in "Kentucky"? And you will like him yet more as the little deaf boy in "Alexander Graham Bell."

Father Watson started in pictures 28 years ago, emoting in a western for $3 a day. At that time, his troupe of actors consisted of four horses which he lent to studios at the rate of $2.50 a day. Mr. Watson also did some of that trick work for Douglas Fairbanks Sr. in "Thief of Bagdad." But he is now happier acting as manager for his nine thespians.

"Every major studio in town wants Bobs for a long-term contract," says Mr. Watson, who has turned down the offers for a surprising reason. "I don't want one to have more than the others. I want to keep them even. I want them all to be as rich or as poor as each other. The money they earn goes into a community pool. Our family motto is 'One for all and all for one.'"

To go from the sublime to something else, let's take a peek at Paramount's "Million Dollar Legs" set, where a lad who was much more famous in his day than any of the Watsons is killing time with a game of hearts for 1 cent a point. Yes, it's Jackie Coogan.

"Say, Coogan, whatever became of you?" cruelly cracks a would-be-funny gagster. Jackie flicks the ash off his cigar. Says nothing. "What sort of part have you?" I ask him." Two walk-ons and a line," Jackie replies with harsh joviality, and returns to his game, at which he has just won a fortune of 25 cents.

Large Bedrooms Have Pleasant Atmosphere

By Elizabeth Boykin.

Once upon a time in London, we visited the home of Mrs. Melloc Loundes, the English novelist, who Alexander Woollcott once described as Queen Victoria with a French accent. And it was her French ancestry that Mrs. Loundes credited with her affection for a big bedroom, where a lady could write and rest, have tea or just sit and ruminate.

Rural Leisure.

We sense a trend toward bigger bedrooms in the American scene . . . after all the "master bedroom" indicated in all plans for the newer houses is quite a spacious room. And pleasantly this room is assuming a feeling of rural leisure in its furnishings. Braided rugs and flowered walls, the addition of desk, chaise longue and fireplace give a gracious ease to such a room—make the space serve as secondary sitting room, morning room or study.

Another French influence on current bedroom styles is the prevalence of upholstered beds. Not the formal types that probably come to mind when the subject comes up—the upholstered beds we mean are unpretentious and provincial in mood, and often they're covered in chintz cretonne, sateen or twill. Watch also for them in pastel leathers and leatherettes. Two bedrooms in Lily Pons' country cottage have upholstered beds—her own bed is covered with quilted blue chintz. Another room has twin beds upholstered in gray-and-yellow flowered chintz. Consider this idea when you are refurnishing because the new upholstered beds aren't out-of-sight in cost.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is the best method of drying hair when it is shampooed at home?

A. After giving your hair a final rinse, rub briskly with a towel, both the hair and the scalp. While the hair is still wet, massage the scalp, parting the hair and pressing the finger tips into the skin. This is very stimulating to the growth of new hair. If possible dry the hair in the open air and sunshine, or in the winter at a sunny window.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone: write as directed.

Most Thin Girls Eat Too Much Rich Food

By Ida Jean Kain.

"If you eat so much that "it makes you thin to carry it around," you are eating too much of the wrong kind of food.

That is a mistake the thin girl is prone to make. When nothing seems to make you fat, you see no reason for not having all the rich foods you fancy. Much as you want to gain, you wouldn't be human if you didn't get a little secret fun out of being able to have more than your share of the de luxe desserts when most of the people around you are on reducing diets and not having any.

If that is the way you are going about it, however, you are not really trying to gain weight. You must hold yourself to good, wholesome foods and a balanced menu—not one top-heavy with carbohydrates. You may have to make as great a change in your food habits as the overweight who is struggling to reduce, and it may be just as hard for you as it is for her. In all fairness to the overweights, I believe they make more effort than you thin girls!

No matter how many rich foods you take, you cannot expect to gain weight unless you follow a balanced diet which assures certain highly important elements. You need green vegetables, even though they are low in calories, for their mineral and vitamin content. These elements are necessary to the proper co-ordination of your system and to the assimilation of food. They make it possible for you to use the energy and building foods to best advantage. The minerals are particularly important to you for their part in the digestion and absorption of foods high in fat.

We all seem to be born with a sweet tooth, but sometimes we have to cultivate a taste for vegetables. You need daily three cooked vegetables and two raw vegetables. You need at least two fresh fruits every day and one of them should be a citrus fruit, either oranges or grapefruit.

Even the reducers need a pint of milk a day for calcium, although they take theirs skimmed to decrease the calories. You thin girls have four glasses of whole milk each day for calcium, vitamins and calories.

Since milk, cream and butter are the most easily digested forms of fat as well as excellent sources of vitamins, you should increase your calorie intake in this direction. Your desserts should be custards, rice puddings with raisins and cream, bread and butter pudding, and so on, down the long line of easily digested desserts—the kind they give to children.

When you aim at improving your health through wholesome, nourishing menus, rather than at gaining a certain number of pounds, you will get somewhere!

Gay Sunbonnet Girls

By Alice Brooks

Pattern 6342.

Here's your chance to make the nursery gay—use these colorful sunbonnet girls! Just a simple applique patch for the dress—a smaller one for the bonnet—a bit of simple stichery and you're done! Use them on a bedspread, pillows, scarfs, curtains. The kiddies love seeing them about. Pattern 6342 contains a transfer pattern of 12 motifs averaging 4 3-4 by 5 inches; patterns for applique patches; materials needed; color schemes; illustrations of stitches.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in coin to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Bonita Granville, young featured Hollywood player, learned early that in order to keep her locks beautiful and shimmering, she must use her hairbrush regularly and properly.

Between-Shampoo-Cleansing Will Keep Hair Sparkling With Dewy Freshness

By LILLIAN MAE.

Ever try a beauty cocktail for your hair — a between-shampoo cleansing?

There's a very special hair tonic that will go far toward giving your hair and scalp health, life and cleanliness during the spring and summer days when perspiration has a tendency to make otherwise sparkling hair damp and stringy, and when loose dandruff becomes most apparent.

After you've tried it at home, you'll feel it's the most delightful and refreshing part of your toilette. It takes only a few minutes while you are cleansing and toning your face, but will do much to prevent falling hair and other scalp ills.

To use, simply saturate a piece of absorbent cotton with it, squeeze quite dry, and briskly go over your whole scalp—not your hair. Then, with a dry towel, wipe away any excess moisture and brush your hair outward and upward with a long-bristled brush. And I still insist that this treatment and brushing will not hurt your wave. Proper brushing makes a finger wave softer and more natural looking, and easy to push into position.

In these few moments you will have cleansed, toned and stimulated your scalp, given your hair a lively sheen, made it easier to manage and more beautifully groomed.

Try it and see if your scalp doesn't feel refreshed and your hair look positively radiant! I'll give you the name of the tonic if you'll phone me.

Special Slam Tries Demand Drastic Action by Bidder

By Harold Sharpsteen.

While the majority of successful slam contracts are reached through the medium of game-forcing jump suit and no-trump takeouts and jump raises, followed by conventional ace-showing rebids, some rare hands demand immediate drastic action by opening bidder.

An opening five major-suit bid, in the Culbertson system, offers one of these unusual types of special slam tries. Requirements for the bid are 11 sure winners, with no possible losers outside the trump suit, for example, holding:

(1)	S-A K Q	D-A K
	H-K J 10 9 8 5 4 3	C-None
(2)	S-A K Q J 10	D-None
	H-Q J 10 9 8 6 5 3	C-None

SEEKS TOP TRUMPS.

When partner opens five hearts with either of the above hands, responder raises at once to six hearts holding the ace, king or queen of hearts: Holding any two of these top honor-cards in trumps responder jumps immediately to seven hearts.

It is obvious this bid does not apply to minor suit openings of five.

MISSING TRUMP HONOR.

An opening bid of six in any suit is similar to an opening five major suit opening except that 12 winners are guaranteed. Partner raises to a grand slam holding any one of the three top honor-cards in trump.

Lacking the ace, king or queen of trumps, partner passes either the opening five major suit opening or any opening bid of six in a suit.

An opening bid of four no-trump bids, is based on a 4-3-3-3 suit distribution, showing about eight to eight and one-half honor tricks with 10 sure winners in high cards.

Impossible as it may probably seem, a hand containing 11 sure winners with the 4-3-3-3 distribution should be opened immediately at five no-trump and with 12 winners at six no-trump.

An opening four, five or six no-trump bid can be raised once by partner for every queen or higher card held.

Any five-card suit, regardless of its strength.

Over a four no-trump opening, responder is justified in jumping immediately to six in any six-card or longer suit.

H-A Q J 10	C-A K Q

'Til tomorrow. . . .

Fashion Art May Be Learned At Home With Aid of Booklet

An interesting career or a dull job? Of course, you'd choose a career—if you had the chance.

And you have! Fashion art, in which many young women are making outstanding successes, can be learned at home in spare time.

With the aid of charts and illustrations you understand the principles of drawing, the proportions of the figure.

The rules of figure balance, for instance, you grasp easily when you compare the body to a stack of coins, as illustrated above.

You see that a stack of coins in which the weight is unevenly balanced will fall. Similarly, in a drawing, if the weight of the body is unevenly distributed the figure appears to be falling. The right way is to distribute the weight evenly—as shown by the coins and figure at the right in our diagram.

Other technical points you master just as easily. You learn perspective, foreshortening—how to shorten the figure in certain positions as your eye shortens it.

You progress from simple line drawing to tone composition, learn how to do fabrics, furs. Soon you copy smart costumes, know how to feature important fashion details—the tilt of a hat, the touch of white on a dress.

You feel like a real "career girl" when you're ready to make your first professional call, portfolio under arm. Where to call? At department stores, advertising agencies, newspapers, magazines—all use fashion art.

Our 40-page booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, gives you practical instruction in fascinating and profitable fashion art. Has 138 illustrations — including charts based on the famous Da Vinci rules of figure proportion. Gives clear explanation of the principles of light and shade, wash, rendering of furs and fabrics. Tells how to make your work salable, professional.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, HOME COURSE IN FASHION ART, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

It's easy to tell that next year will see another national political campaign. Politicians have already begun to study the remarks of Thomas Jefferson.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP.

Why will women continue to commit that unpleasant crime of combing the hair in a theater, restaurant or other public place? 'Tis an utterly charmless gesture, to put it mildly.

A New Basque Frock

By Barbara Bell

Little girls feel very grown-up and dressed-up in a frock that hugs in at the waistline like big sister's! Here's a new design (1683-B) that will make the nicest little girl you know feel very happy, and look very sweet! The shoulders are widened by puff sleeves, the skirt swirls to extravagant fullness, and the pointed, basque waistline is fitted in with the most delightful snugness. And they all add up to a total of festive charm!

Use a crisp material for this little dress—taffeta, organdy or dimity, in plain pastels or a flower print, and trim it with contrasting bands. Hearts or tulips in applique, to accent the flare of the skirt, may be added if you like. Pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1683-B is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1-2 yards of 35-inch fabric; 1 1-4 yards contrasting for bands and applique.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Iris Club To Mark Tenth Birthday By Staging City's First Iris Show

By Sally Forth.

TAFT HALL in the city auditorium will resemble an iris garden in full bloom on April 24-25. The occasion will mark Atlanta's first Iris show and will be staged by the Iris Garden Club in celebration of the group's tenth anniversary.

The show will begin at 1 o'clock on April 24 and at 10 o'clock on April 25, remaining open on both days until 10 o'clock in the evening, when masculine garden enthusiasts will accompany their wives and dates to view the magnificent blossoms.

Iris, which runs the gamut of colors—yellow, lavender, purple, white and bronze—is one of the most universally-grown flowers. Many will be surprised to learn that it has a 10-month blooming season in this country!

The exhibit will feature the German, Siberian, earlier spurias and water varieties of iris, to be arranged in milk bottles for convenience in judging.

The garden novice will revel in the artistry of the flower arrangements. The specialist will be given opportunity to compare the fine blooms of the entries, which will be shown in novel manner. Sunken pools, graceful statuary, rugged rock gardens and neat grass borders will be improvised for the purpose of presenting the blooms to best advantage.

Among prizes to be awarded spectators at the show will be a pair of beautiful bird pictures painted by Mrs. Herbert Oliver, a talented member of the Iris Club.

Entries may be made until the hall is closed for final judging. A small fee will be charged for tickets, which may be bought at the door or from members of the Iris Club.

Mrs. Campbell Krenson is chairman of the exhibit and Mrs. Bolling Sassnett is co-chairman.

IF YOU are an adept at bridge, you may be the fortunate winner of a $100 portrait in pastels at the mammoth benefit bridge to be given at the Driving Club this afternoon by the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Club. The portrait is the gift of Frank Richardson Murray, who was formerly with the Vanderbilt Studios in New York, and he will paint any one you may choose for your subject.

Mr. Murray has been commissioned to paint such important people as Walter Chrysler Jr., Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, Andrew Mellon, Ann Harding, and any number of others. He is particularly good with children's portraits, some of his local subjects including the Cason Callaway children, of LaGrange, the Robert Strickland children and the children of Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison.

There will be a total of 500 prizes offered at the party, the grand collection including such valuable articles as portraits by leading photographers, dresses, lamps, garden tools, and whole sets of dishes.

A novel feature of the benefit will be the country store, where a gay carnival spirit will reign, and numerous articles will be on sale. The decorations are in the capable hands of Mrs. Emory Cocke, so you may rest assured the effect will be most attractive. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. P. Alexander Jr., chairman of decorations.

AMONG the first spring house parties to be held by a college fraternity was that at which the S. A. E.'s at Tech entertained last week end at picturesque Lake Burton.

Those enjoying fishing, boating and riding at the Georgia lake were Sarah Feeney, Emily Martin and Ruth Lowther, popular Atlanta belles, and J. Turner Jones, of Canton; Bob Thompson, of Clearwater, Fla.; Harry Nelson, of Atlanta; Gus Johnson, of Rutlooford, N. J., and David Lewis, of Columbia, S. C.

Henry Collier, of this city, motored to the mountain resort, where he joined the "brothers" and their dates for Sunday dinner.

PARIS PICKS Cotton

For information regarding the merchandise on this page and where you may obtain it, call your Constitution Fashion Editor, WA. 6565.

Cotton's new press-agent is Paris. With true Gallic practicality and chic, the Parisiennes have adopted cotton and made it their favorite child of the summer fabric family. Subsequently, cotton has taken on a few airs. And why not? It graces the smartest gowns . . . lending them a fragile, lingerie touch; it is pleated, tucked, and embroidered into delightful shirtwaists; dipped into glorious colors, it is made up into play clothes; it floats and skims over regal ballrooms; it has invaded the millinery, glove, and bag fields. With suave savoir-faire, cotton is at home for a country week-end, or equally at ease dining in town. Pique, batiste, organdy, dotted swiss, gingham—ad infinitum—and their chief charm is that they wash so beautifully. Rub-a-dub-dub . . . Cotton is King!

Two-piece American Golfer dress in chambray or seersucker especially designed to give golf enthusiasts complete freedom. Full-swinging skirt . . . generously cut shirt. Blue, green, rosebeige, and yellow.

High School Seniors To Visit Wesleyan

College preparatory seniors from the eight high schools in Atlanta will be guests of Wesleyan College next week end when the annual "Dormitory Day" is celebrated. Mrs. Walter Garrard as first vice president of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Association, working with schools, is in charge of arrangements and announces that entertaining features are planned for every minute that guests are in Macon.

Mrs. Garrard will be assisted with publicity and invitations in the high schools by the following alumnae: Mrs. W. S. Dumas, Washington Seminary; Mrs. William Elsas, North Fulton, Mrs. D. W. Clanton, Fulton; Miss Anabel Horn, Girls' High; Mrs. J. T. Stillwell, Decatur; Mrs. N. W. Gibson, Druid Hills High; Mrs. R. E. Boyle Jr., Russell, and Mrs. W. R. Bentley, North Avenue Presbyterian school.

Three buses will leave Saturday at 8 o'clock, and the girls will enjoy a tour over Macon, stopping at Mercer University for a short while. The actual program is not announced, as each year the college plans a big surprise for the honor guests, but there is always a horseshow and athletic demonstrations on the beautiful Rivoli campus; a dramatic or musical program at the Wesleyan Conservatory; a luncheon and a dinner party, all climaxed by a spend-the-night party in the dormitory with college students, which gives the visitors a clear picture of what college life is like.

This week end contestants from high schools over the state will learn the names of fortunate girls who are winners of the competitive examinations and historical essays which were held this winter. Awards are scholarships to Wesleyan College.

This entertainment is given annually and the funds are used for the benefit of camp members, widows, and other veterans in Fulton county, during the year.

Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs will arrange the program. Several talented musicians of the city will take part.

Honorary members of the camp, sons of Confederate veterans, who will act as ushers, are Loyd B. Walker, Otey B. Mitchell, Marshall Merck and James A. Rebb. The program begins at 8:30 o'clock. The public is invited. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Captain M. Y. Griggs is commander of the camp, and Mrs. Ernest B. Williams is secretary.

Atlantans To Attend Macon Convention.

Mrs. Jeannie Brown, state auditor and president of the North Georgia District; Mrs. Daisy Moultrie, state historian; Mrs. Beatrice Owen, delegate, and Mrs. Kate Thompson, members of Mary E. La Rocca Grove, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, will attend the state convention at the Dempsey hotel in Macon, April 16-18.

A memorial service on Sunday evening will open the convention. Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, of Atlanta, national director and state manager, will be the presiding officer. The business session will begin at 10 o'clock Monday, preceded by a breakfast for field workers.

Monday evening a pageant will be presented under the direction of Miss Myrtle Hardy, state captain. Tuesday's sessions will include election and installation of state officers and the initiation of candidates. At noon Tuesday a pep luncheon will be served.

Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, national president, will make the principal address of the convention.

Mrs. Florence Scarborough, of American Grove 217, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, who will leave Sunday to attend the state convention of the Woodmen Circle to be held in Macon April 16-18 as a delegate. Mrs. Scarborough has been active in Grove work for the past 21 years, and is one of the most valued members of the organization.

Mr. Daniel Feted On Birthday.

J. P. Daniel celebrated his 48th birthday last Wednesday with a dinner party given by Mrs. Daniel and their daughters, Mesdames Harold Boozer, James W. Warren Jr., E. W. Blue and Coy Skelton. Seventh-five friends of the honor guest, including a number of members of the Sylvester Baptist church, to which Mr. Daniel belongs, assembled at the Daniel residence on Flat Shoals avenue for the occasion.

During the affair music was furnished by a well-known band. Rev. N. L. Michael presented gifts to the honor guest in behalf of those present. He was assisted by Y. F. Geeslin.

Miss Martha Harris Weds Dupree Duffle.

CRAWFORD, Ga., April 13.—Miss Martha Louise Harris, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Harris, became the bride of Dupre Duffle last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was quietly solemnized at the home of Rev. W. M. Coil, of Winterville, in the presence of relatives.

Mr. Duffle is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Duffle. He is connected with his father in business. His only brother is Byron Duffle, of Chicago, Ill.

Garden Leader To Lecture Here

Mrs. Fae Huttenlocher, associate editor of Better Homes and Gardens, and nationally known as a table setting authority, will lecture at the Garden Center on April 19. Mrs. Huttenlocher is also a leader in the garden club movement, having been editor of the Garden Club Exchange since its inauguration 10 years ago. She has served as patroness and judge of the Chicago flower show, also at the International flower show in New York City.

Mrs. J. J. Nicholson, president of the Tulip Study Club, exhibited many handsome specimens of tulips including Aviateur, a two-toned, Ottawa, Fantasy, and the lily-flowered red tulip, Fulgens.

"Spring Gardening" was attractively demonstrated by the Avondale Garden Club, the committee including Mesdames C. F. Leach, H. M. Van Devender, Jack Harris.

Bouquets of pansies were contributed by Mrs. T. C. Satterwhite, of Decatur, and Mrs. Keith Conway, and Mrs. G. V. Golden, of East Point, brought spring snowdrops and tulips. Mrs. S. R. Dull brought sprays of Tamarix, a shrub with dainty pink flowers.

Miss White Weds Mr. Williams.

ROME, Ga., April 13.—Miss Zona Alice White, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. White, and Charles Benjamin Williams, son of Mrs. E. F. Williams, of Carrollton, were married Sunday morning at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. John W. Melton, pastor of First Presbyterian church, read the ceremony in the presence of the families.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Maurine Scruggs, of Rome and Gainesville; Herbert Williams, of Rome and Carrollton, cousin of the groom, served as his best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Milton E. White.

The bride wore a traveling costume of navy blue crepe trimmed in white silk pique and carried pink roses and valley lilies. Mr. and Mrs. White gave a wedding breakfast immediately after the ceremony.

The bride attended school in New England before coming to Rome for residence. She completed a course at Mount Berry College and later did graduate work at Gould College, Bethel, Maine. Her only brother is Herbert E. White, of Atlanta.

Mr. Williams studied at Emory University and Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala. He is now connected with the United States Soil Erosion Service of the Department of Agriculture, and working with the Rome unit. He is the son of Mrs. E. F. Williams, of Carrollton, and the late Mr. Williams. His brothers are Dr. E. F. Williams, of Memphis; Wayne Williams, of Carrollton, and Robert K. Williams, of Mobile.

Columbia Belle Weds H. W. McEachern.

MACON, Ga., April 13.—Miss Elizabeth Harrison and Harrell W. McEachern were married at a ceremony solemnized at Mulberry Street Methodist church parlors Saturday evening. Rev. Claud Singleton, of Eatonton, a cousin of the bride, officiated in thepresence of members of the families and a few close friends.

The bride wore a cameo blue chiffon gown with an accordion pleated skirt and tucked waist and a blue coat of sheer wool, collared with fox fur. Her hat was of cameo blue and her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. McEachern is connected with Washburn Storage company here. His bride, the daughter of J. Weathersbee Harrison, of Macon, has resided in Columbia, S. C., for the past year.

Grant Park Club.

Grant Park Woman's Club entertained recently at a reception honoring newly-elected officers. Mrs. Paul Traber, chairman of house committee, assisted by her committee, was in charge.

Mesdames S. C. Forrester, C. E. Sams, A. E. Coley, Ed Gifford Sr., W. T. Goodman and M. D. Glover received the guests.

Mesdames C. W. Heery, R. R. Petree, A. S. Stalling and Don Harris presided over the punch bowls.

Junior Woman's Club.

The College Park Junior Woman's Club met recently with the president, Mrs. G. L. Burnett, in charge of the meeting.

Plans were made for a dance, which will be given on May 5 at the Woman's clubhouse. Invitation will be by card only.

"RIGHT YOU ARE! THAT'S TEA AS IS TEA!"

FINER TEA—that was Sir Thomas Lipton's gift to the tea-lovers of seven nations. Today—no other tea is as popular as Lipton's. Here are the reasons:

1. WORLD-FAMOUS FLAVOR—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. TENDER YOUNG LEAVES—and luscious flavorful buds give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. SUPERB BLEND—that doesn't vary—praised by professional tea experts.
5. ECONOMICAL—so rich in flavor takes less tea per cup.

AIR REDUCTION CO.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—C. E. Adams, president of Air Reduction Co. told stockholders at the annual meeting today sales in the first three months of 1939 ran 9½ to 13 per cent ahead of business in the comparable period a year ago and the trend had continued through the first five days of April.

The company's net profit in the first two months, Adams stated, was 28 per cent higher than a year ago.

BENDIX AVIATION CORP.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 13.—(AP)—Bendix Aviation Corporation will show a net profit of approximately $1,000,000 for the first quarter of 1939, stockholders were told at their annual meeting here today. The figure compares with a loss of $561,000 for the corresponding period of 1938.

Improved conditions in the automotive industry account for most of the increased volume, Vincent Bendix, president, said.

The number of directors was reduced by one by the resignation of Walter J. Buettner, former vice president. Other directors and officers were re-elected.

GLENN L. MARTIN COMPANY.

BALTIMORE, April 13.—(AP)—Glenn L. Martin Company reported today its net sales for the first quarter of 1939 were $3,540,511, compared to $4,360,711 for the same period last year.

Net profit for the period this year was $682,496, compared to $628,563 for the first quarter of 1938. The quarter's income this year was equal to 62½ cents on each of the 1,092,308 common shares outstanding.

Undelivered orders increased from $30,309,083 on February 28 to $39,137,738 on March 31, Glenn L. Martin, president of the company, told stockholders at the annual meeting.

NEW YORK, April 13. — Electric Power & Light Corporation, in its 1938 annual statement, reported that its net equity in the income of subsidiaries for the year

Crackers Open Season Today Against Chattanooga Nine

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

The cousin of this fellow's wife's brother had just returned from New Orleans and he verified what those interested in the matter had feared all along.

Atlanta hasn't a chance to win the attendance trophy today unless the customers overflow into the parking lot. And even then it is doubtful if it can be done.

Now, this isn't because of the caliber of the New Orleans team, he assured a chance listener; the New Orleans fans, with Larry Gilbert gone, are highly skeptical. But they are going to the game, or at least they are buying tickets by the bushel. A paid admission is a paid admission whether the purchaser is present in spirit, or otherwise.

It seems, as usual, that city and county and state employes are advised what a fine thing it is to take about four tickets each. It seems to enhance their civic standing and helps, perhaps, to maintain their status as employes.

Once New Orleans figured up a dandy scheme to win the trophy. Patrons were admitted upon presentation of bottle tops, soap wrappers and other unique mediums of exchange. The league president ruled, however, that only the coin of the realm could be recognized in counting the customers.

But that didn't stop those New Orleans folks. They lost the trophy that year but almost every year since they have been winning it hands down. The method used is ridiculously simple. Discretion is the better part of valor.

It's a fine thing, no doubt, to win the opening day trophy. But I really think the Atlanta method is by far the best. No one exhorts Cracker fans to attend the opening game. There are no high-pressure tactics used. The Atlanta Baseball Corporation assures the fans of an interesting ball club and leaves it up to them.

Does it pay dividends? Well, if one cares to go to the trouble it is interesting to compare any reason's attendance at Ponce de Leon with any season's attendance at Heinemann park. It's usually double in Atlanta's favor.

Cracker attendance doesn't jump up to 23,000 or 24,000 and then drop down to nothing, so to speak. It is rather even over the season. There are big crowds for certain occasions and a happy balance for the other games.

And so it is perfectly fine for Atlanta to turn out anywhere between 15,000 and 17,000 for opening day. For, in the long run, it's Atlanta all the way in attendance. Few towns in the minor leagues can equal the Atlanta attendance. And there are at least two towns in the majors that would be willing to swap right now for Atlanta's probable attendance during the 1939 season.

ARE THE CRACKERS SO BAD OFF?

Observers and others are prone to talk, now and then, of the youth and inexperience of the Crackers who will charge out against the ex-Crackers of Chattanooga at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

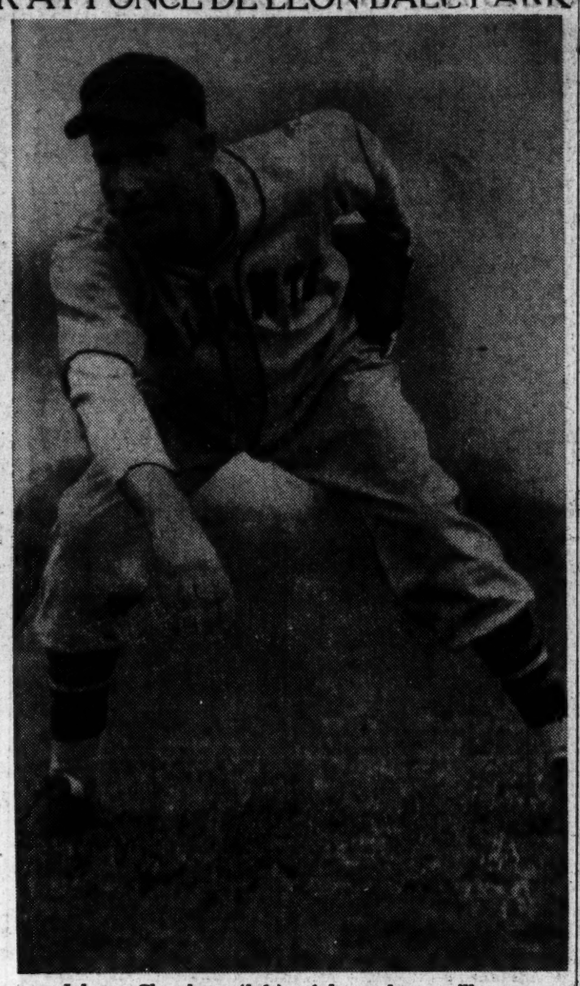

And yet what are the facts, as compared with the starting team of last year. Are there so many new faces in the Crackers' opening lineup?

May seem odd but there will be only four. John Rucker is starting in centerfield in place of Marshall Mauldin, who could appear as a pinch-hitter if needed. Alf Anderson is at second. Al Rubeling, who started at second last season, is now at third, with Hill gone. Lester Burge is opening in left. Eddie Rose was out

Johnny Chambers (left), Atlanta boy, will oppose Luman Harris (above) this afternoon as the Chattanooga Lookouts and the Atlanta Crackers open the 1939 Southern league title race. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock. Preliminaries are set for 3 o'clock, with golf stars helping to usher in the baseball season. Dorothy Kirby will hurl the first ball, with Bobby Jones the batter and Dr. Julius Hughes acting as catcher.

The game is scheduled to begin promptly on time. Steamboat Johnson and Shovel Hodge, former Southern league pitcher, have been assigned as umpires.

A year ago the Chattanooga team was picked to finish first and wound up the season in seventh place. This time their followers are more conservative. They figure the Lookouts as a first division team.

Chattanooga and Atlanta also will play Saturday and Sunday at Ponce de Leon. Red Lucas, exbig leaguer, will pitch for them Saturday and Almon Williams, another former Cracker, will take the mound Sunday. Atlanta's choices likely will be Larry Miller and Clyde Smoll.

Joe Engel, a recognized Barnum of baseball, has two goals here. As president of the Lookouts, he expects to see a clean sweep of the series and, as a dog fancier,

TECH FRESHMEN WIN TRACK MEET

Lanier Second, Tech High Third, G. M. A. Fourth and B. H. S. Fifth.

Georgia Tech freshmen were hard-pressed to win a 14-event track meet from Lanier High school, of Macon, 53 3-4 to 50 1-2, here yesterday. Tech High, of Atlanta, won third place with 20 1-2, while Georgia Military Academy with 14 and Boys' High, of Atlanta, with 13 brought up the rear.

Stewart, of Lanier, won both the low and high hurdles events. Pair, of the Georgia Tech freshman squad, also won first place in two events, the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard affair.

Summaries:

El Chico Makes Debut Saturday at Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—William Ziegler Jr.'s El Chico, future book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, will make his three-year-old debut Saturday when the metropolitan racing season opens at Jamaica.

Trainer Matt Brady said today he would send the little son of John P. Grier out in a six-furlong dash, for which he has been assigned 116 pounds.

Engel, Mann, Scott Honored by Jaycees

Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga baseball club; Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers, and Trammell Scott, president of the Southern league, were honor guests Thursday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Ansley hotel.

"Cracker Day" was observed and the largest crowd of the year enjoyed the baseball luncheon.

3 Governors Open Season at Memphis

Hurler, Batter and Umpire Are State Executives; New Orleans Expects 21,000.

By KENNETH GREGORY,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Governors, mayors and other notables unlimbered their "pitching" arms for the customary fanfare of first tosses that will inaugurate the 1939 baseball campaign of the Southern association tomorrow in four cities.

The curtain goes up for the "100th anniversary" show in Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville and New Orleans, and the opposition will be provided in order by Chattanooga, Little Rock, Knoxville and Birmingham.

In Memphis the ballyhoo for the Chickasaw-Little Rock game will find the Sons of the Legion, with a band, parading through Main street and out to the ball park, whence the Governors of three states will feature the preliminaries. Governor Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee, will toss the first pitch to Governor Carl Bailey, of Arkansas, with Governor Hugh White, of Mississippi, doing the "umpiring."

21,000 EXPECTED.

A minimum crowd of 21,000 is expected to witness the New Orleans-Birmingham game at New Orleans. That city set a new league record for opening day attendance last year with 26,261. The political bosses of the city get the crowds out. Schools will have a half-holiday and there will be a parade.

In Nashville there have been no ballyhoo plans for the inaugural combat against the Knoxville Smokies. Club officials expressed belief the opener would draw close to 11,000, principally because Larry Gilbert, the veteran association manager who transferred there after a long stay at New Orleans, will be making his debut.

After three-game stands for the opening series, there will be openings in four other cities on April 18. Parades and the usual run of festivities are on tap for the inaugurals in Chattanooga, Knoxville, Birmingham and Little Rock.

A year ago Birmingham officials staged a bathing beauty contest in front of the grandstand just before the game as the chief crowd-getter. This will be repeated again and estimates are for attendance of around 10,000.

BAREFOOT BOY THERE.

Unless he changes his mind, Engel will leave everything for the Chattanooga opening up to the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The barefoot boy, of course, will be there. Chattanooga won the small-city attendance trophy a year ago with 14,246 admissions, which pleased Engel no little, for that outstripped Atlanta, whose figure was 13,561.

The Young Businessmen's Association of Greater Little Rock will sponsor the opening day there under the slogan "Turn Out for Toporcer." George Toporcer is one of the league's new managers. The plans call for a big downtown parade the night before the game with New Orleans.

So far Knoxville has made no special crowd-getting arrangements, when the Smokies entertain Atlanta. Club officials, however, hope to lure a crowd that will better last year's 4,761 figure.

GEHRIG SUPPORTER.

Eddie Brietz, Associated Press sports reporter, predicts Lou Gehrig will play more than 100 games for the Yanks this year and hit better than .320.

Here Is Finish Of 1938 Race

Here is how the eight clubs finished the 1938 Southern Association pennant race:

CLUBS—	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
ATLANTA	91	62	.595
Nashville	84	66	.560
New Orleans	79	70	.530
Memphis	77	75	.507

Gehrig Hits Two Homers, 2 Singles

NORFOLK, Va., April 13.—(AP)—Although beaten by the Dodgers, 14-12, today, the Yankees were well satisfied because the bombardment marked the return to form of Lou Gehrig with two home runs and a pair of singles in five trips to the plate. One of the homers came with two down and a runner on base during the midst of a six-run rally by the American leaguers in the ninth inning.

Charley Keller, the rookie slated for left field, hit for the circuit with the bases loaded and Red Rolfe got one with one runner ahead.

FARR WINS FIRST FIGHT IN 2 YEARS

Tommy Turns Tables on American in London Bout.

By HARRY PERCY.

LONDON, April 13.—(UP)—Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight who lost to the best heavyweights in the United States, won his first battle in two years tonight when he scored a 12-round decision victory over Clarence (Red) Burman, of Baltimore.

A crowd of 15,000 in Harringay stadium saw blond Tommy, licked five times in the United States, score his first triumph since he rocketed to fame back in April, 1937, by outpointing Maxie Baer here.

After the Baer fight he went to the United States and was defeated by Champion Joe Louis, Jimmy Braddock, Max Baer, Lou Nova and finally by Burman, on January 13 of this year.

Tommy had a good advantage on the scales—205½ to Burman's 186½—and he made the most of it tonight in the first fight of what he hopes will again send him into the ring for another shot at the heavyweight title.

Farr, a 6-to-4 favorite and victim of what the English experts called a "home-town decision" in his New York fight against Burman, landed a heavy right hook to the ribs in the fourth round and slowed the Baltimore fighter down so much that the result never was in doubt after that.

That blow raised a nasty welt on Burman's rib and Tommy kept banging away at the sore spot for the remaining eight rounds. In the last three, however, Burman tried desperately to rally. He forced the fighting and was boring in at the final bell but Farr had a lead that could not be cut down.

Skip Alexander Takes Medal in Intercollegiate With 145

DUKE TEAM WINS CROWN WITH 612; GEORGIA, L.S.U. TIE

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

ATHENS COUNTRY CLUB, April 13.—Bespectacled Skip Alexander, lanky Duke junior, shot a brilliant four under par 69 on the final 18 holes here today to give his team the title in the fifth annual Southern intercollegiate golf tournament and win for himself the honor of low medalist.

The hard-hitting young man from Durham was way down in fifth place with a 76 after the morning round but came back with his great round for a 36-hole total of 145—four strokes better than his nearest rival, Sonny Swift, of Georgia, who had rounds of 75-74—149.

Two of Alexander's teammates, Guy Berner and Bob Brownell, were tied for third place with 150. In all, Duke placed five men in the 16-man championship flight, play in which starts tomorrow.

PLACES ONE.

Tech placed one man and Georgia two in the top-flight. Jack Cook was the lone Jacket to make the select circle which includes scores of 156 or better, he had a 153. Elliott Waddell joined Swift in the championship flight for Georgia.

Great stroking by the Duke team completely shattered L. S. U.'s strangle-hold on the team title. Alexander, Johnny Cree, Brownell and Henry Russell combined to give the Blue Devils a total score of 612, while Georgia and the Bayou Tigers tied for second place with scores of 620.

Georgia's team was made up of Byron Bower, Swift, Waddell and Calhoun Bowen. Henry Castillo, Bert McDowell, Lee Ramsel and Stan Patterson did the firing for the Tigers.

Other teams finished in the following order. Duke's No. 2 team, 630; North Carolina, 632; Alabama, 633; Citadel and Davidson, 651; Tech, 655; Vanderbilt, 666; Miami, 681; Sewanee, 720; South Carolina, 758.

TWO GREAT SHOTS.

Alexander made two great shots during his sparkling round which was only two strokes off Charlie Yates' course record 67. On the par five sixth he chipped a shot into the cup for an eagle three, and on the 16th he sank a 40-foot putt for a birdie. He started badly going one stroke over par on the first two holes but a birdie and his eagle left him one under as he made the turn. His card:

Par out	444	535	434—36
Alexander out	554	433	434—35
Par in	543	444	535—37—36—73
Alexander in	452	443	435—34—35—69

Two rounds of match play will be played tomorrow with semi-finals and finals are scheduled for Saturday. There will be four flights of 16 each and two of eight men.

C. C. Pegram, of Davidson, added color to the tournament by sinking a tee shot on the eighth hole for an ace. He used a six-iron for the 167-yard shot.

DUKE GOLFERS GRAB HONORS IN S.I.C. TOURNEY

Blue Devil golfers walked away with practically all the honors in the qualifying round of the S. I. C. golf tournament yesterday at Athens. Skip Alexander, at the right, medalist with a total of 145, is shaking hands in the locker room after the day's play with a teammate, Guy Berner, who tied another Duke entrant, Bob Brownell, for third place honors with 150. Five Blue Devils made the championship flight with scores of 156 or better.

Pairings and qualifying scores of players who made the championship bracket of 16 for the fifth annual Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament:

S. E. C. Tank Meet At Knoxville Tonight

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 13.—(AP)—The Southeastern conference swimming meet will open at the University of Tennessee pool tomorrow night with representatives from five schools entered.

Preliminary events are scheduled the first night with the finals to be run off Saturday. Florida, with eight men entered, is defending champion.

Other schools, with the number of entries, are Louisiana State, 13; Georgia, 11; Georgia Tech, 2; Tennessee, 4.

there last opening day. And Russ Peters is at short instead of Buster Chatham.

Outside of these four and Luman Harris, the pitcher, who was on hand all last year, the Crackers are the same. Paul Richards is behind the plate, Jack Bolling is on first, Rubeling is at third and Emil Mailho is in right.

LOOKOUTS BRAND-NEW.

There is only one starter of last season remaining on the Chattanooga team. That's Jimmy Hitchcock, shortstop. There is a new man at every other position. And a new manager.

With Alex Hooks at first, Eddie Rose in left and Jim Galvin behind the plate, the Lookouts will start with three ex-Crackers. And Johnny Chambers, an Atlanta boy, will be on the mound.

Gone from last year's starting team are Fred Sington, Dee Miles, Johnny Gill, Walter Millies, Bloodworth, Honeycutt and Dale Alexander.

Kiki Cuyler is starting out, as said, with a brand-new team. Joe Engel calls it a "new deal team." He is confident he has rid the Lookouts of what he termed "clubhouse lawyers."

MEMPHIS IS LARGELY THE SAME.

Memphis, like Atlanta, has six players returning, but the Chicks are beginning under a new manager, Frank Brazill. The managerial turnover, of course, was very brisk. Only Richards and Neil Caldwell are back at the same old stands.

Caldwell has an entirely new cast at Knoxville—all nine players are new. Roger Peckinpaugh (New Orleans), Larry Gilbert (Nashville) and Cuyler all have eight players that didn't start last season.

Dutch Zwilling (Birmingham) and Specs Torporcer (Little Rock) each are taking over a new club and have six new players in the regular lineup.

At the beginning of a new season, the pitching of Atlanta, Memphis and New Orleans ranks as the best, with the speed of the Atlanta club standing out over any other entry.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

Southern association baseball writers recently gave Manager Richards an unqualified vote of confidence when, in one poll, 14 out of 16 selected the Crackers to repeat, and, in a second poll, 9 out of 17 did the same.

These writers were not ignorant of the fact that Tom Sunkel and Bill Beckman, winners of 41 games between them, and Johnny Hill, the clutch hitter, have departed.

They simply were loath to sell Richards' stock as a manager short and, at the same time, were mindful of the fact that if help is needed Atlanta will go out and get it.

Anyway, the old bell rings at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. And it is expected that the Crackers will take a lot of beating.

BRILLIANT DOG SHOW.

The 27th annual Atlanta Dog Show, starting today, promises to be the most brilliant of them all because of the caliber of entries from all sections of the country.

Sponsored by The Constitution, the show will run for two full days at the city auditorium. Dog lovers will find the finest of their favorite breeds on display.

The week end in sports is brilliant in its variety. For the baseball fans there is the three-game series between Atlanta and Chattanooga; for the dog lovers the big show at the auditorium, and for the horse lovers the annual junior horse show at the Roxboro Riding Academy.

Opelika, Derby Eligible, Is Victor at Keeneland

Kurtsinger Up on J. C. Milan's "Dark Horse;" Sports Writer Runs Second.

KEENELAND, Ky., April 13.—(AP)—J. C. Milam's Kentucky Derby "dark horse," Opelika, stepped away from two other Derby nominees today to win the Parrish purse before a crowd of 6,000 gathered at Keeneland race course for the opening of the spring racing season in Kentucky.

In the feature race of the card, Torchy won the $2,500 added Phoenix Hotel Handicap with Easy Mon, a Derby eligible, second, and The Fighter third. Torchy, almost overlooked in the mutuels, paid $18.80, $9 and $5. Easy Mon paid backers $10 and $4.60 while The Fighter returned $3.20 for the show. Hal Price Headley's seven-year-old sprinter, Pre-eminent, finished fourth.

Opelika, the favorite, with Charley Kurtsinger up for the first time since he was beaten on War Admiral by Seabiscuit, led Milky Way Farm's Sports Writer, also a Derby nominee, to the wire by two lengths, stepping the three-quarters in 1:13 3-5.

Rude Awakening, a non-Derby eligible, was third, and Decatur, another Milam Derby candidate, fourth. The Milam entry paid $5.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stables uncovered a Derby threat as Roll and Toss raced to victory in the Crestwood purse. Valdina stable's Viscounty, the only other Derby nominee, finished second with Brown Ben third in the field of six. Roll and Toss went the mile and one-sixteenth in the excellent time of 1:45 3-5 to score by a length and a half.

Fourth Flight—R. M. Hamaker beat W. E. Floyd, 4-3.

Jack Roper's Eye Cut By Sparring Partner

Mike Jacobs Continues Beating Ballyhoo Tom-Toms for Louis' Challenger.

By ROBERT MYERS.

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(AP)—Jack Roper, after some 16 years as a virtual unknown, suddenly finds himself a valuable piece of bric-a-brac—the immediate challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing crown.

As Co-Promoters Mike Jacobs and Tom Gallery continued to issue optimistic predictions on the success of California's first heavyweight title bout in 30 years, and Champion Joe whacked methodically away at his training, attention was centered today on Roper and a razor-thin slit under his right eye.

Old Jack has been cut up more ways than Primo Carnera's contract ever was, but no one ever cared much, including Jack. But now that he's the other half of a championship promotion great concern is felt for his well-being.

"Hummn," rasped Uncle Mike, clicking his upper plate. "A comedian!"

BIG ATTENDANCE SEEN BOTH DAYS AT AUDITORIUM

Finest Dogs in Atlanta and Nation Enter Big Event.

The bluebloods of the dog world today will seek to uphold their heritage as the Atlanta Kennel Club's 27th annual dog show, sponsored by The Constitution, gets under way this morning at 9 o'clock at the auditorium.

A new attendance record is expected for the two-day event which will close tomorrow night with the crowning of a best-in-show winner to succeed Davishill Little Man, the fine little wire that died recently. The auditorium is the best site the Kennel Club has ever procured and with the admission price at 25 and 50 cents a big crowd seems assured.

Both days the show hours will be from 9 o'clock until 10. Judging will begin at 10 each morning.

WILL JUDGE.

The judges will be Mrs. Winifrede Atkinson, of Sharon, Pa.; S. H. Beddow, of Fairfield, Ala.; John J. Morton, of Charlotte, and Lewis S. Worden, of New York.

Mrs. Atkinson will judge the children's handling class, Mr. Beddow, the terriers, the terrier group, boxers, Boston terriers, poodles; Mr. Morton, the collies and Shetland sheepdogs; Mr. Worden, all other breeds, variety groups, and best in show.

More than 500 prizes of almost every description will be given to the various winners.

Competition is expected to be stronger this year than ever before with many outstanding dogs entered. Many have been consistent winners on the circuit. Atlanta dog owners have some very fine entries and are expected to make a strong showing.

MOSS SHOW.

This year's show will be under the management of Edgar A. Moss, an American Kennel Club licensed superintendent.

Many champion dogs are entered. For a dog to have the coveted "Ch." in front of his name, he must compete with his breed in a minimum of three shows and must have a total of 15 points. The judges in each of the three shows must be different.

Much interest is certain when the dachshunde and boxers are judged. Mrs. Wallace Pfleuger's Lisa is one of the finest dachshunde in the south. Lisa was best of winners at Westminster, best of show at Winter Haven and winners bitch at Cleveland. Lisa is undefeated in her sex. Ch. Herman Rinkton, owned by Mrs. Annis A. Jones, of South Orange, N. J., went best in show at Knoxville recently. Herman was the best hound in 1938. Herman won the hound group rosette in last year's show here.

MET TWICE.

In boxer competition two fine dogs have met twice and each has won and lost. At Chattanooga Ch. Hermes v Uracher-Wasserfall Se-Sumbula went best in show, defeating Dimple of Tulgey Wood, owned by I. J. Osbun, president of the Atlanta Kennel Club. However, at the Chicago specialty show Dimple got the nod over Hermes to be named best of winners.

Interest in boxers probably has increased more during the last year than in any other breed. A five-point in boxers is assured. Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Adams have fine boxers, H. Morgan Milner, secretary of the Kennel Club, has a seven-month-old female, Betta v Sigurd-Nike which is unlefeated in her sex, having been winners bitch at Chattanooga, Winter Haven and Knoxville.

RARE BREED ENTERED IN DOG SHOW TODAY

MR. JOHN D. BLAKELY WITH HIS TWO BRIARDS.

Rare Briards on Display At Dog Show Opening

Atlantans Have Only Two in South; Briard Is Species of French Sheep Dog.

By TOM McRAE.

Briards are rare as chunks of radium and cost almost as much.

Atlantans will get their first opportunity to see a Briard at the Atlanta Kennel Club's dog show standing today. A Briard is a breed of French sheep dog, resembling a yak, and it takes two glances to tell whether he's coming or going. He is a large shaggy beast, standing from 23 to 27 inches high and averaging about 100 pounds.

A New Yorker, returning home one night about sun-up, saw a Briard on the street. When he saw the Briard again next sun-up he knew for sure it was not the whisky, and he wrote a letter to a paper complaining of the prevalence of bison in the city.

TWO ON EXHIBIT.

The two Briards will be exhibited by Mr. and Mrs. John D. Blakely, of Northside drive. The dogs are owned by their son-in law, Frank J. Black, general musical director of NBC.

The Blacks bought the Briards to serve as companions and guardians for their baby when they visited their farm in Pennsylvania. The farm was sold, and the Briards were sent down here to be kept.

Mr. Black is very fond of Briards. The sire of one of his dogs, after his transportation from France and duty had been paid, cost about $10,000.

No Briard has ever been shown at an Atlanta dog show. The two the Blakelys are showing for Mr. Black are the only two in the south. The male is named Thomas, pronounced Tomah, as any first-year French student will tell you; and the female, Gigie (Geegee). There are only 30 owners of Briards in the United States. There are only four in New York City. Dr. Alexis Carrel raises them on his island off the coast of Brittany.

The Blakelys are very fond of Irish setters and sometimes on Sunday afternoons they let the Briards out to run and play with the setters. But motorists passing by saw the huge strange-looking dogs, and curiosity compelled them to stop. Sometimes 12 or 15 cars stopped and asked about the Briards. Mr. and Mrs. Blakely are not aloof; they simply do not seek publicity, so the Briards have been keep shut up lately.

USED IN WAR.

The Blakely home is about 125 feet from the road, but if a car so much as slows down the Briards instinctly detect it and start barking. Briards have an extra claw, called a dew-claw, on each hind leg. They are strong and lithe and well adapted for the rigors of outdoor life. During the war Briards were used in liaison work, and their number so diminished that it is difficult to obtain good specimens.

Thomas and Gigie were washed and groomed yesterday and are ready for the show. This is the first show they have ever entered. Thomas is slightly underweight, weighing about 95. Gigie was recently shipped to New York to undergo an operation, and she too is thin, weighing about 80. Briards seem about twice as large as they really are because of their long hair. Their eyes and nose are buried in eyebrows, whiskers and sideburns.

Alexander Wollcott described his Briard:

"He's only a pup, but he weighs several tons. The like of him for charm, bounce and character has never before been seen in those parts (Castleton, Vt.). I count those years wasted when I did not have a Briard."

PURPLE, SMITHIE GOLF TEAMS OFF TO PREP TOURNEY

Squads Leave for High Point, N. C., for South Atlantic Meet.

Tech High and Boys' High's golf teams will leave the city tonight for High Point, N. C., where they will participate in a 36-hole medal play South Atlantic prep tournament Saturday.

Boys' High's team, which recently upset Tech High, will be composed of Alan Yates, youngest brother of Charlie, the British amateur champion; Weldon Branch, Atlanta's junior champion; George Sargent Jr., young son of the veteran East Lake professional, and Billy Caye, a former city junior champion.

Tech High will be represented by Luke Barnes, winner of several prep tournaments last year; B. G. Stowe Jr., Billy Atkinson and Billy Johnson.

Following Saturday's tournament the Atlanta prep stars will enter the annual Griffin invitation April 21-22, the Chattanooga Rotary tournament April 28-29, and the annual G. I. A. A. at Augusta early in May.

GEORGE RIPLEY SHOOTS AN ACE

George Ripley Jr., one of the junior members of the Capital City Club, sank a tee shot on the third hole at Capital City Thursday afternoon for his first ace. The hole is 145 yards from the tee and almost completely surrounded by hazards.

Three other junior members, Dick Hardwick Jr., Gene Dahlbender Jr. and John McDougal, played in the foursome with Ripley, who had a 42 for the nine holes.

Jimmy Thompson At Capital City Today

Jimmy Thompson, the longest-driving golf professional in the country, arrived in the city Thursday on a business trip and will be a guest of Howard Beckett, the Capital City professional, in a round at the Capital City course today.

Thompson will spend a couple of days visiting several professionals before resuming his trip to the east.

McCarley, Brandt Win at East Lake

P. D. McCarley and M. V. Brandt were winners Thursday afternoon on the East Lake courses in the regular midweek blind bogey. The winning score was 77.

Qualifying Ends For Women Today

Qualifying rounds for East Lake's women's handicaps tournament will end with this morning's play.

Match play will start next week and will be played in easy stages.

Two Days Left To Enter Tourney

Only two more days are left for East Lake's members to qualify for a special handicap tournament. The preliminary round must be completed Saturday.

Only players whose handicaps are 16 or over will be permitted to participate in the tournament.

Players will qualify from scratch, but handicaps will apply in all matches.

Mrs. Baker Birdies Sixth at Candler

Mrs. Harold Baker sank a 125-yard six iron shot on the sixth hole at Candler Park Thursday afternoon for a birdie three. The ball hit a few feet in front of the cup and rolled in for the best shot Mrs. Baker has ever made. She had a 45 for the nine holes.

Mrs. McLemore played her first round of golf with Mrs. Baker and had a 66.

Butts and Hartman Talk at Valdosta

VALDOSTA, Ga., April 13.—Wallace Butts, head football coach of the University of Georgia, and Bill Hartman, an assistant, have been in Valdosta several days. At a dinner meeting of the Jaycees, moving pictures of football games in which the university squad participated, were shown.

In remarks made to the Jaycees when he was presented, Coach Butts deplored the fact that the university owned no airplane in which it might kidnap likely prospective players, referring indirectly to the recent trip by airplane to L. S. U. by Homer Passmore and Brooker Blanton, two Valdosta High school football stars who graduate in June.

Butts and Hartman had curiosity enough to meet the two players who were transported to L. S. U. by airplane and who have since made a visit to Tennessee at the invitation of the head coach, who also was a recent visitor to this city.

Junior Horse Show Entries Close Tonight

The show will be held at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Roxboro Riding Club and indications point to a record-breaking entry.

It's the biggest show of the year for Atlanta's junior horsemen and there will be more than a dozen classes for the youngsters to compete in.

Three special events have been arranged for adult riders.

Roosevelt Says Arm Is Ready for Opener

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Pitcher Franklin D. Roosevelt reported today that his arm was in good shape for the opening game of the American league baseball season next Monday.

The President accepted the invitation of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, to attend the opener against the New York Yankees and to throw out the first ball.

Griffith and Ford Frick, president of the National league, presented to the President annual passes on behalf of both the major leagues.

The National league pass was encased in a piece of the hide of an elephant that died at the zoo here some time ago, and the baseball executives said the President remarked laughingly that it reminded him of the Republican party.

Heavyweight Wrestling Returns Here Tuesday

After an absence of more than six months, heavyweight wrestling will return to Warren arena Tuesday night. The first two or three programs will be staged indoors, but as the weather becomes warmer the cards will be shifted to Ponce de Leon park. This arrangement will enable promoters to stage weekly shows despite weather conditions, since any time the weather is inclement, the grapplers can do their stuff at the arena.

Dorv Roche, one of the most popular wrestlers ever to appear in Atlanta, will become one of the principals in Tuesday night's main event. Of the ex-Scranton, Pa., coal miner, it can be truthfully said that during his appearance here over the past five years he has never once appeared in a dull match. Where Dorv goes, so goes action. Fans will welcome his return.

Roche's opponent as well as the two supporting matches will be announced shortly.

MONROE AGGIES WALLOP MARIST

Smashing 20 base hits on Glenn field here Thursday afternoon the Monroe Aggies defeated Marist, 22-7. Wiley Butts, freshman pitcher for the Aggies, held the Cadets to seven hits, but the Van Houten team made them count.

A first-inning rally featured by Van Davis' triple with the bases loaded, gave the Aggies a lead of eight runs. The Aggies staged another splurge in the third for six runs which featured Lamar Murphy's double. Bill Yearout turned his speed into four hits with four bunts as a hitting feature along with J. B. Ruark, who hit safely in three trips to the plate. Parker with four out of five and Hearn with a triple and two singles also featured.

Wasser and Leatherwood led the Marist hitting with two hits each. Leatherwood also scored three times.

The Aggies meet G. M. A. at Walker park Saturday afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock (eastern time).

he expects his entries to come through again in the annual Atlanta show at the city auditorium.

President Earl Mann, of the Crackers, who invited Engel to quarter his squad in the old men's home while here, is interested solely in the baseball series. Like Manager Paul Richards, he holds that the young Crackers are the team to beat in the pennant race.

QUALIFYING DATE SET FOR TOURNEY

Qualifying for John A. White's "treasure-chest" golf tournament will start at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and continue through Sunday afternoon.

Only 18 holes will count in the scoring race and the round may be played eighth Saturday or Sunday.

Four special prizes will be given to the two men and women low scorers.

Some 60-odd other prizes will be given for non-golf ability.

A special committee will be stationed at various places on the nine-hole course to determine winners of the "hidden-treasures."

NAVY BILL PASSES HOUSE UNOPPOSED

45-Million Improvement Proposed for Nation's Shore Facilities.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Without a word of opposition, the house passed and sent to the senate today a bill authorizing $45,024,000 worth of improvements in the navy's shore facilities.

Then, in rapid-fire order, it completed congressional action on legislation to authorize modernization of three submarines and the acquisition by the navy of a high-speed tanker from the maritime commission.

The short construction bill contained 87 projects, including a $6,500,000 supply depot for Oakland, Cal., which the navy long has sought, and an $8,485,000 graving dock for the Pearl harbor, Hawaii, navy yard.

Representative Drewry, Democrat, Virginia, told the house the proposed construction was essential because many of the navy's shore facilities had been allowed to deteriorate until they were no longer fit for use.

"I don't think it has been a good fiscal policy," he added.

Expenditures authorized by the shore construction bill were classified as follows: Drydocking requirements, $16,945,000; fleet maintenance facilities, $1,312,000; aeronautical requirements, $1,241,000; ordinance depots, $2,328,000; supply facilities, $8,820,000; hospital facilities, $1,483,000; radio stations, $286,500 and training, education, welfare and housing $12,608,500.

DICTATORS BLAMED FOR EXPORT ILLS

Fascist Policies Dealt Blow to Reciprocal Trade, Wallace Asserts.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—The New Deal's reciprocal trade program has been kept from full success by the economic self-sufficiency policies of the dictators, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said today.

Testifying before a senate appropriations subcommittee in charge of the billion-dollar agriculture appropriation bill, the quiet-spoken secretary was pessimistic regarding the future of the trade program as far as agriculture is concerned.

Because of the dictators, he said, "it has not brought back to farmers of the United States more than a small portion of their lost markets for wheat, and, due to world conditions, apparently can not do so in the near future."

He advocated a practical international wheat agreement to permit each exporting nation to place on the market the same amount year after year.

Southern senators are fighting for reinsertion of $250,000,000 for parity payments, an item struck from the measure by the house.

Wallace was skeptical about advisability of dropping the cotton loan program, under which the government has paid producers about 10 cents per pound on 11,000,000 bales. Cotton prices might drop two or three cents a pound if it is discontinued, he said.

Cost of the cotton and wheat programs, he continued, could be financed by taxes somewhat similar to processing levies outlawed by the supreme court in 1935. He argued that no better way of financing farm programs has yet been found.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 41

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The prisoners gasped in amazement as the veil dropped from the rising figure, disclosing a beautiful white woman, scantily clad but magnificently jeweled. Surprisingly beautiful though she was, her face bore the stamp of bitter experience, of grief, or evil passions.

Her piercing eyes surveyed the prisoners one by one, and presently she addressed them in a voice alluringly husky. "How came you to the realm of the yellow-men? How is it that you hold your lives so worthless as to place them in the hands of Ahtea, Queen of Tohr?"

Major Burton turned startled eyes to Dr. Wong. Tohr! This was the goal for which they had been searching. They had expected to find it in mouldy ruins, a dead city enveloped by the jungle. Instead, it was a living city which might in the end envelop them.

Tarzan answered the queen. "You know how we came. Mungo brought us." "Why?" Ahtea demanded. "Ask him. I don't know," the apeman shrugged indifferently. The two stood glaring at each other icily. Conflict between them was inevitable.

The girls and boys in the O'Keefe Junior High school band, under the direction of Owen Seitz, like to get out in the sun to practice for the Fifth District High School Band Festival, which is to be held April 21 under the sponsorship of The Constitution. Here they are, hard at work near the school. Included in the group are Theodore Holbrook, Betty Kendrick, Lorraine Carter, Mary Lou Shippey, Sonia Wolff, Emily Ann Carter, Edwin Mize, Hazel Ann Fraser, Alan Stanford, Lucie McMurray, David Castelaw, Gloria Still, Douglas Baldwin, Marco Goodwin, John Thiesen, Thomas Soloman, Jack Little, Alice Lewis, Roslyn Ison, Tommy Tift, Boyd Fink, Charles Rhorer, Lennaird Bethea, Lammie Thurmond, Bob Daniels, Bettie Houston, George Goza, John Dodson, Dorothy Daniel, Bronston Cass, Rainey Williams, Jim Varner, Roy Spoon, Alan Harword, Howard Turner, Larry Dean, Wendall McArthur, Alvin Greenberg, David Pledger, Billy Price and Almeda Brock.

TWO COUNTIES MAP DRIVE ON PLAGUE

Tuberculosis Educational Campaign Planned in Fulton, DeKalb.

Plans were formulated at a board meeting of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association yesterday for an intensive educational campaign against tuberculosis in Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Special committees were appointed under the general chairmanship of Dr. T. I. Willingham, head of the association's medical staff. A study of the reports for Fulton county revealed that maintenance of the clinic and nursing service during 1938 for 4,534 patients cost $19,338. This work was made possible by private funds in the amount of $8,838, receipts from the sale of Christmas seals, tax co-operation, and the Community Chest.

Leaders of the campaign appointed yesterday include on the medical committee, Dr. C. C. Aven, chairman; Drs. E. A. Bancker, Champ Holmes and George F. Klugh; industrial committee, Charles Watt, chairman; P. E. Glenn, R. K. Rambo and John Rockwood; educational committee, Miss Myra Graves, chairman; Mrs. Daisy Bagwell, Rev. Theodore Will, Dr. Elizabeth Broach and Knox Walker. Forrester B. Washington will be in charge of the work for the negro division.

EFFORTS TO HALT COAL STRIKE FUTILE

New York Faces Shortage as Appalachian Shutdown Continues.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Spokesmen for the soft coal industry ended tonight another day of futile effort to end the 13-day-old shutdown in the Appalachian area without taking positive action to assure an adequate supply for New York city in the event of a shortage.

Concerned by the city's dwindling supply of coal for its vast rapid transit system and other essential services, Mayor LaGuardia discussed the situation for more than an hour with the operators and United Mine Workers of America.

LaGuardia said the city might buy or lease a mine unless the negotiators reach a wage-and-hour agreement soon and permit 338,000 miners, idle since March 31, to resume mining soft coal.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN TO MEET APRIL 28-29

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 13.—Featured speakers for the state convention of the Georgia branch of the American Association of University Women to be held here April 28-29, will be Dr. Elizabeth Fuller Jackson, of Atlanta, and T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus.

Dr. Jackson, director of the southern division of A. A. U. W., will speak on "Adventurers All." Mrs. Fort, who is president of the board of education of Columbus, will speak on "The Postion of the College Woman in the Economic World."

The executive board will be entertain d at a dinner Friday night and a luncheon will be held Saturday at Fort Benning followed by a tour of the post.

TRI-HI-Y CLUB GIRLS TO MEET IN GRIFFIN

Three-Day Conference Opens Tonight; Mrs. Ryland Knight To Speak.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 13.—High school girls, representing 36 clubs in north Georgia, will attend the North Georgia Girls' Christian Life Conference, to be held here tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, with members of the Griffin Tri-Hi-Y Clubs as hostesses.

A fellowship supper, at which Mrs. Ryland Knight, wife of the pastor of Atlanta's Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, will be the principal speaker, will open the conference tomorrow night. Mrs. Knight will present the keynote address on the theme "My Part in a Christian Democracy," which will be discussed in group sessions Saturday morning and afternoon.

Saturday's night session will be a camp fire supper, at which Mrs. Howard R. Carter, of Columbus, will speak on "The Road to Happiness."

Two sessions will be held Sunday, with H. W. Rohrer, state Y. M. C. A. secretary, speaking at the Sunday school hour and J. L. Fortney will speak at the closing session at the morning church hour in Griffin Methodist church.

Mr. Fortney, while superintendent of schools in Douglas, organized Georgia's first Tri-Hi-Y Club. The organization now includes 125 clubs, with a membership of more than 3,000 high and junior high school girls.

A similar conference will be held the following week end in Moultrie, and a negro girl's conference will be held the first week end in May at Georgia Normal school in Albany.

100 TO GUARD LINDY ON ARRIVAL TONIGHT

Barbara Hutton and Son Also on Aquitania Bound for New Pork.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—More than 100 policemen were assigned today to guard Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh when he arrives on the liner Aquitania tomorrow night.

Police said the precaution was "customary," but they pointed out that on this trip Lindbergh had received publicity on sailing from his self-imposed exile in Europe. He last arrived in this country with Mrs. Lindbergh secretly on December 5, 1937, and remained for three months.

Barbara Hutton, 5-and-10 store heiress and estranged wife of Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, is also aboard the Aquitania with their son, Lance, 3.

Ball Players 'Rescue' Lily Pons From Crowd

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 13. (AP)—What price fame!

WYNN TO PAY ALIMONY.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—The comedian Ed Wynn was ordered in state supreme court today to pay $150 weekly temporary alimony to his second wife, Mrs. Frieda Mierse Wynn, a former showgirl who in suing for separation asked $250 weekly for maintenance.

CHANDLER HITS NEW DEAL.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 13.—(AP)—Governor A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, interrupted a vacation here long enough to tell a group of lawyers that the Democratic party cannot long remain in power unless it returns to a sound business policy and ends the federal deficit.

NEWEST ARMY PLANES FLY AT FORT BENNING

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 13.—The latest models in all types of army planes, including the "Flying Fortress," took part in air maneuvers today at Lawson field, Fort Benning. Planes came from Maxwell Field, Ala.; Mitchel Field, L. I.; Langley Field, Va., and Barksdale Field, La.

In the Maxwell Field contingent were approximately 100 officers and 150 enlisted men, comprising the entire faculty and student body of the Air Corps Tactical school.
